6 WEEKS' RAIDS BALK INVASION, BRITISH ASSERT

Claim Nazis Stopped by Steady Attacks.

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP).—A great victory in a six-weeks-long aerial counter offensive that smashed a full dress German attempt at invasion was claimed officially by the British today and put down as one more historic defense of these islands.

Thru its news service the air ministry told the story—how British bombers had doggedly ridden the air over a 2,000-mile Nazi front, alternately attacking and observing, until the German invasion fleet had been dispersed at last and German invasion springboards had been wrecked from Narvik, Norway, to Bordeaux, far to the south in France.

It was the first such sweeping success yet claimed against the peril that long has lain across the channel.

One-Fifth of Producing Capacity.

It also was claimed by the air ministry that a fifth of all the Nazis' productive capacity for war had been affected by British bombs which night after night have fallen from the far interior of Germany to the German-held French coastline.

Despite the restrained exultation of the air ministry's narrative of the broken attempt at invasion, official sources reiterated the customary British warning:

"The threat persists and will persist as long as [German] naval units, barges, troops and air forces are concentrated along the extensive coastline of the enemy-occupied countries."

The ministry named Sept. 5 as the day the mightiest British effort was begun against the invasion that did not materialize, and it was declared that from the very first the British knew the German plans.

Unwise to Reveal Earlier.

"Even now," the ministry said, "the story can be told only in part. Until lately it would have been extremely unwise to let the enemy know how much we knew of his preparations and of the effect on them of RAF attacks."

This was the gist of the ministry's account:

British pilots brought back stories of concentrations of German troops and aircraft "in every available port and harbor," and from Narvik to Bordeaux the RAF went out on a continuing mission of harassment and vigilance. Each day, meantime, saw more and more imposing arrivals [of Nazi men and materials] until "hundreds of barges and other war equipment were assembled at Antwerp, Calais, Dunkirk, Ostend, Nieuport, and Le Havre.

2 Trains to a Barge.

The Germans were getting ready—with small warships, with 150 foot self-propelled barges each able to carry two trainloads of men. They had commandeered and rebuilt every available barge of more than 500 tons to carry tanks and guns readily.

At hand, too, were German submarines. At one time and in a single harbor—Le Havre—45 big merchant ships lay ready. Inland, the Germans quickly threw up new aircraft shelters; railroad trains sped urgently back and forth between Germany and the Low Countries.

While the RAF went on with its tireless bombing campaign, the British navy joined in briefly with a bombardment of the port of Cherbourg.

Then followed what the ministry termed widespread damage to all the bases at Dunkirk, at Brest, at Calais, all along the coast.

Long Continuing Attacks.

The day and hour at which the Germans gave up was not mentioned; the ministry's inference was that the plan to invade died slowly in the minds of the German command.

The assertion that 20 per cent of the Germans' productive capacity had been touched by British bombers, in a long, continuing action paralleling the counter offensive against invasion, was attributed by the ministry to an informed foreign industrialist, and these were among the specific claims made directly or indirectly:

That the Germans had been forced to plan the "rebuilding" of Hamburg, their greatest seaport and site of warship construction facilities.

That there had been great destruction of German grain food supplies.

That vital factories had been brought to a standstill.

That there has been much damage to Berlin [illegible] facilities.

That there was open criticism in Germany of the effectiveness of German antiaircraft guns.

There's a Catch as Cop Halts GOP Women!

BY MARCIA WINN.

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 23.—On the opening day of their downstate barnstorming motorcade Republican women ran smack into practical politics in the person of a Democratic speed cop.

Young Mrs. Robert S. Pirie of Lake Forest was spinning along gaily outside of Blue Island this morning, her car bright with G. O. P. banners, pennants and stickers. A car decorated with Roosevelt insignia drew alongside and out hopped a deputy sheriff, star in hand.

"Is this good!" he exclaimed in high satisfaction. "When I go into court with this. . . ."

Becomes More Friendly.

The women protested and implored. They offered him a Republican banner. They said they were in a hurry because the caravan of 35 other cars and a sound truck awaited them at Chicago Heights.

"That's fine," said the deputy. "I'd like to hold it up all day."

He became more friendly, however, when he noticed Mrs. Ernest B. Griffin, vice chairman of the Republican state central committee.

"I COULD let you off," he addressed her. "You could do me a favor.

He Needs a Few Votes.

"I'm up for reëlection and my precinct is Republican. Carley Carlson is the precinct captain. Now, if you could promise to swing them necessary votes. . . ."

He then learned there was a newspaper reporter in the car. His demeanor changed.

"Aw," he began in discomfiture. "Say . . . say . . . if this got out . . . say you'd better get along."

Later, at Champaign, when the story was retold, one woman commented: "You should have told him it was lucky no one arrested Paul Revere."

Talk in Seven Towns.

Between 8 a. m. and 9:30 p. m., between Chicago and this city, the women talked their way thru seven towns and 199 miles of Illinois. When the caravan wasn't talking, it was singing. When voices grew hoarse, horns honked. When car batteries dimmed, the women waved flags, tossed pamphlets and pasted red, white, and blue "No Third Term" stickers on other cars.

German-French Deal Reported

Nazis May Get Bases

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 24, Thursday (AP).—A proposed new French-German agreement, giving the axis powers air and naval bases in all France and the French empire, but not handing over the French fleet or putting the French in war against Britain, was reported tonight to be in the hands of the Petain government at Vichy.

Reports from Vichy indicated Marshal Henri Philippe Petain himself may go to Paris soon to sign the agreement, which also would extend the frontier of the unoccupied zone north to the Seine.

This would give the Vichy régime a part of Paris—ostensibly for the purpose of returning the seat of government there.

Strategic Air Bases.

Naval bases which would fall to the axis would include those at Dakar, capital of French West Africa; Toulon, on the Mediterranean coast of continental France; Casablanca, in French Morocco; and Bizerte, in Tunisia.

The air bases would include those in both North Africa and Syria—strategically located for a possible drive against Egypt and the near east. The French navy's job would be to defend those bases against attack by the British—as it did at Dakar.

The agreement, expected soon to replace the existing armistice arrangement, also would bring about the release of all French war prisoners.

The new frontier line between occupied and unoccupied territory would be moved north from Tours and the Swiss frontier to follow the Seine. Paris, which straddles the river, would be under a special régime, part ruled by the Petain government and part by the Germans.

A Temporary Arrangement.

Despite Vice Premier Pierre Laval's anxiety for a definite peace settlement, it was said that Marshal Petain and others of the cabinet refused flatly to pay the price of allying France with the axis against Britain.

"A transition arrangement therefore was found," informed sources said, "whereby the first armistice agreement, which expires within a few days, will be replaced by another purely temporary arrangement similar to the one outlined."

Petain, it was said, was persuaded to accept such an agreement as the lesser of two evils. The only alternative was reported to have been German and Italian occupation of what remains of unoccupied France.

Hitler Sees Franco

Gen. Franco.

MADRID, Spain, Oct. 23 (AP).—Adolf Hitler and Francisco Franco, the rulers of Germany and of Spain, met today in the first of a series of secretive but obviously momentous conferences with the likely intent of fitting Spain as well as France into a solid continental phalanx against Britain.

The first two and one-half hour meeting was held this afternoon in a Spanish railway car at the border between Hendaye, France, and Irun, Spain, where the Pyrenees mountains slope down toward the Bay of Biscay.

The foreign ministers of Germany and Spain, Joachim von Ribbentrop and Ramon Serrano Suner, sat in.

[The German radio in a broadcast heard in New York said that Hitler and Von Ribbentrop were accompanied to the Spanish meeting by Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel and Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch, Germany's ranking military chiefs.]

Spaniards Are Worried.

From Berlin came reports that the conference proceeded in a spirit of cordiality and that it had been concluded late tonight. Earlier reports indicated the talks would continue tomorrow.

From official Spain there was only a long withheld announcement that a meeting occurred.

Some Spaniards, who last week welcomed reports that the possibility of Spanish entrance into the war had been excluded, experienced a new uneasiness when they learned of the conference. There were others who said they thought the meetings were mere window dressing for effect on world opinion.

Important Stakes.

The fact that Hitler himself has moved in, both for yesterday's conference in Paris with Vice Premier Pierre Laval of France and for the parleys with Franco, was taken, however, as some indication of the importance of the stakes.

The general Spanish view was at least this: another big nail has been hammered home to fasten the Spanish flag alongside those of Germany, Italy, and Japan in the axis powers' projected new world order.

PRESIDENT CALLS G. O. P. CHARGES FALSE; REPUBLICAN NOMINEE HITS RIGHT BACK Demands New Deal Concentration of Power Be Ended.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 23.—Wendell L. Willkie campaigned in New York City tonight with a blistering attack on the New Deal's concentration of power, which he called "the issue behind the third term issue."

The Republican Presidential nominee's chief address of the evening, one of four, was delivered at the Herald-Tribune forum and was broadcast on a nation-wide radio hookup.

Willkie listened to part of a radio address made earlier tonight by President Roosevelt and at the opening of his forum address referred to it as follows:

"I believe in face to face discussion. Whenever it became my duty to say another man has falsified the record, I would like to meet him face to face. [This referred to Willkie's offer to debate the President on the same platform.]

Raps at Indispensability.

"As I listened to the third term candidate I thought we were in the campaign of 1932. He discussed no other issues, nothing about the great questions before the people in 1940.

"I voted for the Democratic platform in 1932. I am devoted to the principles of Jackson and Jefferson, particularly in their belief in the necessity of limiting the office of the President of the United States. As I listened to the glowing description of the present prosperous conditions, I wonder how under such ideal conditions any man could be indispensable."

Willkie asked the President again how he felt about a fourth term.

In his forum address Willkie developed a formidable argument against the third term, declaring it and its implications of perpetuation of power constitute the greatest issue before the American people since the civil war.

Sees Challenge Laid Down.

"The New Deal," Willkie asserted, "asks us to perpetuate its power. This is the inevitable outcome of the course it has pursued. It asks us to keep the President in office indefinitely.

"It has laid down a challenge—a challenge to everything for which the American revolution was fought—a challenge to everything for which our constitution stands—a challenge to everything which has made America the land of hope and the land of opportunity.

"Let us pick up that challenge and hurl it back."

Willkie told how the democratic concept of the limitation of governmental power has been swept away in Europe. He traced the familiar pattern of economic distress, unemployment, emergency powers of government, then dictatorship.

"We fail to see," he declared, "that the identical process which wrecked the liberties of Europe has been

PAPER MILK BOTTLES WIN CITY APPROVAL; USE WILL BEGIN TODAY

Milk in rectangular paper containers will go on sale in a number of Chicago retail stores this morning. It will sell at 9½ cents a quart, the store price for milk in glass bottles, but purchasers will avoid the 1 cent bottle deposit and the necessity of taking the bottle back.

The board of health last night granted Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., the right to sell packaged milk. Action was taken after Judge Charles E. Woodward had forbidden the city in federal court to interfere further in the company's effort to sell its product in paper containers. The milk company's victory followed a four year fight in the courts, the city council and the board of health against a packaged milk ban.

Other milk companies gave no indication last night as to whether they would sell packaged milk. The legal action yesterday let down the bars for the Fieldcrest dairies only, but it has been hinted previously that other companies would enter the field if one did.

POLLS WATCHERS TO FIX THEIR EYES ON RIVER WARDS

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Chicago's river wards — hitherto riddled with vote frauds and bipartisan politics—are getting an inspection and preparation for the November election such as they never have had since the rise of the Democratic city machine. And all these efforts, it was disclosed yesterday, are only a prelude to an invasion of the area on election day by an army of citizens dedicated to halting of polls thefts.

The story was told for the first time during the day by Henry Pope Jr. and Wade Fetzer Jr., co-founders and leaders of the Chicago business men's 1940 election committee. This is a volunteer organization of young Republicans who are, in the words of Pope, "just a cross section of real Americans who are out to see that this coming election is clean in Chicago."

Work without Pay.

These volunteers, acting without pay and rewarded only by their knowledge that they are making a practical contribution to better government, have undertaken to police 923 precincts that in the past have been the heart of the Nash-Kelly organization. The precincts are in the 1st, 11th, 14th, 20th, 21st, 22d, 23d, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 31st, 32d, and 42d wards.

"The reason we chose to do our work in these wards," said Pope, "is that these wards virtually have made the state of Illinois Democratic in the last three elections. If they carry the state again they may have a profound national effect and might be the key to a Roosevelt victory two weeks hence.

"In 1938," continued Pope, "these 16 river wards gave Kelly a majority of 186,000 votes over Green. In the other 34 wards of Chicago Green had a majority of 2,400. In other words, these are the machine wards where every trick in the political book has been practiced to intimidate and influence voters.

Insist on Secret Ballot.

"It is our job to see that every one in these wards is allowed to vote secretly, to be free from intimidation, and to see that their votes are honestly counted, certified, and delivered after the polls close. We believe that if there is an honest election in these wards this time, the downstate Republican majority and the Cook county towns will sink the machine."

The committee was organized immediately after Wendell Willkie's nomination. Pope and Fetzer called upon a few friends to assist in the Republican cause, Pope said. From there the organization grew entirely by word of mouth and the interest of other Republicans.

Tells of Coöperation.

"We have gone in to coöperate with and supplement the regular Republican organization in these wards," Pope said. "We got people out for the registration. We made a canvass of the polling lists and turned in some 50,000 names in suspect notices—people who have died or moved away, or floaters and stingers. Now we're busy checking judges and clerks of election.

"We're going to talk to every judge and clerk—Republican and Democrat alike. We're going to let these people know that we know these wards and the voters therein.

"We're going to tell every election official in every precinct that we are going to be on hand to watch every move and record every violation of the law in little black books.

"We're telling these officials that we'll be willing to meet them in court if necessary after the election. We're prepared to prosecute every single case if it takes to doomsday."

President Roosevelt will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, WBBM and the CBS network, from 3:45 to 4:15 Chicago time today, when he addresses the New York Herald-Tribune forum. A rebroadcast of his address of last night will be aired over W-G-N from 1 to 1:45 this afternoon.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 23.—President Roosevelt tonight lashed savagely at his critics in his first major political address of the 1940 campaign. He called upon his immediate audience of 20,000 persons in this city's Convention hall and his nation-wide radio audience not to be "scared by this blitzkrieg of verbal incendiary bombs."

In what his aides hailed as the "fightingest" speech of his career, Mr. Roosevelt turned his attention to what he termed deliberate falsifications of fact by his Republican opposition. In the 45 minute address he did not mention his Republican opponent, Wendell Willkie, by name, but he assailed the Republican party as the party of reaction.

Denies Aim Is War.

Mr. Roosevelt put the emphasis of his speech on the charge, which he characterized as "outrageously false," that he and his administration wish to lead this country into war. He declared that when he saw the war coming he employed every ounce of his energy to prevent it, and when war came he used that energy to prevent its spread.

The President hailed the huge defense program as evidence of his desire to avoid war, asserting that America is arming for peace and not for any foreign war.

"It is for peace I have labored; and it is for peace I shall labor all the days of my life," he ended his address.

The President defended his handling of the defense program after spending a portion of the day inspecting defense plants in Philadelphia and nearby Camden, N. J.

Tours Shipyards.

At Camden he toured the plant of the New York Shipbuilding company. In Philadelphia he motored about the abandoned William Cramp & Sons shipbuilding yard, which has been idle since 1919, but which is to be put back into production. He also inspected the Frankford, Pa., arsenal, now turning out shells.

On the inspection phase of his 7 hour and 33 minute visit to the Quaker city and environs, Mr. Roosevelt spent a total of 37 minutes. The rest of the time was spent in speaking, parading, and aboard his private car, dining with Democratic leaders, including Senator Joseph F. Guffey, a candidate for reëlection, and John B. Kelly, Democratic boss of Philadelphia. Kelly organized the street reception for the President, which was far less impressive in enthusiasm and numbers than the 1936 affair.

"Smoked Out" by Charges.

The President opened his address with an explanation that he would have stuck to Washington and his "nonpolitical" campaign had not the opposition indulged in "fantastic falsifications."

"All of these statements cannot be 'unwitting falsifications' of fact; many of them must be 'deliberate falsifications' of fact," he said.

"Truthful campaign discussion of public issues is essential to the American form of government; but wilful misrepresentation of fact has no place during election time or at any other time. For example, there can be no objection to any party or any candidate urging that the undeveloped water power of this nation should be harnessed by private utility companies rather than by the government itself; or that the social security law should be repealed, or that the truth in securities act should be abrogated.

Lists "False" Accusations.

"But it is entirely a different thing for any party or any candidate to state, for example, that the President of the United States telephoned to Mussolini and Hitler to sell Czecho-

SPAIN POLITELY ARRESTS CAROL AND HIS MAGDA

Exiled Couple, Former Minister Under Guard.

SEVILLE, Spain, Oct. 23 (AP).—The deposed King Carol of Rumania and his buxom woman friend, Magda Lupescu, were under a polite form of arrest today—still pursued by the enmity that had driven them from Rumania only last month and now threatens to break up their long, determined association.

Under guard with them in their hotel here was one of the most faithful of all the king's men, pale, thin Ernest Urdareanu, who was minister of the palace before the pro-Nazi Rumanian Iron Guard howled Carol from an unhappy throne Sept. 6.

Ahead of them was the prospect that Urdareanu and Mme. Lupescu—altho probably not Carol himself—would be returned to Rumania to face trial at the hands of the Iron Guardists, who have accused the little palace politician and Carol's red haired associate of various crimes against the state.

All Taken Into Custody.

All three were taken into custody yesterday.

The original plan was to remove them to Granada while Spain considered extraditing them. But today the Rumanian foreign office, apparently at Carol's appeal, decided to let them remain here a while longer pending the extradition decision.

The story of this interruption of exile was this:

Yesterday a police officer told the three that their movements were no longer free. He went first to Urdareanu's rooms to notify him, while Mme. Lupescu peeked thru a partly opened door.

Urdareanu cried out: "They'll kill me if we are sent back to Rumania. How is extradition possible?"

Procession Goes to Carol.

Then, half hysterical, he said: "His majesty should hear about this!"

The strange procession—the policeman, Mme. Lupescu, and the trembling Urdareanu—went then to the king's suite to announce the bad news.

"Who, pray, gave you those orders?" Carol demanded of the officer.

"My superiors."

"And who are your superiors?"

There was no answer.

The Rumanians were reported so downcast they did not eat during the day.

After a long period of conference Carol argued in a telegram to the Madrid authorities that international law would not permit Mme. Lupescu and Urdareanu to be sent back to Rumania, "where the threat of death awaits them."

The former monarch would be likely to insist on going back if Mme. Lupescu had to go, a member of the Carol party said.

Mme. Lupescu, apparently philosophically preparing for the worst, burned certain documents last night in her bathroom, a maid said.

ENGLAND'S RAIL FARES BOOSTED ANOTHER 6 PCT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The effects of day and night bombing on public transport systems were brought out in an official announcement in parliament today that the government had sanctioned a further 6 per cent increase in rail fares and the mobilization of up to 2,000 provincial buses to help carry Londoners to and from work.

With a ten per cent increase effective since May 1, railway travel will now cost the British public 16 per cent more than before the war.

The first of the 2,000 provincial buses began operating in London during the rush hour this evening.

Reported Deal

Under terms of a reported deal by Germany and France, Germany would retain only that portion of occupied France (shown in black) north of the Seine river (broken white line). The axis powers would be allowed to operate from French and French colonial naval bases.

REPORTS RUSSIA IS ARMED CAMP FACING RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 23 (AP).—Russia is transforming Bessarabia and northern Bukovina, taken from Rumania last June, into armed camps, a refugee who escaped into Rumania said today.

The Russians claimed to have had 200 heavy tanks and 1,600 planes engaged in recent maneuvers in northern Bukovina alone, declared the refugee, who had evaded guards and escaped from Cernauti, in Bukovina. Several extensive military airports have been completed, he added, and the Prut river, new dividing line between Russia and Rumania, has been fortified by much heavy artillery.

ENVOYS EXEMPT FROM HATCH ACT, JACKSON DECIDES

Ruling Given in Response to Martin's Protest.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—Attorney General Robert H. Jackson has ruled, it became known today, that ambassadors, ministers, and other diplomats may engage in political activities in the campaign. He asserted they are exempt from the penalties of the Hatch act as policymakers for the United States in its relations with foreign powers.

John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium; Anthony Drexel Biddle, ambassador to Poland; Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, minister to Norway, and other diplomats have been touring the nation, making speeches in behalf of President Roosevelt's third term candidacy.

Letter Written by Martin.

Since these diplomats are still on the government pay roll, Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. [R., Mass.], chairman of the Republican national committee, wrote to Secretary of State Cordell Hull on Oct. 9, noting that the Hatch act specifically prohibits any person employed in the executive branch or any department thereof from using his official authority or influence for the purpose of interfering with an election or affecting the result thereof. The act, in addition, states that no such officer "shall take any active part in political management or in political campaigns."

Martin remarked that the Hatch act provided that any violator of this section of the act should be immediately removed from his position or office. He asked Secretary Hull to take "proper action."

Secretary Hull asked the attorney general for a ruling and, on Oct. 19, Jackson informed the secretary of state that American ambassadors and ministers are exempt from the provisions of the Hatch act.

Jackson Explains Opinion.

"It is well known, as stated in your letter," Jackson wrote, "that while ambassadors and ministers ordinarily act under instructions from the department of state, they are frequently required to act without instructions, particularly in situations which do not permit them to await instructions. . . . Thus, they actually participate in the determination of policy."

[The Hatch act exempts the President, Vice President, heads of executive departments, and "officers appointed by the President who determine policies to be pursued by the United States in its relations with foreign powers or in the nation-wide administration of federal laws."]

"This means," said a Republican committee statement, "that Bullitt and Biddle, Cudahy, and James H. R. Cromwell [when in office] and Mrs. Harriman determine the policies to be pursued by the United States in its relations with foreign powers.

"This is a long stretch of the Hatch act and a dangerous admission by the secretary of state that people without training or experience in foreign affairs can determine our foreign policy in a time like the present when peace or war hangs in the balance."

U. S. PROTESTS ITALIAN BOMBING RAID ON OIL FIELD

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23 (AP).—The United States formally protested to Italy today against the bombing of American oil properties in neutral Saudi Arabia. The bombing took place last Saturday.

The protest did not apply to the bombing of American oil properties on the island of Bahrein, off the mainland of Saudi Arabia, because Bahrein is a British protectorate.

The protest was delivered to the Italian ambassador, Prince Colonna, by A. A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state.

[James M. Moffet, vice president of the Standard Oil Company of California, had protested to the United States state department against the bombing of American owned properties of the California-Arabian Standard Oil company in Arabia.]

LIGHTEST RAIDS IN 17 DAYS GIVE LONDON RESPITE

LONDON, Oct. 24, Thursday (AP).—German war planes made a quick, momentarily heavy stab at London last night, but it tapered off to an all clear about two hours after midnight for the lightest attack of the last 17 nights. The outer defenses and a heavy rain over the English channel appeared to have turned back the main Nazi thrusts, but the aerial assault was resumed at dawn.

London had only one alarm yesterday and it lasted only a few minutes. However, one direct hit Tuesday night demolished part of a department store turned into an air raid shelter and took an estimated toll of 25 lives. An oil bomb and a broken gas main combined to sweep the ruins with flame.

A thick fog, blackened by smoke pouring from London's chimney pots, served as a defense against the few Nazi planes. The dirty weather also kept British bombers grounded Tuesday night and again yesterday.

ORDER TWO AIR CORPS GROUPS TO PHILIPPINES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23 (AP).—Transfer of two air corps squadrons to the Philippine Islands was announced today by the war department. The 17th pursuit squadron of the 1st pursuit group, now stationed at Selfridge Field, Mich., probably will sail from San Francisco next month, the department said, and the 20th pursuit squadron of the 35th pursuit group at Hamilton Field, Cal., will sail late this month.

U. S. Picks Newfoundland Base for Army and Navy

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23 (AP).—The office of the secretary of the navy announced today that an agreement had been reached with Great Britain and Canada on the location of an army-navy air and naval base on the southern shore of Newfoundland. Without giving the exact location, it was said the chief base will be located at one point and a flying field some distance away. A survey crew already is at St. John, Newfoundland, making preparations to start work on the first of the string of Atlantic bases recently acquired from Great Britain.

The Italian press published a statement by Antonescu indicating he is coming to pledge his country's faith in protection by the axis.

ROOSEVELT NO. 1 BIGOT IN NATION, SAYS AL SMITH

Calls Third Term Draft Bunk and Baloney.

New York, Oct. 23 (AP).—Alfred E. Smith, former Democratic governor of New York, said tonight that recent egg assaults on Wendell Willkie and his wife constituted an "appeal to bigotry" and he charged that President Roosevelt was "the greatest offender."

"Tell me," Smith demanded of a Brooklyn audience of Democrats for Willkie, "tell me what's happened to the country that a lovely American lady like Mrs. Willkie, and her husband, on a crusade to save this country, are spattered with eggs?"

"I'll tell you what it is, it is appeals to bigotry—to setting up class against class—and the chief apostle, the man in the White House, is himself the greatest offender."

Smith, who was nominated for the Presidency in 1928 by the man he now is opposing for a third term, got a tremendous ovation when he walked on the stage of the Brooklyn Academy of Music to make his first campaign address for the Republican candidate.

Ask Mrs. Willkie to Speak.

The crowd called for a speech from Mrs. Willkie when she took a seat on the platform a few minutes before Smith was to speak. Her husband was campaigning elsewhere in New York. The chairman explained she was very nervous and had requested him to say she was very pleased by the reception she received.

Smith recalled that he had spoken eight years ago in the same auditorium to advocate the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose 1932 campaign promises, he said, "went with the wind."

"I was amused," Smith said, "and I want you to share it with me, when I read in the paper that the New Deal publicity bureau was active with the smear pot in an effort to create an atmosphere that made Wendell Willkie a bigot. Nothing could be more stupid.

"He Voted for Me."

"When he was a delegate to the 1924 convention in Madison Square Garden, the convention controled entirely by the klan, what happened? He voted for me for the nomination for the Presidency."

Smith said that if President Roosevelt had stood on the same platform eight years ago and told the audience that if he were elected and the Supreme court did not see everything as he did that he "would send them back to the horse and buggy days," every one in the auditorium would have got up and left.

"But strange as it seems," Smith added, "that's exactly what happened."

Smith called Roosevelt "the indispensable man—indispensable to the recipients of political patronage and his political faith, and that is the group that made up the so-called Democratic convention that was held at Chicago, when, incidentally, the name of Jefferson was booed.

'Bunk and Baloney.'

"Of course that convention drafted its candidate. Drafted, eh? Bunk and baloney!

"As a matter of fact he was the candidate all along and used the power and patronage of his office to demand the nomination at the hands of the party leaders.

"Furthermore, he [Roosevelt] refused to let the convention select the Vice President. He said 'No, I will do that. I will save the convention the trouble.'

"And the other day he said, 'Democracy is safe while we have free election.'

"Do you know," Smith shouted, "that that is exactly what Hitler said to the German people? The only difference between him saying it and Hitler is that Hitler says it in German.

"Try and get him out of power! Nothing doing!"

BRITON OBJECTS TO STARHEMBERG IN ARMY SERVICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Bitter criticism was voiced in the house of commons today over a disclosure that Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, former vice chancellor of Austria, had been appointed lieutenant of the "free French" air force fighting with the British.

Capt. H. H. Balfour, undersecretary for the air ministry, said von Starhemberg is paid about $5 a day from funds provided by Britain. Col. J. C. Wedgwood, Laborite, objected to the employment of the prince, charging he was a "traitor" who had "assassinated democracy in Austria." "Why allow a scoundrel like this to fight for democracy?" he asked. Capt. Balfour insisted Prince Starhemberg deserved Britain's gratitude.

Earl Winterton, Conservative, assailed H. G. Wells, novelist, and questioned the wisdom of permitting him "to run down his country abroad—of all places, in the United States." Wells, who is in the United States, recently said Foreign Minister Lord Halifax should be ousted from the government.

Hall said the plant operations will not be interrupted by the blze.

JOHNSON GETS 5 YEAR TERM AS TAX EVADER

Fined $10,000; Five Aids Sent to Prison.

Prison sentences ranging from two to five years and fines ranging from $4,000 to $10,000 were imposed yesterday on William R. Johnson and five henchmen convicted of defrauding the government of nearly $2,000,000 in income taxes. The sentences were pronounced by Judge John P. Barnes in the federal District court.

Johnson, reputed gambling boss of Chicago, received the heaviest penalty—five years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000. Three of his closest associates—Jack Sommers, John M. Flanagan, and William P. Kelly—were each sentenced to four years and fined $8,000. Another, James P. Hartigan, was sentenced to three years and fined $6,000. The fifth, Stuart Solomon Brown, was sentenced to two years and fined $4,000.

All Will Appeal.

The six announced they will appeal their convictions. All were allowed their freedom until Oct. 30 on their original bonds. New bonds for an appeal must be supplied at that time.

Pleas for a new trial were argued by defense attorneys and opposed by Earle C. Hurley, an assistant United States attorney. Judge Barnes denied the pleas and then called the defendants before him and sentenced them.

If the six lose their appeals they will be confined in a federal penitentiary to be designated by the attorney general. They will be eligible for parole after completing one-third of their sentences.

Defense Attacks Evidence.

Pleas for the six were made by Attorneys Floyd E. Thompson, Edward J. Hess, and George F. Callaghan.

The trial started Aug. 27 and lasted seven weeks, with the jury of eight men and four women returning their verdict at 4 a. m., Oct. 12. Three of the nine on trial were acquitted. They are Ed Wait, Andrew J. Creighton, and Reginald Mackay.

The prosecution was built around Johnson. It was charged he owned 23 gambling houses and operated them in the names of other men, including some of the defendants, to escape payment of income taxes. Johnson denied this. The tax evasion charge covered the years 1936 to 1939, inclusive.

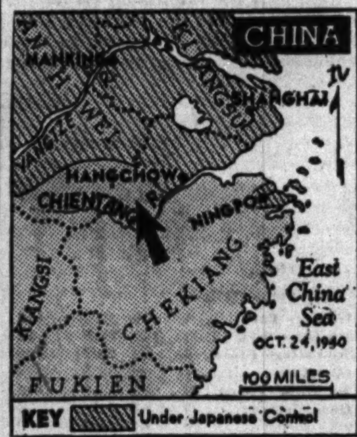
Chinese Advance



Arrow indicates direction of Chinese offensive which has pushed Japanese north of Chientang river.

HONGKONG, Oct. 24, Thursday (AP).—A large Chinese army has launched a powerful offensive against the Japanese in Chekiang province and pushed northward after crossing the Chientang river, the Central News agency [Chinese] reported today.

Several points north of the river held by small Japanese garrisons were captured, the agency said.

[A London dispatch stated diplomatic sources reported Japan had offered new peace terms to China: Demilitarization of Yangtze delta, Japanese economic control over Chinese autonomous state to be formed in North China, Chinese recognition of independence of Manchukuo, and Japanese concessions in all Chinese ports.]

REPORT 'ESCAPE' CLAUSE FOR JAPS IN AXIS TREATY

SHANGHAI, Oct. 24, Thursday (AP).—The recent Berlin-Rome-Tokio alliance contains a secret "escape" clause under which Japan could refuse to fight any nation "attacking" Italy or Germany, advices from informed Tokio sources reported today. Enforcement of the military clause depends entirely on the Russian position, these sources said.

Unless Japan can obtain what she considers iron clad assurances of soviet neutrality in the far east, these informants stated, she will resort to the escape clause to avoid entering the war as an ally of Italy or Germany if they are attacked.

In this connection, however, it was pointed out that one of Germany's selling points in negotiating the alliance was the assurance to Japan that Berlin would guarantee to prevent Russia moving in on Japan's Asiatic continental interests if Japan became involved in a war with the United States or Britain or both. Another circumstance which would enable Japan to escape would arise, these sources said, if the United States gave clear indications of relaxing her strengthened far eastern policy and turned her attention chiefly toward Europe.

BRITAIN ALLOWS MEDICINE TO PASS THRU BLOCKADE

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP).—The British ministry of economic warfare announced today it would permit the passage of "strictly pharmaceutical products, drugs and bandages" thru the blockade to German occupied countries. Two "substantial" consignments of insulin have moved thru to Switzerland in the last few days, it was stated. One consignment was for French diabetic children.

EAR YE! EAR YE! A LAWYER GETS A CLIP ON ONE

It's the Judge's Occasion and Bailiff Rises to It.

Spectators in the Chicago avenue police court were treated yesterday to some business not on the docket. Judge J. M. Braude and Assistant State's Attorney Hamlin Buckman started the show which wound up with the judge's bailiff, Joe McGuire, clipping the prosecutor on the ear at the judge's insistence.

Buckman told his version of the incident last night to Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney. According to Buckman, he and Braude had been friends since their school days.

Refuses to Join Society.

"While I was riding with the judge Monday, he asked me to subscribe to the Anti-Defamation society, an organization in which he is interested," Buckman asserted. "I said I would not.

"Then the judge said he would keep me out of his courtroom, and we had some sharp words."

All was serene, however, until yesterday, when a larceny case was called in court. Buckman asked to see the file which the judge held.

"Anybody as dumb as you wouldn't know what's in it," Buckman quoted Braude as saying.

"I couldn't learn much from you, anyhow," shot back Buckman.

Judge Braude Rises.

Judge Braude rose.

"I'll give you a sock in the jaw," Buckman said Braude told him.

"Come on and do it," retorted the prosecutor.

"Throw him out, you bailiffs," said Braude.

Several aged fellows moved on Buckman, but he shouldered them aside.

"Give him a sock, Joe," yelled Braude, calling on McGuire, his personal bailiff. McGuire obeyed, catching Buckman with a right to the ear. The spectators waited for more, but Buckman strode from the room.

1937 Clash Recalled.

Judge Braude had a clash with the prosecutor's office in December, 1937, when he ordered Assistant State's Attorney John Phillips from the Safety court. The two men had been at odds for three months. Phillips returned five days later.

Crowley said last night he would investigate the Braude-Buckman vendetta. The judge could not be reached for any explanation. Buckman will be back in Chicago avenue court today. But it was reported Braude may not be there—he is said to be scheduled for a political speaking tour.

ROOSEVELT VOTE DROPS SLIGHTLY IN CHICAGO POLL

Willkie Now Has 50.8 Pct. of Illinois Straws.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Results of a new batch of 13,774 Illinois straws are given in today's tabulations of THE TRIBUNE straw vote in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin. They change the results of straws previously printed only a fraction of a point between President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie. Roosevelt drops seven-tenths of a point in Chicago. Willkie gains one-tenth of a point downstate.

With 77,867 Illinois straws now tabulated and printed, Willkie has 50.8 per cent in the totals, a gain of one-fifth of a point from the last tables and Roosevelt with 49.2 per cent has a corresponding loss.

The straws show Illinois a horse race, with Chicago balanced against the areas outside. In Chicago, 37,348 straws taken at street corners give Roosevelt 57.2 per cent. In the regions outside Chicago, including the Cook county country towns, 40,519 straws give Willkie 58.2 per cent and Roosevelt 41.8 per cent.

Comparison with 1936 Vote.

The tabulations give Chicago somewhat too much of a preponderance in the total of straws. Of the total Illinois straws 48 per cent are from Chicago. In the 1936 election Chicago cast 42.6 per cent of the total vote in the state; the country towns 8.1 per cent; downstate 49.3 per cent.

If the percentages for these three different areas given in the straws are applied to the total Republican-Democratic vote cast in the last Presidential election of 1936, they give a projected percentage of 51.6 for Willkie and 48.4 for Roosevelt. The projection on the basis of the 1936 vote gives:

	Roosevelt.	Willkie.
Chicago	939,679	703,117
County towns	116,840	194,734
Downstate cities	808,983	1,090,039
Total	1,865,502	1,987,890

This would give Willkie a projected plurality of 122,388.

Results from Downstate.

Straw results from 21 downstate cities in today's table show Willkie leading in 16, Roosevelt in 5. Four years ago Alf Landon carried 10; Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for senator, carried 13. It must be set forth that they are in the main from Republican territory, but they do show the Republican upswing downstate two years ago to be greater this year. Willkie has 58 per cent of the straws in the 21 cities; Landon in the same towns had a 46 per cent vote; Lyons had 52 per cent.

N. Y. RACE NIP AND TUCK

New York, Oct. 23 [Special].—Five out of 25,587 straw ballots—less than 1-50 of 1 per cent—put President Roosevelt out in front of Wendell L. Willkie today in the New York News straw poll to determine the fate of New York's 47 electoral votes Nov. 5. Roosevelt has 12,796 straws, Willkie, 12,791.

With the poll more than half completed, the latest state-wide percentages stood: Roosevelt, 50.0098; Willkie, 49.9902.

WILLKIE WINS COLLEGE POLL AT WHEATON

Victory for Wendell L. Willkie in the Presidential election on Nov. 5 was predicted by the International Relations club of Wheaton college yesterday on the basis of a straw vote conducted on the campus.

Forty-six states are represented by the 1,200 students and professors at the college. The straw vote drew responses from 398, representing 36 states. Willkie received 327 of the total vote and President Roosevelt 71. The faculty gave Willkie 42 votes to Roosevelt's 2. In relation to the electoral college the poll would stand 383 to 98.

"The vote, representative of an intelligent cross section of the country, expresses approval of Willkie," commented Hudson Armerding, president of the club. "We feel that this is the opinion of thinking people generally."

ALFRED E. SMITH TO BOOM WILLKIE IN CITY SATURDAY

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the appearance here of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, 1928 Democratic candidate for president, who will deliver the second of his series of speeches in behalf of Wendell L. Willkie. Smith will speak at 8:30 p. m. Saturday in the Chicago Civic Opera house under auspices of the no third term Democrats of Illinois.

Smith and his wife will arrive at the Union station at 9 a. m. Saturday and will be met by a delegation of Democrats supporting Willkie. Included in the welcoming party will be Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court; Henry F. Tenney, Walter S. Bellatti, John D. Black, Francis X. Busch, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

Smith will confer at the Blackstone hotel with Democratic business and labor leaders who have joined the Willkie banner. In the afternoon he will attend the Northwestern-Indiana football game at Evanston. A meeting the Democrats for Willkie of Illinois had planned to sponsor in the Civic Opera house last night was postponed because it was felt it would be too close to the Smith meeting. The postponed rally will be held Nov. 1.

N. Y. LAWYERS OF ALL POLITICAL FAITHS JOIN AGAINST THIRD TERM

New York, Oct. 23 [Special].—Cutting across party lines and drawn together by unanimity of belief that "the third term is the most important issue in the campaign," hundreds of New York lawyers, it was announced today, have organized a "Lawyers Committee Against the Third Term." The organization, whose membership includes lawyers of all political faith, will campaign vigorously for the defeat of President Roosevelt.

Among the prominent lawyers who signed the committee's statement were former Supreme Court Justice Joseph M. Proskauer, Samuel Seabury, president of the Association of the Bar; John W. Davis, William Church Osborn, former Supreme Court Justice Robert McCurdy Marsh, now president of the New York County Lawyers association; Dean Ignatius M. Wilkinson of Fordham law school, and Dean Young B. Smith of Columbia law school.

Their statement said "the constantly increasing powers of the chief executive make the threat of a third term an increasing menace today."

NELSON CHARGES PUBLIC ENEMIES AIDING COURTNEY

Judge Oscar F. Nelson, Republican candidate for state's attorney, told a radio audience last night that "hoodlums whose prominence as defiers of the law is so great that they enjoy ratings such as Public enemies No. 1, 2, and 3 are passing the word that there must be no change in the state's attorney's office."

"Courtney [State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney] should be ashamed to assert the conviction of 10,864 boys, young men and women, and first offenders as a record," Nelson said, "while the Nittis, Romanos, Humphreys, and others of their kind walk the streets.

"Courtney boldly claims a reduction of crime from a maximum of 101,000 when he entered office to a present low of 42,000 cases per year. He insults the intelligence of every citizen, for we have never had 101,000 crimes per year, nor even 42,000."

Nelson charged that State's Attorney Courtney had lumped automobile speeding cases and other petty offenses with major crimes to make an impressive record.

MARTIN DECRIES PUBLIC FINANCED 'DEFENSE' TOURS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 23 [Special].—Noting that President Roosevelt spent exactly 37 minutes for his entire "inspection" of Pittburgh's great steel works, Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. [R., Mass.] today questioned the ability of even the Democrats' "indispensable man" to assimilate much knowledge of these vast plants in such a short time.

Speaking at a Republican rally in Duquesne garden, Martin, chairman of the G. O. P. national committee, accused the President of political immorality in campaigning for reëlection under the guise of defense inspection trips financed by public tax money.

While Wendell Willkie's expenses are paid by the Republican party, the third term candidate's expenses are paid by the people, Martin said. Such practices, he said, are "the essence of trickery, deceit, duplicity and insincerity."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

STATE PROPERTY PUT TO POLITICAL USE, SAYS GREEN

Addresses Massmeeting in Hotel at Evanston.

Every piece of state property that can be turned to political use has been commandeered in a last desperate stand by the Democratic machine, Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for governor, charged last night in a massmeeting at the North Shore hotel, Evanston.

"The supplies, facilities, and man power of every department have been thrown into the campaign by the Springfield division of the Nash-Kelly machine," Green told an audience of 700. "When actual state money and postage, contributed and paid for by taxpayers, is used for campaign purposes, authorities on criminal law have a name for it. When I am elected governor, I intend to start an immediate investigation, let the results of the inquiry strike whom they may."

Demands New Leadership.

Following Green to the platform, Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for United States senator, said that "for more than 150 years we have chosen a new leader in our country every four, or not more than eight years. The eight years are up, and we must choose a new leader now."

"The Republican party is proud to present that new leadership," Brooks said. "I have never thought there was anything sacred about the Republican party, and I do not feel that now—but it is a great agency for good, and thank God, it's with us. It's an agency now that all peace loving and forward looking Americans can rally under to build a new and greater civilization in America, while the rest of the world crumbles under their age old conflicts over boundary lines."

Predicts Downstate Sweep.

Hugh Cross, candidate for lieutenant governor, predicted that the Republican ticket would sweep downstate Illinois with a majority of more than 350,000 votes. He asserted that "the opposition is so desperate that they hope once again to charm the voters in this state by bringing here their prince charming, the third term candidate for President."

"It is evident," said Cross, "that the New Deal's mud slinging tactics in Illinois have not set well with the public, and all their efforts along this line of campaigning have caused an uprising among the voters that has only added to the swelling Republican majorities that will be rolled up on Nov. 5.

The candidates also spoke at mass meetings in Skokie, Des Plaines, Barrington, and Palatine.

Beach Strollers Hear Cries; Rescuers Too Late

A man and woman walking on the beach at 63d street heard cries for help from the lake last night. They hurried to the Jackson Park coast guard station and gave the alarm. A coast guard crew found an unidentified man drowned in the water and took the body to an undertaking establishment at 1409 East 67th street. The man was poorly dressed and penniless.

Dragged Into Vacant Lot, Young Bride Flees Rapist

A youthful bride, homeward bound with some groceries, was overpowered and robbed of her wedding ring and $8 in the South Chicago district last night. Her assailant then dragged her into a vacant lot and attempted to rape her, but she eluded him and ran to her home.

Your Precinct Captain will call upon you for co-operation in this activity. I shall expect each employee and his or her family to co-operate to the fullest in this as well as in every other precinct function.

Every employee and his or her relations and friends in the Precinct should display these pictures. I shall have a report in this connection immediately.

Yours very truly,

ROGER J. KILEY

Committeeman

Copy of a letter sent by mistake to a Republican civil service employe by Roger J. Kiley, alderman and Democratic committeeman in the 37th ward. These letters were mailed by the Democratic organization.

Carries a Warning

Explanation for the sudden blossoming of thousands of pictures of President Roosevelt in Democratic homes thruout Chicago during the last two days was provided yesterday in written form.

By mistake a Democratic organization letter was delivered to a Republican civil service employé, who made it public. This letter was sent to all pay rollers in the 37th ward and was signed by Roger J. Kiley, who is both alderman and Democratic committeeman for the ward and in addition now is merely marking time until he takes the place on the Superior court bench to which he was elected last June.

The letter ordered the employés to see that the lithographs provided by the Cook county committee be placed not only in the windows of their own homes but in the windows of the homes of their relatives and friends. It also warned that there will be an inspection and a report whether the orders are carried out.

Similar letters were sent out in other wards, but many Democratic committeemen delivered their orders orally.

WILLKIE TO WIN WITH 356 VOTES, SURVEY SHOWS

New York, Oct. 23 [Special].—Wendell Willkie's election by a minimum of 356 electoral votes, well over the 266 necessary for election, was predicted tonight in the latest poll return made public by the Dunn survey. It gives at least 28 states to the Republican nominee, and raises by 22 the number of "certain" Willkie electoral votes predicted in the previous Dunn survey report.

In releasing its latest figures, the survey which is directed by Rogers C. Dunn, a statistical analyst who has been conducting similar studies with marked success for six years, confirmed its prediction of a Republican victory in California, placing Willkie in the lead by 52 per cent, to 48 per cent for Roosevelt.

The Dunn survey now puts in the Willkie column the important pivotal states of New York, Illinois, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, and indicates a complete sweep in the important midwest bloc of states, including Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, and Wisconsin.

GIRL OF 7 FOUND TIED TO BED, ILL; COUPLE SEIZED

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peterson, each 33 years old, will be arraigned Monday afternoon before Police Magistrate Edward Markham in Maywood on charges of neglect and contributing to the dependency of a minor.

Their foster daughter, Virginia, 7 years old, was found by police Tuesday, lashed to a bed in the Peterson home, 400 North 8th avenue, in the suburb. She was ill, had a temperature of 100 degrees, and her back, sides, and legs were covered with welts from blows that had drawn blood.

Virginia told Lieut. E. C. Feldman she had been tied to the bed in a position from which she could not move since the previous night. The foster mother, Marie, said she had beaten the child with a strap at 9 o'clock Monday night and Peterson admitted he had beaten her half an hour later. This was because "she had told lies," they said.

WOMEN OF G. O. P. EXPECT RECORD LUNCHEON CROWD

Officials of the Illinois League of Republican Women reported yesterday reservations are coming in on an unprecedented scale for the league's luncheon Tuesday in honor of Republican candidates. The luncheon will be in the La Salle hotel, and the deadline on reservations has been set for Sunday night. An earlier story incorrectly gave the date of the luncheon as Oct. 26.

"We're going to have an overflow crowd," said Mrs. Walter Scudder Hart, president of the league, "but we're going to take care of every one."

Reservations are being received by Mrs. Marie W. Boos, 3649 Lexington street; Mrs. Martha Earnest, 3004 Wilson avenue, and Mrs. Leo G. Schneider, 6639 Halsted street.

Poll Methods to Be Told at Kiwanis Club Lunch

H. D. Read, vice president of the Opinion Research corporation of New York, one of the Gallup poll organizations, will speak today at a luncheon of the Kiwanis club in the Hotel Sherman. He will describe the Gallup poll methods and report on some of the present surveys.

DRAFT WEALTH, HERSHEY URGES AT PARTY RALLY

Issue Offers Polls Test, Democrats Told.

Harry B. Hershey, Democratic candidate for governor, last night indorsed the conscription of wealth in time of crisis and said this question may well be the most crucial of the campaign.

Speaking at a massmeeting attended by 7,000 persons in the 133d Tank Corps armory, Maywood, Hershey said: "If we must conscript your son for national defense, it is only just and American that our nation also be able to conscript the tanks and armament."

"Shall human rights be paramount to property rights?" he asked. "When the congress of the United States considered the legislation to make possible the conscription of wealth along with the conscription of men, a great yell went up from the opposition candidate for President and the opposition candidate for governor. There you have the great difference between the Republican and Democratic parties in this campaign."

Candidates Speak in Evanston.

After the Maywood massmeeting, Hershey and the other candidates spoke at the Oaktor school in Evanston.

Frank J. Gillespie, secretary-treasurer of the Dairy Employes' union, said in a radio speech last night that Thomas J. Courtney is "the best state's attorney Cook county ever had."

"No honest labor man can criticize Tom Courtney's record as state's attorney," Gillespie said. "His name has been carved in labor's hall of fame by his battle against organized crime and racketeers. He deserves another term for what he has done during the last seven years."

Gov. John Stelle, speaking in Elgin, called the operation of the draft program a demonstration of national unity and national soundness.

Proof of Unity, Says Stelle.

"The meaning of this ready, cheerful response is understood in lands beyond the seas," Stelle said. "It comes as unwelcome news to any foreign dictator who might have imagined that the American people were not united in their love of country."

Senator James M. Slattery in a radio speech said "Power trust money" still is being spent in Illinois politics and that "it is behind the campaign of villification and abuse against me."

He said power trust money was spent in 1936 in the campaign against the late Gov. Horner "in behalf of the Republican candidate for governor who is now the Republican candidate for senator." He referred to Wayland Brooks.

Preparations for a Democratic labor rally in the Chicago stadium tomorrow night were completed yesterday. Daniel Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, will speak. Also on the program are Hershey, Dan Tracy, assistant secretary of labor, and Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah.

END NEW DEAL'S CONCENTRATED POWER: WILLKIE

Calls That 'Issue Behind Third Term Issue.'

going on here in America right before our eyes."

The nominee recalled the various emergency actions under the New Deal, 67 in all, each resulting in further concentration of power. The country's private banking system has been subjugated, he said. Federal agencies now own in part or control 2,000 corporations, he asserted, and 133 federal administrative bodies are responsible to "the third term candidate."

Pointing out that step by step, year by year, the President has gathered into his hands increasing power, Willkie declared that such concentration of power has not solved our economic problems and has only served to endanger our liberties.

Before his forum address Willkie spoke at the Bronx coliseum, in the heart of the home territory of Democratic National Chairman Ed Flynn, and at Manhattan center.

Following his forum address Willkie made a speech on the lower east side, after which he returned to his special train.

"No Third Term Day."

The text of Willkie's address at the Herald Tribune forum follows in part:

"Today is 'No Third Term day.' All over our country thoughtful men and women have joined together to explain and to debate the great American tradition that forbids any man to hold the office of President for more than two terms.

"But tonight I want to go behind that tradition. I want to bring you face to face with the great issue that confronts us; the issue behind the third term issue; the most critical issue to be brought before the American people since the days of the civil war. That is the issue of the concentration of power.

"The men who established our government had foremost in their thoughts the preservation of the rights of the individual. To safeguard those rights, they provided a system of checks and balances. They clearly saw that if government obtained too much power its power would ultimately be used, not to serve the people, but to subjugate them. Limitation of the powers of government is the essence of democracy.

Rise of Dictatorships.

"In recent years we have seen this democratic concept ruthlessly violated thruout much of the world. In Europe it has been largely replaced by the doctrine of an all-powerful state, dominated by a self-styled élite class and subject to the will of one indispensable man.

"We fail to see that the identical process which wrecked the liberties of Europe has been going on here in America right before our eyes. We fail to recognize the stealthy concentration of power that has characterized the progress of the New Deal. We do not recognize it for what it is: a trend, partly accidental, partly deliberate, toward the establishment of state domination over our lives.

"Altho it may not be immediately apparent, the pattern is ominously familiar. The New Deal's first action was to declare an emergency. Seven and one-half years have passed. Sixty-seven emergencies have been declared, each justifying a grant of extraordinary powers. The general emergency still exists. And the powers increase almost month by month.

"In a modern state, control over money is a primary instrument of power. The technique of revolution, as it has been taught by Lenin and others, recommends as the first step the seizure of control over banking.

"At this moment the President holds powers over the money and credit system of the country comparable to those of any dictator.

"He is empowered to close all banks and stock exchanges.

"He is empowered, in his sole discretion, to control foreign exchange transactions, to alter the gold content of the dollar, to change the value of silver, to issue three billion dollars of irredeemable greenback money.

Cites Power of Inflation.

"These enormous powers provide the President with controls that he can exercise over the will of congress. By a full use of them, he could inflate the money supply by 12 billion dollars.

"As a result, our private banking system has been subjugated. The federal reserve system has been reduced to a mere appendage of the treasury.

"But the New Deal has gone much further. It has put government itself deeply into the business of lending money. Last February the secretary of the treasury reported to the senate that 31 government agencies have loaned nearly 25 billion dollars.

"Federal agencies own in part and control in part more than 2,000 corporations having assets of four billion dollars. Thru regulations, loans, subsidies, and fear, such agencies exert a partial control over more than 23,000 corporations having assets of 70 billion dollars.

Points to Blank Checks.

"The President has asked for and has obtained from congress 20 blank check appropriations totaling more than 16 billion dollars.

"As is only human under such circumstances, he and those who surround him have used this great fund as a gigantic pork barrel. As must inevitably occur when such conditions are permitted, the New Deal leader has bought congressional support by rewarding his friends and punishing his enemies in both houses of congress.

"The federal government today includes no less than 133 administrative bodies. These include the Securities and Exchange commission, the National Labor Relations board, the Federal Trade commission, and all the others. The men who run these agencies are appointed by the President. He exercises a powerful control over them by holding out the chance of reward thru appointment to higher offices. In many instances these administrators are responsible to the third term candidate and to him alone. And yet they have the power to make laws and to prosecute violators of those laws, to sit in judgment upon them, and to inflict penalties, after having testified against them.

Finds Abuse of Functions.

"The powers of the executive, the judiciary, and the legislature, which the founders of this government were careful to separate, are concentrated in the hands of a group of Presidential appointees. And those appointees have boldly used those powers.

"In August of last year the National Labor Relations board made a deal with the Reconstruction Finance corporation. This provided that whenever a charge of unfair labor practices had been made or was about to be made against any concern, the RFC would blacklist that concern.

"Under the law, a citizen has to be found guilty before he is punished. But not in the code of the National Labor Relations board. Under the arrangement with the RFC, the mere charge of unfair practices was sufficient to warrant excluding the victim from federal financial aid.

"No man appreciates more than I do the need for regulatory agencies. But the powers of these agencies should be more precisely defined. They should not be distorted into instruments for giving the executive complete domination of our economic life.

Charges Misuse of Funds.

"By public bribery and the usurpation of functions formerly delegated to the states, the New Deal has sought to make the various state and local government subservient to Washington.

"In city after city and in state after state, public officials have campaigned on the record of their ability to obtain for their constituents a large share of the money being poured out by the federal government.

"By arbitrary grants-in-aid, by subsidized public works, and by federal manipulation of relief money, the New Deal has sapped the independence of the states. The local governments are encouraged to become dependent upon federal funds, and local officials are controled by the deadly threat of the withdrawal of federal aid.

"By the judicious use of federal patronage, the New Deal has strengthened the grip of corrupt political machines upon our cities. And these machines, in turn, are throwing their enormous weight into the present election in an effort to deliver to the New Deal the electoral vote of some of the biggest states in the union.

Denounces Its Failure.

"Step by step, year by year, Mr. Roosevelt has gathered into his hands increasing power—'new instruments of power'—such power as could in his own words, provide 'shackles for the liberties of the people.'

"And yet with all this power, the New Deal has utterly failed to solve our economic problems.

"That failure was inevitable. It was the excessive concentration of power in the government which produced the failure.

"But what does this administration tell us?

"As is only natural, it fails to recognize the causes of its failure. It asks for still more power. In this critical hour of our history, it demands that we set aside our deep rooted principle of rotation in office.

Calls Conditions Worse.

"On its calamitous record of seven and a half years, the New Deal tells us that its leader is an indispensable man. After 7½ years of utter failure, he alone can save us.

"Concentration of power has not helped to solve our economic problems. It has inevitably made them worse. Under the bludgeons of a privileged bureaucracy American enterprise has been weakened and suppressed. The aggressive spirit of initiative which has made this country the envy of the world; which brought about a flowering of inventions and industrial achievement such as had never been seen in any other land; which established the highest standard of living any nation had ever known; that spirit which was the distinguishing characteristic of America is slowly dying. It is being crushed under the sheer oppressive weight of power in the hands of a hostile administration."

HOUSING PROJECT EVICTION FIGHT SET FOR NOV. 13

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday set Nov. 13 for a hearing on a petition to restrain the Chicago Housing authority from evicting eight tenants from the Julia Lathrop homes and the Jane Addams houses, federal housing projects. The eviction of the tenants is being sought on the ground that their incomes average more than the maximum $1,500 a year limit for tenants of the buildings. Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, representing the housing authority, asked for an early decision in the case, which will affect tenancy rules for housing projects thruout the state.

SLUSH FUND QUIZ AGAIN DELAYED; PRESSURE HINTED

Forestalls Indictments Until After Election.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23.—Revelation that the public utility investigation at Springfield, Ill., is to be delayed a second time revived reports in Washington today that New Deal political pressure is being exerted to prevent grand jury action before the Nov. 5 election.

Such reports have persisted since the federal grand jury at Springfield, which is investigating the alleged use of utility slush funds for illegal political purposes, was recessed on Oct. 16. It was announced that Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge, who is conducting the investigation, had to return to Washington to prepare a case for argument in the Supreme court tomorrow.

Will Discuss 1942 Budget.

Today it was revealed that Rogge will be unable to return to Springfield in time to resume the inquiry on Monday, when the grand jury is to reconvene. The imperative business which requires his presence in Washington next Monday is a justice department budget hearing, to which he was summoned by Thomas D. Quinn, administrative assistant to Attorney General Robert H. Jackson.

At this conference, justice department officials will discuss such weighty matters as the amount of money to be requested for the 1942 fiscal year for each division, including the criminal division, which is headed by Rogge.

Altho the grand jury will reconvene on Monday, Rogge will not leave Washington until Wednesday and the slush fund inquiry will not be resumed until he arrives in Springfield on Thursday, five days before the election. Hence there is little likelihood of any grand jury presentment until after the election.

Situation Is Reversed.

When the grand jury investigation began in August, it was the Republicans who feared that indictments would be returned before the election, for the purpose of smearing utilities generally, altho Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican Presidential candidate, never had any connection with the companies whose activities are under scrutiny. The investigators are said to have discovered, however, that there were more Democrats than Republicans in offices where campaign contributions or attorneys' fees might influence utility rates or regulations.

One of those presumed to be under investigation is Senator James M. [Strongbox] Slattery, who is campaigning for a New Deal third term and his own seat in the senate.

IT'S A FRAMEUP, SWEARS ACCUSED BOMBER AT TRIAL

Edmund Iwanski, accused of bombing a milk station at 5716 Elston avenue during the milk strike last July, testified yesterday in his trial before Judge John Sbarbaro, that he was the victim of a frameup. Radicals in the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers' union lured him to the scene of the bombing, Iwanski said, because he opposed the policies of union officials.

"I knew nothing about the bombing," Iwanski testified. "I was called to meet a fellow worker named Nowicki near 5716 Elston avenue to take him to work. When I got out of my car, a bomb exploded, and policemen began shooting at me."

Police said that they found two bombs in Iwanski's home at 5362 North Nottingham avenue and that he confessed the bombing. Yesterday he denied making such a confession.

Democratic Glamor

MRS. HELEN DOUGLAS.

Democratic women of Cook county imported a little Hollywood glamor to dress up the New Deal campaign yesterday. The glamor was represented by the elegantly appointed Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democratic national committeewoman from California and wife of Melvyn Douglas, screen star.

An accomplished actress, Mrs. Douglas used every trick of gesture and intonation to enthuse 3,000 women at a matinée mass meeting in the Auditorium theater. As principal speaker, she was greeted with a bedlam of horns, rattles, and cow bells which she quieted to speak over W-G-N and Mutual network for a half hour early in the meeting and later in a longer talk at the close of the program.

Numerous Democratic candidates were introduced to the audience and talks were given by United States Senator James M. Slattery, running for reëlection; Harry B. Hershey, candidate for governor; Louie E. Lewis, candidate for lieutenant governor; John C. Martin, candidate for auditor of public accounts, and Victor L. Schlaeger, candidate for clerk of the Superior court. Mayor Kelly gave a campaign talk for Roosevelt.

Gibson reported an operating profit as of yesterday of $5,020,000 for the 1940 season and a gross revenue of $10,450,000. The total debt is $26,862,800. The fair will end Sunday.

EDITOR'S CHARGE IN RESIGNATION DENIED BY NAVY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23 [Special].—Navy department officials today declined to comment on the recent resignation of Lieutenant Commander A. H. Guthrie, retired, editor of the United States Naval Academy Alumni Bulletin, published at Los Angeles, except to deny his charges that the resignation was forced because he published an editorial advocating the election of Wendell Willkie.

This article was carried in the Sept. 1 issue of the bulletin. The following issue, dated Oct. 1, carried the announcement of his resignation, with the following comment:

"A department of the government has raised the question of censorship because the editor is a retired officer. In other words, retired officers cannot be editors of the free press unless they edit with some one looking over their shoulders. To continue as editor of a paper in which the subscribers have always been able to freely present their views in such case would be fraudulent."

While navy officials denied any responsibility for Commander Guthrie's resignation, from other sources it was learned that he had been in disfavor with the navy for some time because of his frank editorial criticism of some items of naval policy.

Plan to Send U. S. Liner to Galway for Refugees

New York, Oct. 23 (AP).—The government is planning to send another ship into the war zone to rescue Americans stranded in the British Isles, shipping men said today. They said negotiations were under way between the state department and the United States lines to send the liner Manhattan to Galway, Ireland. Ambassador Joseph Kennedy recently asked the state department for another ship to remove remaining American refugees.

PRESIDENT PLANS TRIP TO ILLINOIS; GIVES AIDS HOPE

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 23 [Special].—Hope mingled with dismay in the Democratic camp today over a reply from President Roosevelt in response to efforts to get him to extend his "nonpolitical" tours to Illinois in time to bolster the downward trend of his party's campaign.

"As soon," the President telegraphed Gov. John Stelle, "as the international situation makes it possible for me to extend the number of hours I can be distant from Washington, I count on visiting Rantoul and Scott field and other important defense projects in Illinois."

The governor said he had no further information on whether and when the President would arrive in Illinois. There was no attempt to disguise hopes that the visit would be before Nov. 5.

IV. GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK.

The next phase of Roosevelt's career sweeps him into Albany. He had recovered his health enough around 1924 to begin to take a part in political life. About the same time he had discovered Warm Springs and began the cure there that brought him along to a stage of comparatively excellent health by 1928.

In that year the whole Democratic organization of New York state was geared to nominate Al Smith for the Presidency, and Roosevelt was one of the most outspoken of the Smith supporters. The Democratic leaders believed it essential that they have a man with a good name as candidate for governor.

The leaders decided to ask Roosevelt. It is doubtful if Smith had any direct part in this choice, but when the decision was made, Smith undertook to induce Roosevelt to run.

Roosevelt was at Warm Springs. At first he refused. He was edging away from the nomination. But it fell out that the plans of other men required Roosevelt as a candidate for governor.

He had a good reputation. He was a pleasant person, well liked. He never had taken a very strong stand on any subject, save the League of Nations and a big navy—hence he had no enemies. His religion was right. He was an excellent candidate to capitalize on the immense prestige in state government that Al Smith had built up for the party. The leaders insisted and he was named.

The First Bank Crashes.

Roosevelt served two terms as governor of New York. By 1930, however, the great Hoover depression was in full swing. The Republican party was badly discredited, and the New York City Democratic scandals had hardly advanced to a critical stage.

It is a curious fact that Roosevelt's stay in Albany was so little observed, critically. Generally he followed Smith's policies—save in finance. During his tenure, all that bewildering new range of problems growing out of the depression took shape and engulfed local and federal governments. Roosevelt gave very little evidence of being aware of its seriousness.

Just before the great crash he said everything was "in a very healthy and prosperous condition." After the crash he spoke of it as a passing event. The truth is that he became absorbed in the vision of the White House after Smith's defeat.

The first sign of bank trouble appeared in New York. The City Trust company failed. Lieut. Gov. Lehman, in Roosevelt's absence, named Robert Moses to investigate the scandal. Moses blamed the failure on thrift accounts and bank affiliates. He also called attention to the Bank of United States.

Roosevelt named a commission to study the subject and put a director of the Bank of United States on it. Of course the commission did nothing. A few months later the bank failed.

90 Million in the Red.

When Al Smith turned over the state's affairs to Roosevelt, there were appropriations and funds to take care of all the state's commitments until December 31, 1930, and a surplus of $15,000,000 in cash besides. When Roosevelt left the governor's office December 31, 1932, the state had a deficit of $90,000,000. While he was thus piling up deficits for the state, he was roundly denouncing Hoover, who was doing the same thing for the nation.

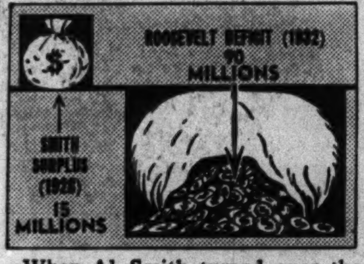
The depression deepened, the skies darkened, but the governor maintained his glowing good humor. He said he was opposed to direct relief because it was a dole and he feared its "character destroying" aspect.

As the months rolled by and recovery resisted all the enticements of Herbert Hoover, as the bread lines lengthened and profits vanished, Republican prospects of victory receded and the value of the Democratic nomination became ever more enhanced. Jim Farley, Democratic state chairman, thrust into that post by Smith, was touring the country seeking Roosevelt delegates.

One of the early acts of the governor was to set up a publicity department in Albany to advertise the achievements of his administration and those, in particular, of its chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

On Repeal Bandwagon.

Franklin D. Roosevelt (left) as he appeared when governor of New York. In that office he put James J. Walker (right), mayor of New York, on trial on charges preferred in Seabury investigation. Walker resigned.



When Al Smith turned over the office of governor to Roosevelt he left a surplus of $15,000,000. At the end of 1932 Roosevelt had turned that into a deficit of $90,000,000.

The dry issue was growing. Roosevelt refused to take a stand on it. He dodged this until Charles Tuttle, Republican candidate for governor in 1930, smoked him out. By that time repeal had become inevitable. The men who had fought prohibition and been broken by it were out of the picture. Roosevelt, who at first supported it, then ducked it, stepped in when the battle was won to enjoy its rewards.

One of his first contacts with the courts occurred at this time. The McCooey machine in Brooklyn wanted four new judges created. The Brooklyn Republican machine balked. The two machines made a deal to create 12 instead of four judges—seven for McCooey, five for the Republican machine. The bar, the public protested, but Roosevelt signed the bill.

Then came the resignation of Jimmy Walker as mayor. For this, Roosevelt has been given credit. As a matter of fact, citizens, Republicans, the City club clamored for an investigation of Walker's régime. Roosevelt balked every effort. Finally the legislature was driven to make an investigation and Samuel Seabury was named to conduct it.

Seabury exposed the famous tin box brigade. The Committee of One Thousand hammered at Roosevelt to remove Sheriff Farley, pilloried by Seabury. It took four months to get Roosevelt to act. Two distinguished clergymen, John Haynes Holmes and Rabbi Stephen Wise, pressed charges against two other officials. Roosevelt, denounced Doctors Holmes and Wise. "If they would serve their God," he said, "as they seek to serve themselves, the people of New York would be the gainers."

Then Walker Resigned.

Finally the malodorous disclosures about Walker were so grave that Roosevelt, when charges were preferred before him by Seabury, put Walker on trial. The evidence was damning and shocked the whole state. Roosevelt conducted the examination of Walker well, under the instruction and direction of an able lawyer, Martin Conboy. What Roosevelt would have done about Walker no one can say. Walker resigned.

[Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, New Deal supporter, gave James J. Walker a $20,000 a year job as industrial arbiter in the city's cloak and suit industry last month.]

A fair estimate of Roosevelt as governor is that he was fair, but not brilliant. His record on social justice was good, but on finance bad. He had a deficit of $48,000,000 in his last year. He increased the state's debt by $111,000,000. He vetoed a civil service bill. He had a good record on power, following Al Smith's policies.

Liberals liked his support of old age pensions, labor laws, but were disturbed by his playing along with corrupt Tammany Hall. He always was ready to compromise. His department heads found him hesitant, evasive, difficult to follow. They never could know where he stood. He tried to please everybody. One friendly reporter wrote:

"Those having dealings with him find the effusiveness of his good will a hindrance, for they often leave a meeting with the impression that he is committed to one policy only to find that he advocates its opposite."

It is very difficult to find any of those who served under him as governor who do not hold the same view.

Norman Thomas to Make Four Speeches in Chicago

The Socialist party announced yesterday that Norman Thomas of New York, party candidate for President, will make four speeches here Oct. 30. The announcement said he will stress the need of preserving civil liberties. Thomas will be joined by Prof. Maynard C. Krueger of the University of Chicago, the Socialist nominee for Vice President, at two of the meetings.

MAYOR DEPLORES EGG ATTACK ON WILLKIE AND WIFE

Charles Mulrain.

Mayor Kelly and Chicago Democratic officials joined yesterday in deploring the attack Tuesday night upon Wendell L. Willkie and Mrs. Willkie by a Chicago Relief administration pay roller who hit them with eggs as they boarded their special train at the La Salle street station.

The one egg that struck the Republican Presidential nominee on his cheek and spattered his clothing. Mrs. Willkie was hit by three eggs.

The pay roller, Charles Mulrain, 53 years old, stationary engineer for the Newberry relief shelter, 1426 Newberry avenue, was unable to make $125 bond on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and disorderly conduct pending a hearing Friday. He blamed 10 glasses of beer for his conduct.

duct during a hearing tomorrow. He

Police said Mulrain had been a semi-professional baseball player and that the eggs, which had been frozen, constituted deadly weapons in his hands.

Mayor Kelly said of the egg throwing: "This was done by an illegitimate child of Chicago. Real Chicagoans are not built that way."

"No one deplores more than I the discourteous treatment of Wendell Willkie in the egg throwing episode at the station last night," said Senator Scott W. Lucas, chairman of the middle western region of the Democratic national committee. "We have no place for such hoodlums as egg throwers."

BY ELSIE, THE BORDEN COW
A column of helpful and healthful hints on the preparation and enjoyment of good food

My subject for today is: the Milk-Bottle Twirl, or, Shake Well Before Using. This form of kitchen calisthenics, though a dandy muscle-developer, is no longer necessary to distribute the cream throughout the bottle.

All you need do to put an end to this sort of thing is call BITtersweet 8600 and order . . .

BORDEN-WIELAND'S HOMOGENIZED VITAMIN D MILK (only 1¢ more than regular milk). You see, the same process that makes Homogenized Milk even easier to digest by breaking up the butter-fat globules, distributes the cream all through the milk, keeps it from ever rising to the top!

All the babies I've talked to like Borden-Wieland's Homogenized Milk because of its richer, creamier flavor. Nurse likes it because it contains added vitamin D (the sunshine vitamin), and because the cream never, never rises to clog the bottle nipple. Cook says Homogenized is better because it doesn't separate in cooking—won't form a film even after boiling!

How are you at puzzles? Hidden in this one is the name of the only American-made cheese that's famous the world over. Here's a clue: Because of its foreign-sounding name, many people think this tawny-crusted, mellow-tangy cheese is made abroad. Not so. Only Borden makes it.

To solve the puzzle, spell out the name by starting with the letter "L," and move from one square to the next. Move up or down or diagonally, but don't use the same letter twice. (The answer's at the bottom of the next column, but no fair peeking.)

Here's my prize recipe for an Economy Salad Dressing. It's hard to believe that anything so easy to make can taste so-o-o good. Try it and see.

ECONOMY SALAD DRESSING
1⅓ cups (1 large or 2 small cans) Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Blend thoroughly Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk, salt, vinegar, and mustard. Stir until mixture thickens. If thicker consistency is desired, place in refrigerator to chill before serving. Makes 1¾ cups.

If it's recipes you're after, for cake frostings, cookies, candies, or sauces, get a can of my EAGLE BRAND SWEETENED CONDENSED MILK today. The folder on every can is chock-full of what we call "Magic Recipes"—they're so delicious and amazingly simple to make. If the recipe calls for only ⅔ cup, get the new, half-size, half-price can. Just enough.

HAIL MINCE PIES!

Girls! Where's your patriotism? Here it is middle of October, and how many of you have treated your folks to a spicy, fragrant Mince Pie, the traditional American delicacy since Pilgrim days? Raise your hands, please. Nope, not half enough. So get a package of Borden's NONE SUCH MINCE MEAT—nothing less should do, for your family. Of course, famous old None Such costs a couple of cents more—but for a delicacy like Mince Pie, a dessert you'll want your folks to rave over—why use anything but the best?

Always something new at stores that serve Borden's Ice Cream. This time it's . . . Cherry Ice Cream Pie! The top and bottom crusts are creamy layers of rich, healthful (it's got to be good) Borden's Vanilla. And the filling . . . oh, that filling . . . is made of luscious, juicy, hand-picked cherries, the pride of Door County, Wisconsin . . . which, as you should know but may not, is America's Cherryland. Each pie makes 5 ample portions . . . 35¢. There's your ready-made dessert for tonight!

R-R-R-R-R-I-N-N-G

WANT AN ALARM CLOCK FREE with 270 coupons from Borden's Evaporated Milk? Simple. All you do is switch to Borden's, the top-quality evaporated milk, and start saving the labels on every can for your choice of over 1,000 free gifts! If that isn't just plain common sense, I don't know what is. First off: you can buy no finer milk anywhere than Borden's (SILVER COW BRAND) evaporated—irradiated with extra vitamin D. Second, this better evaporated milk costs you no more. And, third, it's the only evaporated milk in Chicago that gives you premiums. Write to Borden's at 315 No. Clark Street (or phone Whitehall 5330) for a free, illustrated catalog of these valuable gifts. And—start saving with Borden's today!

Check your shopping list for:
✓ MALTED MILK (Borden's Chocolate Flavored)
✓ CHEESE (Borden's 20-odd varieties are famous)
✓ CARAMELS (rich and chewy and nutritious)

P. S. The answer to the puzzle above is LIEDERKRANZ Cheese. Not a bad answer to give the waiter (or your family) for dessert tonight, either!

That's all for now . . .

ROOSEVELT RIPS AT FOES; DENIES HIS AIM IS WAR

Deplores 'False' Charges; Answers with 'Facts.'

Slovakia down the river; or that the unfortunate unemployed of the nation are going to be driven into concentration camps; or that the social security funds of the nation will not be in existence when the workers of today become old enough to apply for them; or that the election of the present government means the end of American democracy within four years. They know that all of these statements are false.

"Certain techniques of propaganda, created and developed in dictator countries, have been imported into this campaign. It is the very simple technique of repeating and repeating falsehoods, with the idea that by constant repetition and with no contradiction, the misstatements will finally come to be believed.

"Dictators have had great success in using this technique; but only because they were able to control the press and radio, and to stifle all opposition. That is why I cannot bring myself to believe that in a democracy like ours, where the radio and a part of the press remain open to both sides, repetition of deliberate misstatements will ever prevail.

Campaign Aimed at Fear.

"I make the charge now that these falsifications are being spread for the purpose of filling the minds and hearts of the American people with fear. They are used to create fear by instilling in the minds of the people doubt of each other, doubt of their government, and doubt of the purposes of their democracy.

"This type of campaign has a familiar ring. It reminds us of the scarecrow of 1936, that the social security funds were going to be diverted from the pockets of the American working man.

"It reminds us of the scarecrow of 1932 that 'grass will grow in the streets of a hundred cities; a thousand towns; the weeds will overrun the fields of millions of farms.'

"The American people will not be stampeded into panic. The effort failed before. It will fail again. They will not be scared by this blitzkrieg of verbal incendiary bombs. They are now calmly aware that once more 'the only thing we have to fear is fear itself.'

No Secret Treaties.

"The worst bombshell of fear which Republican leaders have let loose on this people is the accusation that this government, without knowledge of the congress or of the people, has secretly entered into agreements with foreign nations. They even intimate that such commitments have endangered the security of the United States, or have pledged the participation of the United States in some foreign war.

"It seems almost unnecessary to deny such a charge. But so long as the fantastic misstatement has been made, I must brand it for what it is.

"I give you this most solemn assurance: There is no secret treaty, no secret obligation, no secret commitment, no secret understanding in any shape or form, direct or indirect, with any other government, or any other nation in any part of the world, to involve this nation in any war or for any other purpose.

"The desperation of partisans who can invent secret treaties drives them to try to deceive our people in other ways. Consider, for example, the false charge they make that our whole industrial system is prostrate—that business is stifled and can make no profits.

"The American people have not forgotten the condition of the United States in 1932. We all remember the failures of banks, the bread lines of starving men and women, the youth of the country riding around in freight cars, the farm foreclosures, the home foreclosures, the bankruptcy and the panic.

"The very same men who must bear the responsibility for the inaction of those days, are the ones who now dare falsely to state that we are all still in the depth of the depression into which they plunged us; that we have prevented the country from recovering, and that it is headed for the chaos of bankruptcy. They have even gone to the extent of stating that this administration has not made one man a job.

"Back in 1932, these leaders were willing to let the workers starve if they could not get a job.

"Back in 1932, they were not willing to guarantee collective bargaining.

"Back in 1932, they met the demands of unemployed veterans with fire and troops.

"Back in 1932, they raised their hands in horror at the thought of fixing a minimum wage or maximum hours for labor; they never gave one thought to such things as pensions for old age or insurance for the unemployed.

Different Tune Now.

"In 1940, eight years later, what a different tune is played by them! It is a tune played against a sounding board of election day. It is a tune with overtones which whisper, 'votes, votes, votes.'

"This tune is, of course, only a rehash of the tune of 1936. In that election year the affection of these Republican leaders for the laboring man also rose to a high pitch. But after election day, they and their friends did all that they could in the congress, before administrative bodies, and in the courts, and in the press, to beat these measures down into the ground."

The President declared 9 million persons have found jobs in private industry since March, 1933.

He reviewed the social legislation enacted under the New Deal and declared factory pay rolls have risen from 5 billion dollars in 1932 to 10 billion dollars a year now.

"And we must not forget that the cost of living is today 22 per cent lower than it was in 1929," he said. "That means something to the American family.

"We know, if we but look at the record, that American business, big and small, is way up above the level of 1932, and on a much sounder footing than it was even in the twenties."

The President quoted figures on the rise in total national income and then added:

"During this administration the total number of bank failures for the entire seven years was less than the number of bank failures in any single one of the preceding 10 years.

Attempt at Intimidation.

"And yet there are some banks now using money to advertise, or to send letters to their depositors, hinting that unless this administration is defeated the deposits of their banks will be in danger. This is sheer intimidation to blackjack the election and to return the financial control of the government to the very forces which had nearly wrecked the nation.

"Now as to corporation profits. They were a minus quantity in 1932. Corporations as a whole showed losses of almost four billion dollars that year. By now, eight years later, that deficit has been wiped out, and corporations are reporting profits of four billion dollars a year.

"And yet they say this administration prevents profits and stifles business.

"If it is true that the New Deal is the enemy of business and that the Republican leaders, who brought business to the brink of ruin in 1932, are the friends of business—then I can only say that American business should continue to be saved from its friends.

"The output of our factories and mines is now almost 13 per cent greater than at the peak of 1929—1929, mind you, not 1932. It is at the highest level ever recorded.

"We have passed the time when the prosperity of the nation is measured in terms of the stock ticker. We know that the well being of a people is measured by the manner in which they live, by the security which they feel in the future.

Living Standard Raised.

"For the American people as a whole—the great body of its citizens—the standard of living has increased well above that of 1929.

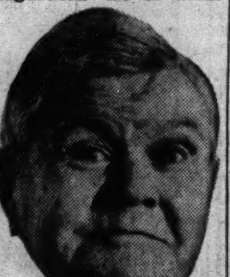
"We do not advertise a 'chicken in every pot' or 'two cars in every garage.' We know it is more important that the American people this year are building more homes, are buying more pairs of shoes, more washing machines, more electric refrigerators, more electric current, more textile products, than in the boom year of 1929.

"This year there will be placed on the tables of America far more butter, more cheese, more meat, more canned goods—more food than in the luxurious year of 1929.

"Last Sunday morning I had to laugh when I read the following in the financial section of the New York Times—a paper which is reputed not to love me too much. This is what an editor of the financial page of the New York Times said; I quote:

"'The federal reserve board in the week added another point to its index of production for September, and the figure now stands at one hundred and twenty-five, or thirteen and a half per cent above the 1929 average'—mind you, not the 1932 average, but the 1929 average. I quote further: 'Dreams of business flat on its back must come from smoking campaign cigars or else the speakers are talking about some other country.'"

SAW 12 PRESIDENTS SWORN, BUT HIS FIRST VOTE GOES TO WILLKIE



Robert P. Murphy.

Robert P. Murphy has seen 12 Presidents inaugurated—all of them from Garfield on. He reached voting age 51 years ago. But on Tuesday, Nov. 5, Mr. Murphy will cast his first ballot in a Presidential election. He gained that privilege when he moved from Washington, D. C., his native city, to Chicago two years ago upon retiring from the employ of the Pennsylvania road.

Mr. Murphy declared yesterday that his first vote would go to Willkie. "Almost all my life," he said, "I lived within sight of the capitol. It gave me a reverence for our country's history and sound traditions. My vote is a protest against a third term."

Mr. Murphy lives with his nephew, Policeman Edward Tyrrell of the Hyde Park station, at 8436 Michigan avenue.

ELECT WILLKIE TO CREATE JOBS, BARTON PLEADS

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 23 [Special].—Representative Bruce Barton, Republican senatorial candidate, tonight wound up a strenuous day of campaigning with an appeal to labor to vote for Wendell L. Willkie. Speaking at a large rally in Rensselaer, he predicted that if the third term candidate were elected, 1940 would be marked by future historians as the date of the death of organized labor in this country—thru the advent of totalitarianism.

Barton disclosed that a poll he has just received showed that more than 85 per cent of the owners of employment agencies favored Mr. Willkie as offering the best chance for increased employment—benefittitng both labor and the agencies.

TEXAN INDORSES WILLKIE-M'NARY FARM PROGRAM

Predicts Serfdom Under New Deal Policy.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 23 [Special].—Declaring that the independent American farm cannot survive four more years of the New Deal, J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture and long known as a fighting Democrat, today called upon farmers to vote for Wendell Willkie.

J. E. McDonald.

"If I believed," he said, "that there was any reasonable hope of rescuing American agriculture from its misery and ruin under the Roosevelt-Wallace administration, I would not counsel my friends among the farm population of Texas and America to vote for the Willkie-McNary ticket."

Because of McDonald's wide influence among Texas farmers, many of them are expected to heed his advice. He is greatly admired by adherents of all political beliefs in the state for living up to his convictions, political or otherwise.

Named for Sixth Term.

In the face of his well known opposition to the New Deal, particularly that part of it embracing the Agricultural Adjustment administration, he was nominated by an overwhelming majority for a sixth term as commissioner of agriculture in the recent Democratic primaries.

Another indication of his following was the failure of a movement to reprimand him for making a personal call on Mr. Willkie in Colorado Springs, Colo., last August to discuss farm problems. Roosevelt supporters sought to have him reprimanded and, if possible, to have the Democratic state committee remove him from the party's ticket. The attempt failed from lack of support.

Texas Republicans showed their high regard for him by declining to nominate a G. O. P. opponent for his office. He was welcomed in their ranks and, upon invitation, addressed the recent state Republican convention.

Farm Program Approved.

In connection with his announcement today that he would vote for Willkie, McDonald declared that the Willkie-McNary farm program would give the American farmer a new existence completely free from regimentation.

He said the Republicans' plan would offer a two price system and benefits equal to those manufacturers receive thru the protective tariff. It also would insure full parity price, he said, for the part of farm crops domestically consumed, leaving the farmer free, as is the manufacturer, to produce any amount above the domestic allotment which he may desire to sell in foreign markets at world prices.

McDonald said his opinion that American agriculture cannot survive four more years of the New Deal without being reduced to serfdom and peonage is shared by George B. Terrell and Fred W. Davis, only living ex-commissioners of agriculture in Texas.

PRESIDENT TO REVIEW R.O.T.C. AND SPEAK AT FORDHAM UNIVERSITY

New York, Oct. 23 (AP).—Fordham university announced today that President Roosevelt will review the Fordham R. O. T. C. on the campus Monday afternoon and deliver an address.

The President, an honorary alumnus of Fordham, will visit the university, the announcement said, in response to a longstanding invitation tendered by the Very Rev. Robert I. Gannon, S. J., Fordham president. When governor of New York, in 1929, Mr. Roosevelt received an honorary doctor of laws degree at Fordham.

Wendell Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, has accepted an invitation to share Father Gannon's box at the Fordham-St. Mary's football game next Saturday.

WALLACE HYBRID SEED CORN FARM PAY 30-35 CENTS

Some Employes Work Up to 60 Hours a Week.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 23.—This is about the golden corn, the golden hybrid seed corn that is marketed by the Pioneer Hi-Bred Seed Corn Company, Inc., of Iowa, and of the men who work from 56 to 60 hours a week at 30 and 35 cents an hour to produce it.

Pioneer Hi-Bred is successful big business. An employé said today that the firm last year sold 170,000 bushels of seed corn and that each bushel would sow six to nine acres. At a guess, he said, 1,200,000 was the total acreage planted with this seed, and it would normally return 60 to 70 bushels to the acre.

That would mean the farmers who produced at least 75 million bushels of corn this year are paying tribute to Pioneer Hi-Bred of Iowa and its owners.

Stock in Wallace Family.

Last official figures showed that the concern had net earnings of $260,480 in 1939. They also showed that Henry A. Wallace, Democratic nominee for Vice President, and his family owned 963 of the 2,015 shares [$100 a share] that have been issued.

There are three other Pioneer companies—in Ohio, Illinois, and Indiana—for which no figures are available.

This one operates eight farms. Three are called "Boosters." They grow hybrid corn, but do not carry on the drying, sorting, and other processes that precede marketing at prices that range up to $6 a bushel.

One of these large manufactories is at Johnston, a few miles northwest of Des Moines. It contains 940 acres, including a part that originally belonged to Wallace, some of it as good soil as rich Iowa can offer.

Process Intricate One.

Visitors there are pleasantly received. An intelligent young man, enthusiastic about Wallace and the business, received a casual one today and explained the technical details of making hybrid seed corn.

The process is intricate. The system requires the accurate crossing of various inbred strains to form the final commercial types.

He said the farmers must like it, as the office in Des Moines had already sold 90,000 bushels of the 1940 produced seed—and in spite of growing independent competition.

Another viewpoint was that of some ex-workers on the farm. No. 1 said he had worked there in 1936, 1937, and 1938, always at detasseling the corn in the blazing days of late July and August.

Sixty Hours at 30 Cents.

"I got the same rate of pay as the others in my gang—30 cents an hour," he said.

"The work was as hard as I ever did anywhere. The standard work week in busy times was 60 hours.

"At times we had to labor in deep mud, after the plots had been irrigated. And you had to be really on the job. If you failed to pull tassels as you came to them, a foreman gave you a demerit and too many demerits meant a firing."

Former worker No. 2 corroborated all that No. 1 said.

NEW DEAL CLOAKING DOMESTIC TROUBLES, SAYS SENATOR TAFT

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 23 [Special].—The seriousness of America's domestic problems is being aggravated by the efforts of the New Deal to focus attention on the European crisis, United States Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio asserted today at a Republican loyalty luncheon here. Taft unqualifiedly predicted the election of Wendell L. Willkie.

Coming to Indiana to assist his party in the observance of "No Third Term day," the Ohio senator spoke last night at Richmond, spoke here at noon, and this evening makes an address at Marion. He will board the Willkie campaign train tomorrow at Erie, Pa.

Senator Taft asserted that "the whole effort of the New Deal Democrats has been to divert attention from our pressing domestic problems by concentrating on the foreign crisis. As a matter of face, dangers springing from domestic policies of the New Deal are even greater by reason of the existence of a war overseas than they would be if there were none."

REPUBLICAN.

Roosevelt Now Takes 'Self-Defense' Trips.

(Provided by the National Committee of Democrats-for-Willkie.)

Miss Doris Fleeson's able political column written in collaboration with John O'Donnell is read by millions. Both she and Mr. O'Donnell are personal friends and admirers of Mr. Roosevelt.

But as we pointed out yesterday, they are both honest reporters.

And in a recent dispatch from Washington Miss Fleeson writes: "Belatedly, in the opinion of his closets advisers, President Roosevelt goes off to the political wars this week to battle for the supreme objective of his career—a third term in the White House. Whether or not in the 16 days remaining until election he can overcome the political momentum recently gained by the Willkie drive is a problem that is causing deep concern at Democratic GHQ.

NO THIRD TERM!
DEMOCRATS FOR WILLKIE

Why the Rise of Willkie?

"A few of the more doleful observers here are even recalling that in 1932 Hoover adopted a "sitdown" strategy similar to that of the President and that when finally he was persuaded to swing into action it was too late. . . .

"Today the President's warmest admirers are conceding that his late minute entry is a defensive gesture and therefore a handicap."

Alan Valentine, executive director of the Democrats-for-Willkie, says that Mr. Roosevelt's "defense" trips have now become self-defense trips.

Why is Mr. Roosevelt now so plainly on the defensive? Why is Mr. Willkie so plainly leading in public confidence, as shown by the march of state after state into his column?

The answer is simple:

The people distrust Mr. Roosevelt's impulsive nature in these grave hours when it is so easy to involve ourselves in war. And tho they admit his good intentions, they know that his leadership—like that of the unfortunate Blum in France, and the inefficient Chamberlain in England—has left the United States unprepared for war.

Impressed by Sincerity.

The people also have been impressed with Mr. Willkie's honesty, sincerity, and courage. They have admired his refusal to compromise with his principles for political expediency.

The people know that Wendell Willkie has faith in them. That explains their faith in Wendell Willkie.

We think one of the most moving features of this campaign is the great increase in the number of women who are registering. In Illinois, 60 per cent more women have registered than in 1936. In other states, similar gains have been noted.

Many of these women are mothers of boys who will have to fight if we go to war.

Others are the wives or sisters or sweethearts of young men of military age.

Needless to say, these women are patriotic. They would not hesitate to see their men folk go to the front IN THE DEFENSE OF AMERICA.

DEMOCRATIC.

The War Guilt of the G. O. P.

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee.)

Winston Churchill said last year:

"It may well be that the preservation of European peace will be secured thru his far sighted and courageous policy."

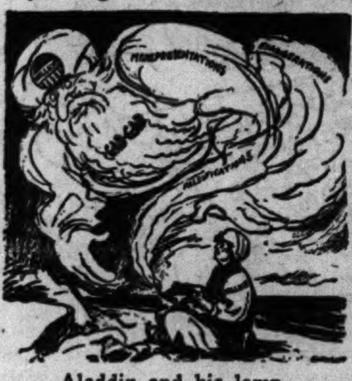
Churchill was referring to President Roosevelt. He said the President's promise of aid to the democracies in the event they were the victims of unprovoked aggression was a "potent stabilizing factor." He felt that Roosevelt's wise policy might avert the blood bath which has since drenched Europe.

The Republicans never quote this passage from Churchill's book because it gives them a guilty conscience.

When President Roosevelt sought to have the restrictions on arms shipments lifted before war broke out, the Republicans blocked it. Yet Churchill felt this policy might preserve the peace of Europe.

Another Business Man.

The Republicans almost without exception were obstructionists — too busy hating Roosevelt to see the fire before their eyes. No one knows what Wendell Willkie thought then.



Aladdin and his lamp.

The Republicans wish to fasten a "business man" on this country. The fact is that Wendell Willkie's dismal failure as a business man should make the American people pause and reflect.

During the seven years Willkie headed Commonwealth and Southern, his company failed to pay a dividend on common stock. The company is more than $20,000,000 in arrears on its preferred stock.

Did you ever reflect on the fact that the Republicans never discuss Willkie's business record? They never discuss the $500,000,000 in water which was hastily stricken from the company books—just before Roosevelt got to the White House. And yet while this watered "writeup" was on the books, Willkie was general counsel and a DIRECTOR of Commonwealth and Southern.

Herbert Hoover was a business man and a flop in the White House. But at least Mr. Hoover was a SUCCESSFUL business man.

A Republican for Roosevelt.

Chase Mellen Jr. is head of the committee of regular Republicans in New York City who are supporting President Roosevelt for reëlection. He is a former Republican county chairman. Recently he said:

"The paramount issue today is the defense of the United States and on that issue we believe that Mr. Roosevelt is a stronger man than Mr. Willkie."

Don't gamble on inexperience. Play safe with Roosevelt.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By HOMER NEISZ

Steers Get a Treat.

Oct. 23, 1940.

THE 77 feeder steers on pasture at the Du Page county farm got their first taste of molasses silage yesterday and it nearly started a stampede. The hungry animals did not stop at pushing and crowding each other about the feed bunks; some tried to climb over the others to get at the silage. They put on such a demonstration that several of the farm workers went out to the pasture to watch them eat.

The steers were so greedy for the new feed that they hardly would let the men toss it out of the truck into the feed bunks. Apparently they knew by its sweet smell that the silage was good before they ever tasted it. Today they gathered around the feed bunks before feeding time and then ran to meet the truck as soon as it drove into the pasture.

Made from Red Clover.

The silage was made from good quality red clover hay and was treated with 100 pounds of corn sirup to each ton of green hay. A two foot layer of spoiled silage was thrown off the top when the silo was opened yesterday. Below that the silage was of excellent quality. The proportion of sirup is expected to increase as the silage is fed out since the sirup tends to settle to the bottom of the silo.

Farther down in the silo are layers of alfalfa and mixed clover and timothy. Two other silos were filled with legume and grass silage, mostly first and second cutting alfalfa. One was topped off with third cutting alfalfa. No corn silage was made at the farm this year.

So far the steers have been given only five pounds each of the silage at a feed. The amount will be increased gradually until the steers are getting at least 20 pounds each a day by the time they are put in the feed lot late this fall.

Other Rations for Steers.

In addition to the silage the steers are each being fed a daily ration of 7 pounds alfalfa hay, 5 pounds whole oats, and one-half pound cottonseed meal.

The manager decided to start feeding the silage to supplement the pasture since the pastures are beginning to get short and about 50 acres of land that had been used for pasture recently was plowed up. The present plan is to keep the steers outside until after the corn is picked and let them glean the stalk fields before they are put in the feed lot. The amount of silage is to be increased to 20 pounds a day by the time the steers are turned into the stalk fields.

Part of the legume silage is being fed to dairy cows. They have been eating it since shortly after the silos were filled. The cows eat the silage, but are not so fond of it as the steers are. When legume silage was offered the cows last year for the first time it took them about two weeks to learn to like it. After that they ate it readily.

The Story of the 2 Pct. Club

BY OBSERVER.

The story of the mysterious death of F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works and former Illinois Democratic campaign manager, should turn back the calendar at least as far as the fall of 1938. Smith, organizer of the 2 per cent shakedown of state employés, master in collecting donations from road builders and others doing business with the state, had raised and spent a million dollars to elect a ticket headed by United States Senator Scott Lucas. In behalf of this ticket, Gov. Henry Horner had stumped the state, denouncing the Kelly-Nash bosses of Chicago.

F. Lynden Smith.

The governor wrecked his health in this campaign. He suffered a collapse from which he never recovered before his death on Oct. 6. Smith's political fortune was stricken when the governor's health failed, and his political position grew constantly worse until his body was found in a bathtub of a Springfield hospital last March 9, an unexplained death.

Bedside Cabinet Rules.

A clique that became known as a bedside cabinet, headed by Finance Director Samuel L. Nudelman, assumed an extralegal control of the executive functions of the Illinois governor. Gov. Horner, a helpless invalid, refused to resign for the announced reason that he did not trust Lieut. Gov. John Stelle.

Smith became bitterly estranged from the bedside clique. He was fighting racketeer labor leaders including the Chicago gangster, Mike Carrozzo. He had winked at undercover alliances among road contractors, material men, insurance men, suppliers, and the political machines. He was after more money to fuel these machines. But when certain politicians were pocketing money that should have gone to the Democratic campaign kitty, he squawked. He told federal agents much of wheat he knew.

Thereafter, Smith confided to intimates that he had reason to fear for his life. He also feared that he would be framed.

He guarded records, memoranda, and evidence that he described to close friends as his protection against being framed or even attacked by enemies in Chicago's city hall and in Springfield's invisible government. This evidence included a "little black book," a record of campaign collections and expenditures.

Told to Take Vacation.

Last February Smith told Horner he was too ill to be a candidate for a third term merely to continue the bedside cabinet in power. Smith was told to take a vacation in Florida until after the April primary. He departed for the south, armed with a revolver, leaving the state at 80 miles an hour. Thereafter, the cabinet with back room boys of the Nash-Kelly machine named the Democratic ticket.

On March 6, Smith entered his Springfield home at midnight, telling no one of his return. On March 7, Smith is said to have stabbed himself in the chest and on the neck. The wounds were not serious.

After the body was found in a bathtub, one autopsy said the heart was good and another that the heart was bad. The coroner was told by Attorney General John Cassidy and others that no inquiry should be made into Smith's political or public affairs for a motive for suicide or murder. A jury returned a suicide verdict.

Smith's political files were traced to a vault of the Pontiac Lumber company, but never made public. The whereabouts of his "little black book" is still unknown.

DOUGLAS PLEADS FOR REPUDIATION OF 3D TERM AIM

Former Budget Head Tells Threat to Freedom.

"Washington would not, Jefferson would not, Grant could not, Roosevelt [Theodore], could not, and nobody ever shall," Lewis W. Douglas, former Democratic congressman and first director of the budget under the New Deal, quoted yesterday in a speech that explained his stand against President Roosevelt's third term aspirations. He spoke before an "America, Wake Up!" audience in the Union League club of Chicago.

Lewis Douglas.

Douglas, a native of Arizona and president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, credited the quotation to Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, a Democrat, in a speech on the floor of the upper chamber in 1913.

Conceded a Chance in East.

"All Americans who would preserve freedom, who would fight for freedom, must applaud and concur with Senator Williams' statement," Douglas declared. In an interview after the talk, he said eastern political opinion concedes Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican candidate, "a darn good chance."

Douglas contrasted the limited executive power of former outstanding Democratic Presidents when they refused to accept a third term nomination with that now residing in the Presidential office.

Vast Sums Controled.

"Vast sums, so vast that they cannot be stated except that they run into many billions, have been placed at the disposal of the executive to spend or not to spend according to his own discretion and his own fancy," he said.

It would not be necessary to abolish congress and other forms of democracy to establish a dictatorship, he said, but a firmly entrenched administration would make democracy an empty shell.

"Therefore, I plead with all Democrats who believe as I believe that loyalty to our country takes precedence over loyalty to our party to join hands with Republicans to elect Willkie," he said.

LA GUARDIA MAY FACE SUIT OVER DETROIT ATTACK

New York, Oct. 23 [Special].—Legal action against Mayor Fiorello La Guardia for his behavior in Detroit Monday, when he seized a questioner at a political meeting, twisted his necktie, and tore his shirt, was threatened tonight by Robert W. Owens Jr., an attorney, and brother of Benjamin H. Owens of Ferndale, Mich., who was the Detroit victim of the mayor's quick trigger temper.

Owens charged that his brother had been represented falsely as a "heckler," who interrupted the mayor to ask: "Are you still taking orders from Boss Flynn?"

Benjamin Owens, the attorney said, put the question at the conclusion of the mayor's address, during a period when interrogations had been invited by those in charge of the meeting. The mayor, he said, already had answered two inquiries before Owens put his question.

THE SAINTS AND THE SEWERS.

Mr. Tom D. Garry of the local Kelly-Nash-New Deal-Third Term outfit has acquired national fame which he, no doubt, regards as an astonishingly unexpected thing to come into his life. He probably hadn't the faintest idea that he was becoming a celebrity when, in what Mr. Willkie calls the bowels of the Democratic convention hall, he went to work on the loud speaker system to provide the sound effects for the "Draft Roosevelt" demonstration. He was the Voice of the "We want Roosevelt! Mayor Kelly wants Roosevelt! Illinois wants Roosevelt! Humanity wants Roosevelt!"

When the reporters and photographers tracked the Voice down in the bowels of the building they found that it was Mr. Garry. Now the Kelly-Nash people are not dumb showmen, and if they had known what were to be the echoes of this Voice they would have chosen the superintendent of parks or the corporation counsel, or anybody else but Mr. Garry, who is the commissioner of sewers.

That's an important job, but the country began to laugh when it learned that the Voice which was drafting Mr. Roosevelt was the Voice of the Sewers. It seemed to be more than an accident that humanity's demand for the third term in that packed and boss ruled convention should come from the place and the person it did. Senator Scott Lucas, a delegate, let slip the descriptive remark: "Had this been a free convention——." It wasn't.

The voice of Mr. Garry was the voice of the metropolitan political gangs.

It was the voice of Mr. Hague of New Jersey, the voice of Jimmie Hines' successors in New York. It was the voice of all the black wingers who are in alliance with the left wingers to put over the third term. The left wingers have not only consorted with the black wingers; they have coerced them. The voice from the bowels of the Stadium was not altogether the voice of hysterical loyalty and devotion. It was also, as speaking for the black wingers, the voice of apprehension.

Mr. Willkie referred to the meetings in which the two wings joined to give Mr. Roosevelt what he didn't want and insisted on having. One picture shows Mr. Ickes, Mme. Perkins, Henry Wallace, Robert Jackson and Jesse Jones, the purse strings, in a huddle with Mayor Hague of Jersey City and Mayor Kelly of Chicago. Arthur Henning, in his report from New Jersey, recalled that when Frank Murphy was attorney general he sent Federal Bureau of Investigation agents into the state to go over Mr. Hague's machine, just as Huey Long's machine had been gone over by Mr. Murphy's predecessor in the department of justice, Mr. Cummings.

"What they found," said Mr. Henning, "caused Murphy to procure indictments of those held responsible for what he described as 'awful conditions.'" Then Mr. Murphy was appointed to the Supreme court and his successor, Robert H. Jackson, one of the figures in the huddle in Chicago, dropped the investigation. Until Mr. Murphy moved in on him Mr. Hague had not been so wild about the third term. Afterwards he was. At Chicago he yielded to no man in his enthusiasm for the draft. He, with Mr. Ickes, Mr. Jackson, Mr. Jones, Mr. Wallace, and Mme. Perkins, with the assistance of Mr. Garry's voice, put it over in the convention which was not free.

The insincerity of the entire third term campaign is illustrated by every turn of events. Mr. Roosevelt's note to the convention, which set off the Voice of the Sewers, that he never had any desire or purpose to remain in the office of President or to be nominated by the convention was a masterpiece of dissimulation, framed as such by the convention activities of Mr. Hague with Mr. Roosevelt's closest associates, all of them working to get the thing on which Mr. Roosevelt had set his ambitions and to which he was devoting all his activities.

If he had not been dissembling, he would not have permitted the illegal act by which his name was entered in the Illinois primaries, without a statement from him that he was a candidate. If the late Gov. Horner had not been too ill at the time to sit on the certifying board which accepted the petition, fraudulent and invalid on its face, he might not have consented to the procedure. The fraud enabled Mr. Roosevelt to preserve his pose of not wanting the nomination and it also enabled him to brush John Garner aside as a candidate. The deceit made hash of Mr. Roosevelt's subsequent statement to the convention that he wished "in all earnestness and sincerity to make it clear that all delegates to this convention are free to vote for any candidates."

Mr. Jackson and Mr. Hague, Mr. Kelly and Mr. Ickes, Tammany and Mme. Perkins, Mr. Guffey and Henry Wallace had made it certain that there would be no other candidate who could hope for a fair break in the convention controled by the two wings. Mr. Farley recognized that fact and it didn't need any of his political astuteness to tell him what was going on. Mr. McNutt recognized it and later bowed to the fact that he couldn't be nominated even for Vice President.

The campaign for the third term has been conducted from the beginning with deceit and dissembling. It has been promoted by politicians who at one time or another have looked into the eyes of a federal prosecutor. There are many reasons why the convention was not free, as Senator Lucas blurted out.

In the pretensions of the New Deal these big machine politicians have no place. In the practices of it they are indispensable. To the country Mr. Roosevelt is not an indispensable man, but to Mr. Roosevelt Mr. Hague is indispensable, Mr. Kelly is indispensable, Mr. Nash is indispensable, Tammany is indispensable, and every city which can be carried by frauds and every district which can be carried by subsidies is indispensable.

EDUCATED TO HATE.

The man who hurled frozen eggs at Mr. and Mrs. Willkie in the La Salle station on Tuesday evening was a relief administration pay roller. He had enough spare cash to buy eggs which he did not intend to eat. One of them hit Mr. Willkie on the cheek and narrowly missed his eye. Others hit Mrs. Willkie and smeared her clothing.

Mayor Kelly calls the egg thrower an illegitimate son of Chicago. The more important fact is that the culprit is a legitimate son of the New Deal machine. He looks just like his papa, and it was from papa that he learned his manners.

From the day Mr. Roosevelt was first nominated in 1932 until today, the New Dealers have been building their political machine by promoting class hatred. It has been Mr. Roosevelt's consistent story that only he has any sympathy for the unfortunate. He has warned those he called the forgotten men that if anybody but Roosevelt is President they must expect to lose their dole and starve to death. The Republicans, he implies, despise the poor and have no real desire to help the unemployed find work. Also the pay rollers whose jobs are a by-product of New Deal spending are frightened at the prospect of losing these jobs.

It is these persuasions, repeated a thousand times by the President and all his speechmakers, that account for the eggs and rotten tomatoes thrown at Mr. and Mrs. Willkie. To the unfortunates tutored in hate by Mr. Roosevelt Mr. Willkie is an ogre who would take bread from starving mouths and soft jobs from deserving Democrats. The very slogan, "Roosevelt and Humanity," finds its political value in the alternative which it slyly suggests: "Willkie and Inhumanity."

The egg and tomato brigade is composed of simple people. They know that Mr. Willkie is making great progress in his campaign. They are in terror lest he win. They can't answer his arguments. All they can do is to hate and to throw things. Mr. Roosevelt didn't climb the baggage truck the other night to egg the Willkies, but he cannot escape his full share of the responsibility for the disgraceful incident, and, if he has a conscience, it ought to be troubling him. He has succeeded in introducing a new and dangerous note into American politics.

THE DRAFT.

Wendell L. Willkie enlisted in the army as a private in 1917, the day war was declared, and served 10 months in France. He was a captain in the 325th field artillery at the armistice. Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for United States senator, enlisted as a private in the marines, was wounded, decorated, and made a lieutenant for gallantry in action. Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for governor, enlisted in 1917 and served thruout the war as aviator and aviation instructor.

Franklin D. Roosevelt had no combat war record. He saw the war as assistant secretary of the navy. James M. Slattery, Democratic candidate for United States senator, had no war record. Harry B. Hershey, Democratic candidate for governor, had no war record.

The men who have registered for the draft, the 16 odd millions of them, may find something of importance in these contrasting records. The Republicans know what war is from personal service. The Democrats do not. All observers in Washington agree that the atmosphere there is charged with expectancy. There is a general agreement that the prospects are for war within a few months if Mr. Roosevelt should get the third term.

Within the period of this prediction there can't be a war for the defense of the United States because within that period, and within a much longer one, no enemy could get at the United States. The drafted men may be taken for a year's training. It may be for only that. It may be that they will become the first of a class of reserves to which other classes will be added in subsequent years. That will be all if we wait until some other nation declares war on the United States. It will not be all if the United States declares war itself.

Mr. Roosevelt has been intervening in both Europe and Japan. He has given the interventionists to believe that he will go the limit. He has encouraged warring people to think he will be in as soon as he can carry popular opinion with him. If he is reëlected, that will be carrying popular opinion with him. It would indicate to the interventionists and to people abroad that he had the authority necessary to go to war with the backing of the nation.

Few people in this country are in a position to know what understandings or commitments the present administration has abroad. There are many signs which are interpreted just as Washington is interpreting them. A Republican administration will start with a clean slate. Nothing that Mr. Roosevelt may have done in the way of commitments will be binding. Mr. Willkie has said that the new American army will not be sent abroad as an expeditionary force to fight in Europe or to fight in Indo-China. He is for defense preparations, but he is against a war for other than national defense. He means that and the Republican candidates in this state mean it, and their decisions come out of their own experience in war. Therefore they are trustworthy.

Editorial of the Day

PROBING FRAUD IN CHICAGO.

[Peoria Journal-Transcript.]

The senate expenditures committee has ordered an investigation of charges that there have been "intimidations, coercion, vote buying, and vote stealing" in the city of Chicago.

The committee has undertaken a tremendous task. Illinois has endured Chicago politics for many years, but it was not until the Kelly-Nash machine began to roll on its well oiled way that public sentiment in that city became strong enough to reach down into Washington and force the senate of the United States to take cognizance of the many charges of corruption which have been made against the "organization" up there.

Of course the senate's investigation cannot be completed by Nov. 5. But the fact that it is being made will probably improve matters on that day.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AN UNDERGROUND "POEM."

The frequency with which a satirical jingle called "Rejected" has turned up in our mail during the last two years convinces us that there is a story in it. We don't know who wrote it or where it started, but the way it is being passed around from hand to hand convinces us that it is a folk phenomenon of decided interest. For two years or more there has been a steady flow of "Rejected" across the land, not in the channels of political propaganda but in quiet underground trickles.

More than 1,000 copies of this jingle have come to us from people who usually signed their names and hoped that we would print it. It has come in numerous variants, for its senders apparently have thought, quite often, that they could improve on the original. Many of these senders have claimed authorship, but in general the thing is credited to Old Man Anonymous.

"Rejected" is a fairly long opus of some 60 lines, dealing in rough homespun satire with the record in office of President Roosevelt. It begins, "A stranger came to the gates of hell," and develops into a colloquy between this person, easily identifiable, and his satanic majesty. The stranger recites, at length, his qualifications for admission into Hades, but is rebuffed at the end. The devil decides that he would stir up too much trouble down below. This, of course, is a standard formula for satirical anecdotes or verse; Kipling used it in his "Tomlinson."

"Rejected" is not a product of the political campaign; it started more than two years ago, before the third term issue became acute and before Willkie was dreamed of as an opposition candidate. Its content does not suggest an origin in any special group or class; it does not smack of racial or political ideology. It's just a roar of dissatisfaction from the grass roots.

Maybe the forecasters of the election might do well to figure the prevalence of "Rejected" into their guesses.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

darling, when I look at you
I simply burst with pride
you're a shining dream come true (you're young spring chicken fried) you're my gallant galahad

my bold sir francis drake young prince charming ermine clad (you're a T-bone steak)

you're the sword excalibur and evan's hamlet too
captain of the king's guard, sir
(a tasty rich beef stew)

must be love that's come to me but I don't get it quite
I can't see how this can be
I've such an appetite

Vision in a Country Church.

Softly and slowly down the twilight aisle pass in silent review the figures and faces of long ago. The young bride, pure and beautiful, approaches the altar to unite her life with another's. . . . The sinner, penitent and wretched, seeks forgiveness with a heart full of wonder that this could be. . . . The nun, smiling in the ineffable glory of her consecration, comes to worship, to renew her holy vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience. . . . The mourning widow, offering up her prayers for the soul of one beloved whom a Power greater even than love chose to take unto Himself. . . . The laborer, come to give thanksgiving to an all-merciful God who has given him family, land, and liberty. . . . The child, suddenly become reverent before his Shepherd, tiptoes to his place, fearful of disturbing the sanctity of a Presence which he can feel, tho he cannot understand. . . .

All these and more pass in silent review down the twilight aisle of the little country church. And they will continue to pass in unhurried procession thru all of eternity, for being memories they cannot be destroyed. Wihaca.

Alan Sullivan, whose "Cycle of the North" was mentioned in your column of Sept. 26 as an excellent example of nature writing, is a Canadian who has contributed many short stories, essays, and poems to MacLean's Magazine, published in Toronto. His novel, "The Rapids," was founded on the life of Francis Hector Clergue of Maine, who was responsible for the industrial development of Algoma in Canada. A motion picture of "The Rapids," with Mary Astor and Harry Morey as stars, was filmed at Sault Ste. Marie in 1921.

Sullivan, born in Sault Ste. Marie, is the son of Bishop Edward Sullivan of the Anglican church of Canada. He now lives in England. R. A. Way.

A SONNET TO ORDER.

[Using the rhyme scheme in "Broadcast of a Sonnet," after the style of radio football experts, Oct. 22.]

All right! So I bestir these ancient bones
  To write a sonnet that will lay them cold;
  Come on, each lame iambus, young and old—
Get in there! Do your stuff, but throw no stones!
Here, lads, line up! Coach Collins now intones
  The rules which you so often have been told;
  In pentametric pattern we'll unfold,
To fit the form he cheerfully condones.

Aha! The sestet! Six more lines ere they
  Can guess the consternation that we sow!
Behold! The readers weaken! Watch 'em sway!
  Go to it, men! Our gains are sure to grow!
The goal is near; we've come a weary way—
  But look at them! We sure dished out the woe!

Casual.

[Casual may be surprised to learn that this is also the rhyme scheme for Milton's "Avenge, O Lord, thy slaughtered saints."]

To Keep a Memory Green.

The late James Weber Linn occasionally contributed to this column. We direct the attention of his many friends, therefore, to a movement for the establishment of a four year scholarship fund in his memory at the University of Chicago. He taught thousands of students how to write, and if any of them want to write one last line for "Teddy," a signature on a check of any size to the Linn scholarship committee at the university would be appropriate.

WHEN THE COLD BUG BITES YOU.

THE season when colds are more frequent is now at hand. Many of us are unable to accustom ourselves to changing weather conditions. In the middle of the day we are tempted to go about without topcoats or cloaks, while during the evening or early morning, chilling is the rule if adequate protection is not provided. In the sleeping apartment, if a window is open, bed clothing will need to be sufficient. Many a bout is ushered in because the victim is obliged to tramp thru frigid rooms in the middle of the night after the heat has been turned off.

But colds will come to some of us despite every precaution and we have reason to believe that they are contagious. In other words, proximity to a sneezing, coughing person may be followed within two or three days by a blazing infection. Much depends on body reserve—the state of one's general health.

As we know, the real cause of a coryza is a virus so small that it cannot be seen with the most powerful microscope. Particles float thru the atmosphere on dust fragments and may be inhaled with every breath. Only when they are given an opportunity to grow—thru lowered vigor—will symptoms appear. But once inflammation has been established, bacteria—which are always present in the airways—complicate the picture because they too reproduce rapidly in a favorable environment and manufacture their irritating toxins.

As long as the malady lies within the boundaries of the nasal passages, recovery will come within two or three days. But there is always a tendency for the causative invaders to creep up the Eustachian tubes into the middle ears or to involve one or more of the sinuses. In order to avoid these undesirable visitations, we must do everything we can to build resistance.

Rule number one is to drink plenty of water—lemonade preferred. Two or three quarts daily is an average allowance. It may be hot or cold as taste dictates, but the object is to fill the blood vessels so that secretions will become profuse. This flushing effect—sweeping out noxious substances—is highly desirable.

If the temperature is 99.2 degrees or higher, bed rest is the only safe procedure. The vital organs are thus relieved of extra work and extension of the trouble is far less likely to occur. Furthermore, the likelihood of bronchitis and pneumonia is decreased.

The nose should not be blown vigorously. With either or both nostrils clogged, this habit is not only an exhibition of bad taste, but it displays complete ignorance of the physiology of the parts. Forceful trumpeting in the presence of an obstruction cannot fail to shoot germ laden air and mucus into forbidden spaces. It is quite all right to carry handkerchiefs—plenty of them—but all discharges should be collected upon paper tissue that can be disposed of. About the most that can be allowed in the way of a "blow" is gentle whiffing with the mouth open.

As has been pointed out, oily preparations may be dangerous if carelessly employed, as some will inhale minute drops which may lodge in the lungs. There is no objection, however, to a bit of white vaseline inserted into each nostril once daily to prevent crusting and irritation. We must recall also that the flow of mucus is forward as well as backward. In fact, most of the secretion will be carried to the rear, dropping into the pharynx [the upper portion of the throat]. This may be expectorated on a paper kerchief.

For acute attacks I am a great believer in inhalations of steam, which may be medicated with crystals of menthol or tincture of benzoin compound. Moist air keeps the delicate surfaces from drying and aids drainage.

Vaccines—either by mouth or by injection—may establish some immunity against colds.

A BRIEF DIALOG.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Scene: Any middle class family.

Time: Around the year 1945.

"Dad, do you think I can go to college?"

"That's out of the question, my boy. You'll be lucky if I can let you finish high school. It is high time you went out and earned some money."

"But why, dad; you earn a fairly good salary, don't you?"

"Yes, son, but nearly half of that goes for taxes."

"And why do you have to pay such high taxes, dad?"

"Because, son, about 10 years ago, our then President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, promised us the more abundant life."

Maurice Lazare.

BARNSTORMING DIPLOMATS.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 22.—Your editorial, "Diplomats in Service," seems to me short sighted. On first thought it would seem that the taxpayers were being cheated by having to pay government servants to take the stump for the administration. It would seem that Biddle, Cudahy, and Bullitt would have enough money left after paying for their jobs.

But if they can cause as much damage to the prestige of the present administration as they have to the prestige of the American people abroad, then I am in favor of doubling their salaries and paying them a bonus in addition.

The political barnstorming of these so-called diplomats is a degrading spectacle.

Roy R. Cann.

FROM VENEZUELA'S CONSUL.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—In your Oct. 10 issue there appeared an article on Venezuela by Wayne Thomis, entitled "Venezuela has what it wants: Totalitarianism."

The absurdity of accusing the Venezuelan people of totalitarian leanings is too evident to require refutal. Venezuelans are just the opposite of totalitarianism and the fact that we had the misfortune of having to groan during 27 years under the heavy hand of an unwanted and very much hated tyrant does not make us totalitarians. A totalitarian state is one in which the state is everything and the individual does not count. As individualistic a people as the Venezuelan cannot possibly become totalitarian over night.

The state department may witness to the fact that Venezuela has been one of the most enthusiastic collaborators with the American government in the great work of Pan-Americanism, initiated by Bolivar and revived by the New Deal. And no other government has seconded more decidedly the fight of this great democracy against the vogue of invading isms.

Since the end of 1935, when at the death of Gomez Gen. Lopez Contreras was elected president, not only by congress, as is the Venezuelan constitutional process, but almost by acclamation of the country at large, the democratic ideals have been relentlessly pressed forward. Witness of this attitude of the administration are the absolute freedom of the press, the nonexistence of political persecution, and the outspoken opposition groups in congress which, no matter how embarrassing for the administration, are the healthiest sign of a democracy.

Mr. Thomis gives Venezuela a population with 90 per cent Indians and Negroes, which is not the truth; and while it must be admitted that the general health of that population is still far from satisfactory, the author could also have mentioned the great efforts the government has been making to improve the situation, the vast sums of money invested for this purpose during the last four years, and the fact that recent American statistics place Caracas in third position among the capitals of Latin America in what refers to the minimum percentage of infantile mortality.

Last March a sanitary convention of the American republics took place in Washington. If The Tribune wishes to give its readers the real facts, it would do well to investigate the impression caused by the exhibit from Venezuela and the incredible progress made by that country in social medicine. Not even the United States has gone so far.

Feliciano Montenegro,
Consul of Venezuela.

SAYS WE'RE HIDING NEWS.

Sheldon, Ill., Oct. 22.—W-G-N, Willkie's going nowhere. The World's Greatest Newspaper, thru its editorials and cartoons, is helping sponsor his trip, and with their help he is certain to get there. Eight years ago it helped Hoover; four years ago it succeeded in "landing Landon" there, and it is failing again this year in their effort to "Win with Willkie."

Newspapers play an important part and are very essential to the welfare of a nation. The Tribune is daily rendering to its readers a great service thru its various departments but can never entice them into voting against an administration which has tried to put every one on a more equal basis. The Tribune also does a neat job of concealing the facts about how business is on the upward trend. All the articles dealing with the gains that various businesses have made are carefully hidden in the back pages of the paper next to the advertisments with the hope few people will see the truth. C. E.

IT IS PERMANENT DIVERSION.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—In your dispatch from Washington regarding power development on the upper St. Lawrence there is a statement that needs explanation. Water diverted at Niagara is returned to the body of water to which it belongs, whereas the 1,500 cubic second feet permitted by the United States Supreme court to be taken at Chicago from the Great Lakes and diverted thru the Illinois waterway to the Mississippi is not returned to the body of water to which it belongs. The former is temporary diversion, the latter permanent diversion and subtraction.

Chairman Detroit Seaway Committee.

MY! HOW TIMES CHANGE!

Maywood, Ill., Oct. 12.—In my youth I was taught to work hard, obey the law, save my money, and enjoy a life of plenty. How old-fashioned I was!

The new theory seems to operate in reverse. Now we are taught to spend more than we earn, disregard the constitutionality of our laws, produce as little as possible, and try to be satisfied with a life of scarcity. Now I am assured that the great majority of them will go to the polls on Nov. 5 and cast their ballot for a continuation of their present plight.

How come? The best seller for two months and the public library won't have it. Hurrah for New Deal free speech! E. Kerlin.

JOHNSON SPEECH A SERMON.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Senator Hiram Johnson's speech of last Friday should be read from the pulpit of all churches and synagogues in the United States. It is, without doubt, a great sermon and one of the most convincing speeches ever uttered by any one. A. Peck.

SECURITY FOR LOAN.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—This is the situation: Mr. and Mrs. A some years ago borrowed a large sum of money from Mr. X. Not having any other security [1] they turned over Mr. A's insurance policy. All this was in good faith. Mr. X has kept up and is keeping up the premiums.

2. To whom does the policy belong?

In the case of Mr. A's death [3] can his creditors, the state, or any one else collect on this policy if they learn of its existence but are not able to gain it from Mr. X? M. P.

1. The effect of merely turning over the policy would depend on the wording of the policy. Ordinarily policies are so worded that in order to place a creditor in a position to collect out of the policy as security, it would be necessary to arrange a transfer thru the home office of the insurance company.
2. See 1.
3. We are not in a position to say that this is impossible.

But certain areas on the tongue are more sensitive to one type of substance than to another. In the drawing below I have labeled the tip, the sides, and the back of the tongue with the letters "T," "S," and "B," respectively. One of the four elementary taste qualities mentioned above is maximum on the tip of the tongue. Another is greatest on the sides A third, on the back, while the fourth is maximum on both the tip and the sides together. You deserve one point for each correct localization, and I'll give you the extra point as a bonus if you locate all four taste qualities correctly.

GIRL ON NEW DEAL JOB DEFIES 'VOTE OR ELSE' THREAT

Sewing Worker Refuses to Back Third Term.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 23 [Special].—Local Democratic efforts to force NYA project workers into campaigning for President Roosevelt's reëlection were exposed today by a 21 year old girl employé on a sewing and weaving project.

Miss Doris Brown revealed the text of a letter written by Erban F. Paxton, chairman of the Ingham County Democratic Executive committee, containing a veiled threat that she must assume her share of campaign work or suffer the consequences. She replied with a defiant refusal to "exchange my principles for a job."

Specter of Unemployment.

Paxton's letter opened by reviewing the importance of the campaign," for should we lose, most if not all present employés of Democratic departments will have to seek employment elsewhere."

"If you are personally free to work with us, your assistance will be appreciated and remembered," the missive continued. Then it suggested that if she were personally unable to assist. "you undoubtedly can make arrangements for some member of your family or some friend to assume your share of this work, the results of which may vitally affect you."

The letter closed by demanding a prompt reply.

Miss Brown's Answer.

Miss Brown replied:

"Mr. E. F. Paxton, 214 North Washington street, Lansing, Mich.

"Dear sir:

"I have your letter of the 17th offering to 'remember' me if I work against the American principle hallowed by Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and others—the opposition to the third term.

"Your letter implies that unless I, or some member of my family, becomes your henchman, you will 'remember' me also, but I am not ready to exchange my principles for a job yet. I utterly refuse to work for the reëlection of Roosevelt. We want no king in this country. I would oppose the third term for the best and most indispensible man in the world. I shall give the widest publicity possible to your letter, so that the young people of the city can see the spirit that dominates the agencies of the New Deal.

"If you can make this veiled threat to us now what will you not endeavor to do if you receive another 'mandate' to govern this fair land? I refuse to work for you absolutely!

"DORIS BROWN."

KIDNAP CHARGES FILED IN DU PAGE LABOR TURMOIL

Trouble flared up again yesterday in Du Page county's intermittent labor troubles when kidnaping charges were preferred in Naperville against Charles Crider of Bartlett, and Herman Reed of Downers Grove. The complaints were made by Wilmer Waggoner, of Naperville.

Waggoner is business agent for the Bricklayers and Plasterers' union, an independent organization. Crider long has been identified with labor organizations, and is now said to be connected with the Du Page County Building Trades council. He has been mentioned in previous labor disturbances. Reed's connections are not known.

Waggoner charges that Crider and Reed held him prisoner overnight on Oct. 16-17 and that Crider beat him three times. He said he knew of no reason for the attack. Waggoner caused the arrest of the two men at the time on assault charges. Yesterday when they appeared before Justice of the Peace Willard Broeker in Naperville he added the kidnaping charge. Both men were held in the jail at Wheaton in lieu of bonds.

FARM YOUTH FATALLY HURT.

Tampico, Ill., Oct. 23 [Special].—Vernon Rebert, 18, died last night following an accident on his father's farm in which his neck was broken. The youth fell from a wagon loaded with corn Monday. The parents and three brothers survive.

Three sacks of potatoes being unloaded at Western avenue and 15th street.

No one knew what exactly to make of it, but every one was amused yesterday when three unconventional sacks of potatoes were unloaded at the North Western railway terminal at Western avenue and 15th street. With simple eloquence, bold, black letters stamped on the sacks proclaimed the potato growers' sentiment, "To Hell with the Dictators." Sam Belson of the United Produce company grinned as the sacks were loaded on his truck. The shippers were the Whelan brothers of St. Thomas, N. D.

Jehovah's Witness Given Prison Term for Assault

Alfred, Me., Oct. 23 (AP).—Edwin Bobb, 27 years old, of Kennebunk, a Jehovah's witness, was sentenced today to serve two and a half to four years in state prison for assault upon Dwight Robinson, 25, with intent to kill. Bobb, the religious organization's Kennebunk leader, acknowledged he had issued weapons to members and had stationed them outside their "kingdom hall" in expectation of an attack last June 9. That was the night Robinson and Frederick McDonald, 34, were wounded by gunfire near the flimsy frame building, which subsequently was burned by a crowd.

ONE SLAIN, FOUR ARE WOUNDED IN LABOR RIOTING

A. F. L. Pickets Open Fire on Building Workers.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 23 [Special].—One man was killed, four men suffered gunshot wounds, and 30 others were beaten in a labor riot in a suburb here today. Norman Schuermann, head of the Schuermann Building and Real Estate company, which has about 25 bungalows under construction in Velda Village Hills, said A. F. of L. pickets opened fire on his employés.

A fight between about 50 pickets and approximately 200 construction workmen followed.

Bullets and Rocks Fly.

Police said that at least 30 shots from pistols, rifles, and shotguns were fired. Rocks were thrown, clubs were used freely, and 15 automobiles were battered. Children on their way to school were endangered by the shots, but none was hurt.

After the pickets had been routed, Upton Hammond, 69 years old, an A. F. of L. member, was found to have been fatally injured. He died in a hospital of a fractured skull and gunshot wounds on his head and body.

A. F. of L. Making Drive.

The battle climaxed trouble that had been brewing since last Monday when members of construction unions began picketing projects in conjunction with an extensive A. F. of L. organization drive. Work on several Schuermann buildings was halted by picketing yesterday.

This morning the pickets assembled at the project that was later the scene of the fight. After a brief skirmish, in which several shots were fired and clubs were used, the workers withdrew and mobilized reinforcements from other Schuermann buildings nearby.

Several deputy sheriffs were at the scene when the crowd of about 200 workmen approached, but the officers were brushed aside and were unable to halt the battle. The pickets, outnumbered, finally were forced to retreat.

Tonight John J. Church, secretary of the Building and Construction Trades council, called a walkout of all A. F. of L. building tradesmen in St. Louis tomorrow to launch a picket blockade against every nonunion construction project in this area.

WOMAN TAVERN OWNER SLAIN IN DEBT QUARREL

Portage, Wis., Oct. 23 [Special].—Mrs. Elizabeth Adams, 40 years old, was slashed to death in her tavern near here today by a farmer who wielded a butcher knife in a quarrel over a debt.

The farmer, Hugo Baerwolf, 57 years old, a widower who lived near the tavern, surrendered after the slaying and was charged with first degree murder. District Attorney W. W. Leitsch and Sheriff H. N. Hibner said he confessed the slaying to them. A preliminary hearing was scheduled for Thursday.

Mrs. Adams, a former resident of Green Bay and Milwaukee, operated a roadhouse known as Club 51 on U. S. highway 51 about five miles north of Portage, police said.

Officers said they learned that Baerwolf visited the tavern last night and attempted to discuss with Mrs. Adams the repayment of a loan of $350 he said he had made to her. A quarrel developed and the farmer was ejected from the tavern. He returned with a knife and plunged it into Mrs. Adams' throat.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP).—Two young women died tonight and two others were injured when a freight train plowed into a crowd gathered to bid farewell to a National Guard company departing for training in Anniston, Ala. The dead were Miss Lois E. Mosher, 18, and Miss Helen M. McNeil, 16, both of Saratoga Springs.

STUDENT ADMITS STEALING PLANE; INJURED IN CRASH

The crash of a stolen plane in River Grove Tuesday morning was solved last night with the reported admission of a student pilot that he took the plane for a joyride. He is Robert Henry Kleiner, 23 years old, 404 South 4th avenue, Maywood.

Kleiner is in the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park, recovering from injuries suffered in the crash. He told Phil Salsman and F. H. Longeway of the civil aeronautics board, and Sergt. Harry Burns of the River Grove police, of his joyride.

He said he went to the Park Ridge airport, and on a sudden impulse boarded a small plane. He flew until he ran out of gas and crashed at River road and the Milwaukee railroad tracks in River Grove. He has had only six hours of flight instruction and had never piloted a plane alone until he borrowed the one from the Park Ridge field, he said.

THIRD REVISION OF CITY DRAFT AREAS PLANNED

Seek to Speed Handling of Registry Cards.

Another mixup in the draft machinery in Chicago was disclosed yesterday when it was announced that the makeup of the city's draft board areas will be revamped for the third time.

Louis A. Boening, who is in charge of the Cook county draft office, said the revision will involve shifting some precincts from one draft board area to another in 48 of the city's 50 wards.

The changes will be made in an effort to hasten the work of placing Chicago draft registration cards in the hands of the city's draft boards before the lottery Tuesday in Washington, D. C., which will determine which draft registrants will be called first for service. The plan was devised to avoid resorting many of the 863,835 registration cards in Chicago.

Speed With Cards Essential.

Speed is essential in getting the registration cards to the draft boards if the conscription program is to go forward without confusion. The boards must shuffle the cards, assign a serial number to each, and post the names and serial numbers of registrants before the draft lottery is held.

Boening said that under the present plan it is hoped all cards can be released to the local boards by noon today. Twenty-five workers, in the pay of the federal government, are doing the resorting in the city hall.

The new plan follows a regrouping announced Monday, in which 74 new boards were created for the city. These, in addition to the original 78, make a total of 152 for Chicago. The additional boards were decided upon because the draft registration showed far more than the expected 3,500 registrants in most of the 78 original local board areas.

Cards Re-sorted for 10 Wards.

Resorting of cards for the boards in 10 wards was completed yesterday noon, and telegrams were prepared asking the boards involved to call at the city hall for their cards. They are the 1st, 2d, 3d, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 22d, and 28th boards.

County Clerk Michael J. Flynn was authorized yesterday to release all the registration cards of local draft boards in that part of Cook county under his jurisdiction.

Meanwhile, in Springfield, Gov. John Stelle and Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, still worked on the names of the three members of each of the new Chicago draft boards and the three new ones created in Cook county outside the city.

State draft headquarters announced the names of physicians assigned to each of the original Chicago and Cook county draft boards, and also those assigned to certain downstate boards. The physicians for the bulk of the downstate draft boards were announced last week.

Physicians for Chicago.

Following are the examining physicians in Chicago who were named yesterday:

James W. Britton (left) and William H. McMurray, who registered for draft and yesterday volunteered for one year.

Evanston draft board No. 1 yesterday accepted the applications of the first two volunteers in Cook county under the rule that men of draft age may volunteer for a year's military training, instead of waiting to be called.

One volunteer is James W. Britton, 23 years old, 2425 Pioneer road, Evanston, who studied political science for three years at the University of Illinois, but stayed out this year. He was a sergeant in the university's R. O. T. C. unit.

The other is William Henry McMurray, 31, of 2632 Green Bay road, Evanston, a plasterer. He said: "I want to get it over with so that if anything does happen I won't be a dummy."

Both filled out the eight page draft questionnaire, and their cards then were placed at the head of the list so they will enter service with the first men taken from draft board area No. 1. Serial numbers of each of the 1,661 registrants in this area were posted yesterday. The other two Evanston boards were expected to post the names and serial numbers of their draft registrants today.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 708 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 517 were killed in Chicago, where 19,140 were injured in the same period.

DISCUSS DESIGN FOR MEMORIAL TO 33D DIVISION

The question of what kind of a memorial to build honoring the 33d division's heroism in the world war was discussed yesterday at a meeting of park board officials and a commission created by the state legislature. The commission will supervise the spending of $150,000 for the memorial. R. J. Dunham, park board president, and State Senator Harold G. Ward, commission chairman, said the discussion centered on whether to build a monument or some edifice with utility value. If the latter is decided upon, legislative approval is necessary, Ward said, inasmuch as the appropriation was made for a monument. The meeting was held in the park district administration building.

PROBE ALLEGED BANDIT'S DEATH IN GUN TUSSLE

An inquest will be held this morning in the county morgue in the death of Roland J. Klingler, 45 years old, who was shot and fatally wounded with his own gun Tuesday night as he struggled with Policeman Michael Delarue at Halsted and 35th streets. Arvid Stark, 7926 Parnell avenue, a taxicab driver, said that Klingler, apparently in a daze, tried to hold him up. According to Delarue, Klingler intentionally turned the gun on himself. Klingler lived at 5826 Wayne avenue.

AUTOIST WHO HIT 2 CHILDREN FREED IN FLIGHT CASE

Carl Matthis, 34 years old, 4550 North Racine avenue, whose automobile struck and injured two children at Sheridan road and Cuyler avenue Tuesday, was freed yesterday by Judge George B. Weiss in Safety court of a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Witnesses testified that Matthis offered to take the children, Kenneth Day, 7, and Mary Spaulding, 6, both of 925 Irving Park road, to a hospital but that other witnesses agreed to do it for him. Matthis then drove to his home, and surrendered an hour later at the Town Hall police station, where he was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

GREAT MILK BATTLE WON FOR CHICAGO

The right to a modern, money-saving method of distributing better milk, could not be denied longer to this great city.

by Sam E. Dean

That which is right must ultimately prevail.

Not for long can any group of men, or any entrenched or outmoded system, stand in the way of real progress.

That is why we have had the courage for four long years to wage our crusade in the courts to compel the City of Chicago to permit the sale of Dean's Milk in paper bottles!

Not that paper bottles were the principal issue as against glass. Though paper bottles do have very positive advantages because of their light weight, the ease with which they can be carried from store to home, and the fact that they are destroyed after use and need not be washed or returned.

But those are only a few of the benefits. The big and important fact is that because we use paper bottles instead of glass, we can bottle our milk out in the country, right near the cows, while it still has the full flavor of fresh milk.

Obviously it would cost far too much to haul empty glass milk bottles out to the country to fill them. So glass milk bottles have been the bottle neck that has forced an expensive, wasteful milk handling system upon Chicago.

Because we eliminate the bottle neck, we can bring you more flavor in milk—with all the cream left in—and eliminate the wasteful, costly handling which has kept milk prices higher than they have needed to be.

This is progress—progress because it simplifies distribution—which Chicago deserves and I am sure appreciates.

To have been the crusading force that brings to the people of Chicago these benefits gives us great satisfaction. But we must acknowledge our debt to you, the people, and especially to you housewives for your support. That is what gave us the courage to go on.

We thank the progressive Chicago Board of Health for their understanding that Public Health Standards are not static. Under the sincere leadership of Board President Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, the Chicago Board of Health followed the standards prescribed by the United States Public Health Service and "recommended for use" milk in paper bottles.

And we must thank the newspapers for their wisdom in recognizing the big, economic issues at stake and the fair and generous way in which they have reported them. Also we all owe a debt to many retailers who have urged us on so that they might supply finest milk at lowest prices to their customers.

Again, I say it is Chicago, not us, who has won. My organization and I renew our pledge that we will never leave anything undone to insure that Dean's Milk is the finest milk obtainable, and then supply it at low cost to this great Community of ours.

Sincerely yours,
Sam E. Dean, Sr.

DEAN'S MILK in PAPER BOTTLES

Bottled in the Country with "All the Cream left in"

9½¢ PER QUART

Important Saving Over Home Delivery

Go to Your Food Store
TODAY
and ask for Dean's Milk or Cream in Paper Bottles

Today the people of Chicago can buy at their stores a finer flavored, deliciously full-rich milk in paper bottles . . . Dean's Grade A Milk.

Have you ever been fortunate enough to drink a glass of cold milk soon after milking time and taste that more delicious, fresher flavor which only such whole fresh milk can have?

That is what we bring you . . . because we collect this milk direct from the farms, pasteurize and bottle it at the plant as soon as received and our refrigerator trucks rush it to your store in lightweight paper bottles, easy to carry home. (They do not have to be returned, either.)

You will be amazed at its flavor compared with regular Bottled milk which must be collected in the country, cooled down, then hauled to the city, stored, heated up, pasteurized, and bottled . . . a slower, more expensive, and flavor-losing process.

We wish you could see the fine Holstein and Guernsey cows in the rich pastures of Northern Illinois from which we get our milk. And we would like to have you visit our plant situated in the fresh, clean air of the country—far from smoke and dust pollution. We use only sanitary stainless steel equipment—the very last word in cleanliness, in modern methods to make milk safe for babies and everyone.

We urge you, no matter what milk you have been using, to buy and compare Dean's milk. Get it at your store, and make the important savings which this modern method of milk handling has made possible.

New Wall Paper Borders Rout Dull Interiors

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Wall paper borders, these days, deserve a lot of praise because they are beautifully styled, clearly printed, and available in unusually fine colors. They are capable of giving the dullest interior a smart new aspect.

Many of the new borders are fairly deep, 12 inches or so, and are intended to be used with accompanying side wall papers. Others are suitable for use alone on painted walls or on plain papers. And almost all are washable, which in this case means scrubbable.

One of the most beautiful borders we've ever seen is made in Chicago, and as it comes in four color combinations it will harmonize with practically any color scheme. Called Wimpole Street, it shows graceful garlands of roses and morning glories held by little cupids. A gold toned rod at the top is twined with ribbons and there is a gold beading at the bottom, so no painstaking cutting is required.

The background of the paper is dotted with tiny spots of color. It's exquisite in chalk blue, the garlands being done in green, gold, and rose red. In powder pink the pattern is carried out with amethyst, green, and gold; in gray, with citron, green, and weathered bronze, and in light gray with blush pink, green, and gold.

This frieze is 13½ inches deep with a repeat of 24 inches and is ideal in a high ceilinged room of the Victorian period. The side wall paper to be used with the Wimpole Street border is like its background, plain color with tiny dots of contrasting tone.

Another handsome border is called Festoon because it closely resembles festoons of material caught at intervals by gold medallions. Pompeian red, French blue, Empire green, deep dark rose, and citron yellow are the tones in which it is made.

Like the paper for the side walls designed to go with it, it is washable. The side walls, too, are given the effect of being draped with material, the tints being either beige or gray. One can, however, have any color made to order.

A newly furnished dining room in New York uses this Festoon border in Empire green both at the top of the walls and at the top of the dado, against gold and white striped side walls. The ceiling is done in green tone and the black dining chairs, Empire in style, are upholstered in the same vivid hue. The effect is ultra-smart and luxurious.

The famous tentroom at Malmaison inspired the design of another wall paper and border which are made up in eight striking colors. Against broad, tentlike stripes, the border comes down in a stylized scalloped effect finished at the very top with a row of balls. When the stripes are in gray the border furnishes contrast in green, etc. Like the other patters described, this is appropriate for practically any room. It is made by the same Chicago firm.

A perennially popular border is the ivy one imported from England and available in a Chicago store. It's only about three inches deep and the trailing ivy is shown against a plain white background. This pattern is not washable, however, tho it may be made so by painting it with lacquer or shellac.

It is a delightful edge for a window frame in a small room where draperies are not possible but where you wish to use glass curtains or Venetian blinds. Another clever idea for this ivy border is to use it at top and bottom of a valance board, as well as along the wall in place of a molding.

It can be used, too, as a border on a large, unframed mirror or to outline a fireplace and mantel or a door.

Old Homes, Too, May Have Bright Laundering Space

Just because a house is not a brand new one with a modern home laundry on the first floor, there is no reason for any woman to sentence herself to hard labor in a dark cellar every Monday. A few simple changes will make the home yaundering space both bright and efficient.

Install a storage cabinet for washing supplies. Get yourself a special table for sorting the articles to be washed. Work out a color scheme to include the walls, the door and window trim, and attractive curtains. Some women derive at least part of their color plan from the decorations on the household washer.

Household Washer Helps Simplify Home Routine

Using a household washer can change and simplify the whole routine of a household. Washing is speeded up so that in most homes it is easy to finish with the ironer on the same day. Moreover, shortening the washing process makes it possible to wash whenever desired.

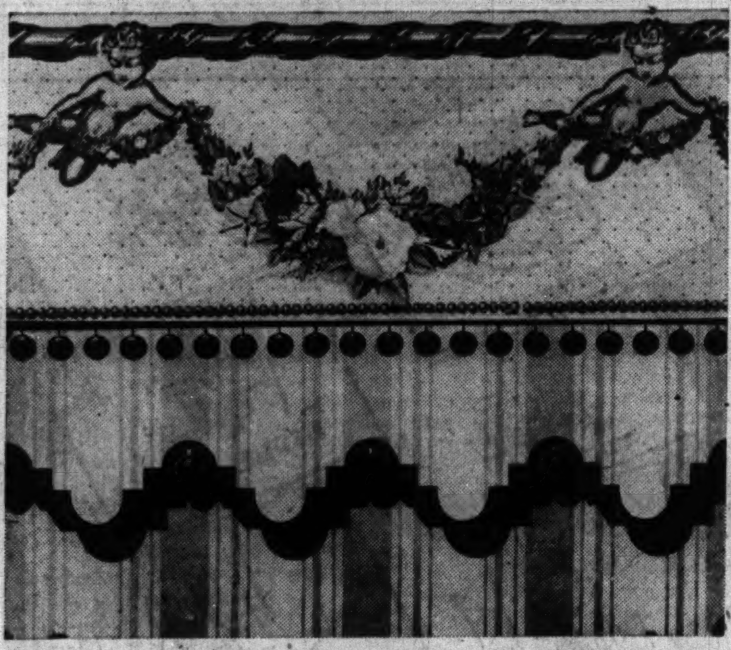
Matching Rugs Provide Impression of More Space

In many newer homes, particularly in apartments, dining rooms or dining alcoves adjoin the living rooms. Use of matching rugs or carpets in both rooms provides a uniform floor, gives an impression of larger space, provides complete color harmony.

Two New Wall Paper Borders



Wimpole Street is the name of the charming border decorated with garlands of flowers and cupids. The other is for use with striped side walls. Both are made in Chicago.

Here's a Solution for Two Window Curtaining Problem

Pairs of windows often present a curtaining problem. An attractive solution is to treat them as tho they were a single wide window and hang curtains of lace net all the way across, over the intervening wall space as well as over the windows themselves. Let them hang in full straight folds either to the sill or all the way to the floor. If there's a mirror between the windows, set flush with the window frame, an interesting effect can be achieved by hanging both the windows and the mirrored space with pairs of lace curtains draped back with rings or with decorative tie backs.

Double Curtains Will Add to Glamor of French Doors

French doors can be given an inviting look if adorned with two sets of lace net curtains. One set in a sheer all-over pattern can be stretched between rods at top and bottom of each door in the traditional manner. But instead of nontransparent fabric for draw curtains, use patterned or wide open mesh lace net made with pinch pleats and hung on a traveler rod the entire width of the window.

The Housewife

It's a nice idea to protect your blankets with a decorative cover when the bedspread is taken off for the night. Some charming new blanket covers we saw, the other day, are available in four soft colors and are edged with wide bands of matching toned lace. The lace runs down the center of the covers, too. If you prefer pattern you can choose from several pretty covers that have a little flower sprigged pattern. And if you like something easily tubbed you can select one of the lovely embroidered white cotton covers. All are quite inexpensive.

Carpets and Rugs Must Have Regular Cleaning

In maintaining the beauty of a new wool pile carpet or rug, proper care demands regular cleaning. Once a week the fabric should be thoroly cleaned with a vacuum cleaner. Areas frequently used may be vacuumed daily. Such care will long preserve the beauty and appearance of rug or carpet subjected to ordinary wear. At intervals, depending upon wear, carpet manufacturers advise that the rug or carpet be cleaned by expert carpet cleaners.

Linoleum Now Is Spreading Thruout Home

BY JUANITA DALY.

From the first linoleum has stretched across floors, then it spread up over the walls and ceilings, and now it covers table and desk tops, doors and cupboards. With increasing ingenuity, the manufacturers have brought out new colors and developed patterns so that linoleum may be used tastefully thruout a home and not create a feeling of monotony.

The first step in bringing linoleum out of the kitchen was the creation of marble patterns. Instead of a definite motif repeated, the patterns are formed from a delicate shading and blending of colors in and out of each other like different ice creams melting together. Decorators found these patterns equally effective in formal living rooms and modern service quarters.

Since modern decorators stress color, the manufacturers dropped the conventional dull greens, browns, and reds and turned to brilliant jewel tones, deep rich shades and soft pastels. This summer one house, in response to consumer demands, offered plain linoleum in dusty rose, pale blue and chartreuse.

According to one dealer, the predominant fall colors are red, blue, brown, and tan. However, this is as changeable as a woman's hat. A year ago, green was popular and it may come back again this spring.

The crowning achievement in floor covering is the personalized linoleum. Individuals may design their own floor patterns. A variety of ready-cut decorative material is provided, including narrow feature strips in many colors, ready-made two color borders, and leaves, stars, crescents, sailboats, and fish insets. These strips, borders, and insets have been color correlated with linoleum patterns in stock so that the individual may work out artistic harmonies and contrasts.

Whether you have period or modern furniture, linoleum is still right for you. For a formal dining room, deep mahogany can be used on the floor, set off with a border of interlocking hexagonal panels formed with white and crimson feature strips. A pale gold linoleum on the walls keeps the dark richness of the floor and furniture from seeming overpowering.

Softer marble tones in greens and blues will contrast with blonde wood furniture and set it off effectively. Feature strips and designs along the outer edges make a frame for a rug in the winter and present an individually designed floor covering for the summer when the rugs are in storage.

And there are endless new suggestions for color combinations in the kitchen and bathroom. If you have growing children, one decorator urges that you keep the "fixings" in the bathroom simple and depend on linoleums for major color-interest. To bring in a feminine air, use plain soft corals and pinks with insets of flowers and white strips. For a unified treatment, use the linoleum from floor to ceiling, across the front of the dressing table and for the sides of cabinets.

Here Are Ways to Make House More Livable

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

What's news on the house these days?

There's a wealth of it. A host of units which come in petite packages and in large ones, units which are portable and built in, for the comfort of those who own their own homes or who rent a house or who live in apartment homes.

If you are checking on washing machines, there's a fine new model available which has a potent lamp inside the tub to act as sterilizing agent and kill germs with concentrated violet rays. This same machine has been built at kitchen cabinet height so you have a nice work table when you aren't engaged in active laundry duties.

If you have been thinking for some time that you'd like nothing better than to have chimes in your home instead of doorbells, there's a handsome unit on the market now which combines front and rear door chimes with an all electric clock. It is as easy to install as any ordinary door chime. Then, when some visitor presses the push at the front door the eight note Westminster melody sounds on the resonant chime tubes. The back door signal is a different call—a pleasant two note melody. In addition, you have a very good looking timepiece on your wall, complete with mahogany case, tubes and appointments.

If, these coming months, you could enjoy a bay window over your kitchen sink, there's a nice packaged unit ready for you to invest in. This "bay" is manufactured in two stock sizes, with stationary center sash. You can then get light from three sides and have space for house plants. The unit is not expensive and comes complete with operating hardware, casement sash, and stationary sash. Plant shelves around this bay can be of lumber or glass.

If you would modernize your lighting at reasonable cost indeed!—check on the many simple adapter units to plug into existing sockets; for kitchen, bedroom, and all rooms. Even shower fixtures and laundry fixtures are coming in for better lighting.

And speaking of light—if you're building, don't forget it is asserted now that you can have FREE light for nearly 60 minutes longer each day, if you and your architect or builder plan for it, when plans are being drawn.

Embroidered Patriotic Insignia Newest Daytime Dress Accent

BY REA SEEGER.

Patriotic insignia is taking a firm hold on the affections of every shopper. First this colorful enamel stuff and the more glittering ideas in semiprecious jewels and rhinestones managed to accent the chest areas and lapels of daytime clothes. Now it is going strong, as embroidered motifs on daytime clothes.

There is one flame red, thin wool dress, smartly fashioned with simple long sleeves, an unadorned blouse top and a crisply pleated skirt that fairly shrieks with a military swank. Directly on the center of the chest of the blouse is a wingspread eagle made of glittering gold embroidery. No other smidge of decoration on the dress.

This is the exciting new daytime wool dress to wear with long dark coats of wool or as stunning contrast for short or long fur coats. You've no idea how straight and slim you'll feel with such a dress.

Another embroidered outfit of smooth navy blue wool consists of a smartly designed jacket with unusual shoulderlines and long fitted sleeves over a snappy swinging short skirt. Brass buttons shine down the front and sewed securely to the right sleeve is the embroidered gold eagle screaming from a high perch.

A third is also of navy blue, with a nautical looking key to some port of call or welcome mat expertly and effectly embroidered on the left high shoulderline. All this gold braid, gold button, gold thread embroidery is as new as tomorrow's headlines.

Such clever designs are extremely popular because of their snap and swank. Wear them immediately without furs, later with fur coats or fur trimmed winter fabric coats.

Baking potatoes may seem to you the simplest of culinary performances, yet there are a few rules to be followed if you'd have the finished potato mealy inside, with a skin you'll want to eat.

If you like crisp skinned potatoes, bake the "spuds" as is, but if you want the skin to be soft, rub each potato well with butter or bacon fat.

In either case, start with "old" potatoes, not "new" ones, and select them for uniformity of size and smoothness of skin. Wash them well, using a stiff brush, then dry them. Rub with fat or not, as you choose.

Some cooks run the tip of a paring knife around the potato so that there'll be room for expansion during baking.

If the potatoes are huge, or if you want to reduce the baking time, drop them into boiling, salted water and precook for 10 minutes. Then drain, dry, rub with fat or not, and place them in a hot oven.

The oven temperature should be between 425 and 450 degrees for best results. Thirty to 40 minutes will bake the average potato. Baked potatoes should be served very hot, straight from the oven, and if they aren't to be soggy, they should be broken open so that steam may escape. They'll become soggy if they overbake, so it's advisable to test them after half an hour. Do this by pressing a potato in your fingers, using a cloth or pot holder to protect the hands, of course. If it yields to pressure, it's done. Press it, beginning at the bottom, until the skin on top opens. Drop a piece of butter into the opening and serve at once.

Salt, paprika, and minced parsley may be sprinkled over potatoes baked in this way, too.

If the family isn't ready to eat when the potatoes are ready to be eaten, stuff the vegetable. Make crosswise gashes in the top of each, turn back the flaps and scoop out the pulp. Or slice off the top of each and do likewise. Mash the pulp with butter, salt, pepper, and cream, refill shells, add a bit of butter or a sprinkling of grated cheese, and brown in the oven. Minced parsley or pimiento, minced onion or chives, may be used to help season the filling for stuffed potatoes.

Try serving a cheese sauce over baked, stuffed potatoes some time. It's a good variation.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Oct. 23.—Paulette Goddard has moved all her clothes and things out of the Chaplin house. . . . Gary Cooper, who plays a Texan in "Northwest Mounted Police," rolls his own, as usual in Pix. But when he isn't in front of a camera he smokes cigarets with cotton stuffed cardboard mouthpieces, the big sissy. . . . Haw! At a recent dog show at the exclusive Riviera Country club the "Most Useful Pet" prize went to a "Seeing Eye" dog for the blind. The owner was Will Hays. . . . The seasonal production slump is ending. Fox, which was down to one picture, is starting up, and Warners will put eight new flickers before the cameras in the next three weeks.

The next big 20th-Fox musical will put Cesar Romero to work doing what he might have been hired for in the first place—dancing. This ex-night club dancer will co-star with Virginia Gilmore in a musical called "Tall, Dark, and Handsome." Romero, who has played heavies and the Cisco Kid, has never hoofed in a major film rôle. He was to have been in "Down Argentine Way," but pneumonia canceled him out. Comedy for "Tall, Dark, and Handsome" will be supplied by Charlotte Greenwood and Milton Berle—and it will be Berle's first rôle under his new long term contract and his new short term nose. Later on the effervescent Milton will be in a radio movie, "The Great Broadcast."

With no great fuss, except for a couple of the inevitable searchlights, Hollywood previewed "North West Mounted Police." The main bout is scheduled for tomorrow night in Chicago, with almost all of the stars on hand for what sounds from here like a civic holiday. The only principal player I saw catching the preview was Montagu Love, who plays a mounted officer who gets killed. Like all De Mille products, the picture has just about everything in it, including a comedy duel between Lynn Overman [who is unrecognizable but wonderful] as an old Scot, and Akim Tamiroff—a duel which somehow reminded me of Ernest Torrence and . . . wasn't it? . . . Tully Marshall in "The Covered Wagon." The Times' picture catcher predicts "a far reaching popularity."

Just to save columnists, theater managers and fans all that trouble, Bob Christenberry and Hy Gardner, leafing thru variety's advance picture-booking chart, have put together all the double bills you'll be seeing. Here goes: "Missing People"—"He Stayed for Breakfast." "I Love You Again"—"So You Won't Talk!" "Too Many Girls"—"Brigham Young." "The Great Profile"—"I Want a Divorce." "That Gang of Mine"—"Seven Sinners." "Girl from Ave. A."—"The Villain Still Pursued Her." "The Man I Married"—"You're Out of Luck." "Gold Rush Maisie"—"Calling All Husbands."

Lee Tracy will have to hunt up his lucky fire plug again. In the days of his Broadway hits, like "The Front Page" and "Broadway," Lee had a prop fire plug which he picked up somewhere and always kept in his dressing room for luck. Now, after many seasons away from the stage—and quite some absence from the movies, come to think of it—he's going back to the theater in a Milton Lazarus piece called "Every Man for Himself:" San Francisco sees it first, then New York.

Earl Carroll has been fussing at Metro, saying it dassen't try to snare any of his beauties for "Ziegfeld Girl" because they're all under exslusive contract to him. The girls say different, however, claiming they have a two weeks' clause, and they've been flocking to the studio. The battle of Hollywood's beauties has been a merry one, for even this many years after the maestro's death the ladies still yearn to capture the title of Ziegfeld girl. About 500 honeys have applied for fifteen featured showgirl posts. All but 35 have been weeded out, and today these 35 will make the picture tests from which 15 will emerge with jobs and a measure of fame.

10,000 Club Women Aid Community Fund Drive

More than 10,000 club women have been invited to participate in the campaign of the women's division of the Community fund. The Fortnightly, the Chicago Woman's club, the Chicago Woman's aid, the Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations, and the Illinois Club for Catholic Women are among the organizations which are canvassing their memberships for contributions.

Three Advance on Prize List of Design Contest

Added recognition was won yesterday by three women designers who had entered sketches in THE TRIBUNE's American Fashions contest.

Mrs. Isabel Cox Flint of Fresno, Cal., who had won a $50 prize in the contest, was notified that her sketch has been advanced to one of the five winning designs for which $500 is awarded. Sketches entered by two other contestants—Mrs. Walter B. Wolf of 209 East Lake Shore drive and Rene Dillingham of New York City—have been included in the list of $50 winners.

These revisions in the list of 25 winners, selected at the style revue Oct. 2 in the W-G-N studio, were announced by the contest judges. The changes resulted from a misinterpretation of contest rules by two contestants whose entries had been awarded prizes.

The two, Emmet Joyce and Mrs. Sophie Gimbel, both of New York City, had permitted their designs to be placed in trade channels, contrary to regulations of the competition. They have waived claims to the prizes.

Mr. Joyce's entry—a black jersey and heavy white cotton lace evening gown—had been awarded a $500 prize. Under the revision it is supplanted by Mrs. Flint's creation, a daytime coat dress of lipstick red wool. The ensemble, as slender and vivid as a Christmas candle, is keyed to youth and elegance.

It has a curved, deep yoke belt in back and a single huge Persian lamb button as its front fastening. A tie belt in front fits snugly to the waistline. A perky Persian lamb toque, anchored to the head by a band of red wool, and a gigantic Persian lamb muff, highlighted with the wool, complement the costume.

Mrs. Flint served her apprenticeship with a Hollywood dress firm and later became fashion artist for Hollywood and San Jose branches of a San Francisco concern. She now does free lance art work in Fresno.

Promotion of Mrs. Flint's sketch to the $500 award class and the withdrawal of Mrs. Gimbel's $50 prize entry made possible the award of $50 prizes to Mrs. Wolf and Miss Dillingham.

Mrs. Wolf's design—an evening gown—is a modern siren's dream. The gown sheathes the figure in shiny black satin and is misted in front by black chiffon drapery which falls to a soft curve below the knees.

Mrs. Wolf has been designing garments for seven years. She has been active many years in Chicago society and Illinois politics and is chairwoman of the women's division of the Republican committee of Illinois.

Miss Dillingham's design is a gold wool daytime dress as flip as a collegian's vocabulary. A full skirt falls from a snug bodice which is tucked subtly to reveal youthful curves. The surprising features are a pert front peplum banded in beaver, which in reality is a muff, and three big pompons of beaver which parade to the neckline.

Miss Dillingham, who is 25 years old, has made her own clothes since she was 12. She attended schools in Annapolis, Md., and for three years studied designing and illustration in the Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore. She is a designer for a manufacturer of junior misses' dresses.

Ballet Art Exhibit to Be Held in Foyer of Civic Opera House

An exhibit, entitled "Ballet Art Since 1900," will be opened in the foyers of the Chicago Civic Opera house on the opening night of the opera season, Nov. 2. The show has been arranged to coincide with the season of the Ballet Theater, which is the opera ballet company this year.

There will be portraits, genre and figure paintings, retrospective items, stage and costume designs and the only painted curtain ever done by Jacob Epstein in the exhibit. This curtain is called "David" and was inspired by Anton Dolin's ballet of that name produced in London.

Mrs. Carleton Palmer of New York has assembled the collection and Daniel Catton Rich of the Chicago Art institute will direct its hanging.

Chicago's First Movie Premiere Is a Scoop for Station W-G-N

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Chicago showed Hollywood something yesterday about putting on a real motion picture première—and a day early at that.

But the rousing reception given the arriving "Northwest Mounted Police" stars and Producer Cecil B. De Mille was only a foretaste of what may be expected when Chicago has its first real motion picture première tonight.

The première of the De Mille technicolor production tonight is double barreled. First of all W-G-N, the Mutual network, and the Canadian corporation network will bring the radio première to the nation and to Canada. This is a scoop for W-G-N, for the première is exclusive over these networks. It will be presented from 7:30 to 8 o'clock on the regular In Chicago Tonight program under the direction of William A. Bacher.

As soon as the broadcast is over, all the stars, headed by Gary Cooper, Madeleine Carroll, Paulette Goddard, and Mr. De Mille, will joint in a parade down Michigan avenue to the Chicago and State-Lake theaters for the motion picture premières.

W-G-N, using its short wave mobile unit, also will broadcast this exciting spectacle, with all its color and glamor as the headliners pass between the theaters over the Bridge of Stars on State street. This broadcast, starting at 8:30, also will be carried into the theaters so the guests may share in the outdoor spectacle.

Mr. Bacher announced that the radio première would be broadcast over loudspeakers for all who care to come to Tribune Square.

Ten thousand fans roared an enthusiastic welcome when the City of Los Angeles pulled into the North Western station yesterday with Mr. De Mille and several of the stars aboard. The crowd jammed the station and filled the surrounding streets.

While police held back the surging throng, David Mayer Jr., president of the State Street council, which with W-G-N, Balaban and Katz, and Paramount brought the premiere to Chi-

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Luster is hair's most beautiful attribute. Not even color is as important because, as you may have noticed, any hair shade is lovely and interesting if the hair has the sheen that brings out highlights and nuances of color.

Women find it hard to believe that the reason their hair lacks sheen is nothing more than neglect. And by neglect we mean too many permanents too close together, poor permanents, slipshod shampoos, and complete indifference to the basic rules of scalp hygiene. Hair won't have healthy gloss if the scalp isn't kept healthily stimulated by massage and brushing.

You won't get lasting luster out of a bottle; it would be wonderful if you could, but it just isn't in the cards. Good dressings and lubricants help, but their effect can't be downright miraculous.

If you're utterly depressed about the state of your hair—and every day we hear more lamentations about this than almost any other beauty ailment—rearrange your beauty budget to include some expert corrective treatments. If the budget just won't stand professional treatments you'll have to face the fact that elbow grease and persistence are the next best bet.

Brushing must be a daily ritual, vigorous brushing, too. Then massage, every day without fail to stimulate the sluggish scalp. Dry your hair by hand for a couple of weeks; for the dry, bristly ends use an ointment that softens. If the dryness is severe, use a helpful ointment on the scalp and the hair every other day or so, brushing it in when you do your 200 strokes a day.

Of course, professional treatments are simpler than your own efforts, but it's perfectly true that with your own two hands and some stick-to-itiveness you can transform what looks like a dust mop into a shining halo.

Teen-Agers Are Finding Social Life Has Its Complexities

BY JUDITH CASS.

"WHICH shall I go to, or shall I subscribe for both?" is the question teen age boys and girls are asking themselves these days. Invitations to the Fortnightlies and to the Dinner Dance Club of Chicago are out. Parents seldom are consulted about this important matter, for young people know very well what they want to do, and they like to think they are capable of arranging their social lives without adult assistance. Mothers may not agree with this opinion, but wise ones say little and just stand by ready to come to the rescue when help is needed.

Ten Dances to Be Given at the Fortnightly.

There will be 10 dances at 9 o'clock at the Fortnightly, the first on Friday evening, Nov. 8. Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr. is chairman of the committee in charge, which includes in its membership Mrs. John B. Adams, Mrs. James E. Bennett, Mrs. Aldis J. Browne, Mrs. Richard Cooper Jr., Mrs. Loyal Davis, Mrs. George E. Fox, Mrs. Charles M. McKenna, Mrs. Hugh McLennan, Mrs. Joseph D. McNulty, Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell, Mrs. Theodore Robinson Jr., Mrs. Dudley Stark, Mrs. William J. Stenson, Mrs. John R. Thompson Jr., Mrs. Wayne Wills, and Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley.

The Dinner Dance club will meet at the Saddle and Cycle from 7:30 o'clock until 12 on Nov. 16, Dec. 6 and 23, Jan. 18, Feb. 21, March 8, April 19, and May 10. Mrs. Roger Faherty heads the committee which includes Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Wrigley, Mrs. George Van Buren, Mrs. William Spencer, Mrs. John W. Miller, Mrs. Theodore Joiner, Mrs. C. Wallace Johnson, Mrs. Sangston Hettler, Mrs. W. R. Hodgkinson, Mrs. Homer Hargrave, and Mrs. Ivan H. Ferguson.

Carpenter's Second Symphony to Have Premiere Tonight.

John Alden Carpenter's second symphony, a work which Dr. Frederick A. Stock considers "an important contribution to modern music," might well have been lost to the world this summer, along with other manuscripts, when a fire broke out in the Carpenters' summer home in Beverly, Mass. Fortunately, however, the work was rescued and will be given its world première tonight by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, under the baton of Dr. Stock.

The symphony, which is in one movement, was written by Mr. Carpenter for the golden jubilee of the orchestra. It is planned to present the work in Boston, New York, and possibly Philadelphia and Pittsburgh later in the fall, when the orchestra makes its first eastern tour in more than 20 years.

Dinner parties have been planned to precede tonight's performance by Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Paepcke, the Charles H. Swifts, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson.

The program will be repeated tomorrow afternoon.

Cornelia Otis Skinner to Appear at Racquet Club.

The woman's committee of the Racquet club, of which Mrs. Clive Runnells is chairman, has planned what is certain to be an entertaining afternoon for next Wednesday. At 4 o'clock Cornelia Otis Skinner will give a program, after which tea will be served.

Invitations are out for the Program dance on Friday evening, Nov. 8, from 9:30 until 1:30 o'clock at the Racquet club. Michael Cudahy is secretary and treasurer of the committee planning the party.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, the John Alden Carpenters, and Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph Ganz are among those looking forward to the opening of the series of concerts by the Russian Trio. The first concert will be given at 11:30 o'clock on Nov. 5 at the Arts club by Nnina Minchin, pianist; Ennio Bolognini, cellist, and Hans Muenzer, violinist.

Their friends will be interested to learn that Mrs. Ruth Holmes Lambart and Lawrence Conant Davis have decided to be married some time next month. The marriage will take place either in New York or in Princeton, N. J., and after a wedding trip Mr. Davis and his bride will be at home in [illegible] apartment in Skokie. [illegible] Lambart, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward M. Holmes of Oak Park, is a member of the Chicago Junior league and was formerly active in Service club revues. Mr. Davis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Zachary Taylor Davis of Chicago.

Attention, Artur Schnabel?

Rachmaninoff is the most beloved of guest artists who come to Chicago, say members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The great Russian pianist says little, but what he says is quiet and pointed. A comment he made at rehearsal Monday was very pointed. The third movement of the Beethoven Concerto in C Major is often played very slowly. Rachmaninoff wanted it performed faster.

"Since I am not an authority on Beethoven, I have the privilege of playing it at the right tempo," he said ironically.

Orchestra hall was packed for the Tuesday afternoon concert and Larry Adler, harmonica player who was soloist with the Woman's symphony at its broadcast Sunday and who will play with the St. Louis Symphony orchestra in December, got in by the skin of his—lip, shall we say? Rachmaninoff is his idol. Adler plays the Rachmaninoff piano concerto on his harmonica by ear, goes to every concert, owns all his records. Waiting in the outer foyer to see if he could get in, Adler told of his first attempt to hear the great Russian pianist. He was ten and it was in Baltimore. He was outside the concert hall crying when a woman in a voluminous ermine coat stopped him to ask why he was crying.

"Because I can't get in to hear Rachmaninoff," he told her.

She opened her coat.

"Get in," she said. He hid himself inside its folds, she pulled it around her, handed her ticket to the doorman, and four feet under one coat entered the concert hall.

LAST THURSDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 21: You are East, defending against a three no trump contract. [Your side made no bid.] Your partner leads the spade jack. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

Dummy.
♠A 5
♥Q 9 4
♦K Q 10 8 2
♣K 7 3

[East] You.
♠Q 7
♥K 6 3 2
♦A 4 3
♣J 5 4 2

Dummy's spade ace is played on first trick. What card do you play, and why?

Answer: The spade queen. With the strength in your hand and dummy, it is extremely probable that your partner has no entry outside of the spade suit. But there is a substantial chance that he held the K-J-10-8-x of spades, with declarer originally holding the 9-x-x-x. If that is so, you must unblock the queen. Then your seven spot thru declarer will permit West to run the whole suit, whereas he would be unable to overtake the queen without setting up declarer's nine [20 points demerit for playing the spade seven].

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 26: You are West, declarer at a four spade contract, the bidding having gone:

North	East	South	West
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	4 spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

Your hand and dummy are as follows:

[Declarer] West.	Dummy.
♠A K Q J 10 8	♠9 5 2
♥7 3	♥K 5 4 2
♦A Q	♦7 4 3
♣Q J 9	♣K 10 2

North leads the heart ace, all follow. North then leads the heart queen. What card do you play from dummy, and why?

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	Pass	2 clubs
2 spades	3 clubs	Pass	Pass
4 hearts	Double [final bid]

North's bidding was highly aggressive, considering that his partner had failed even to keep the one heart bid open, but it took splendid defense on the part of East to defeat the game contract.

The ace of clubs was opened, followed by a second round, which declarer ruffed. The king of trumps went to West's ace, and another club was led and ruffed. Now, while there was still a trump in dummy to protect declarer from another force in clubs, the king of spades was laid down. Had East won this with the ace, the defenders could have thrown their cards in the wastebasket. West's spade jack would drop on the queen and dummy's 10 would be the entry to the diamond suit. But East was alert. He held up his ace. Declarer was now helpless to avoid the loss of two spade tricks. He drew the adverse trumps, but even tho he followed with the spade queen, felling West's jack, East, by again holding up the ace, preserved his A-9 for two sure tricks.

The Borrowed Cottage

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1940: By Alice Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Rowan Wilde, an American girl, goes to the isolated cottage of Hazel Fordyce in England, to do some studying. Arriving alone at night, she begins investigating the house and when she opens a closet door, a dead man falls out. As she rushes from the cottage, she runs into 32 year old Stephen Smedley, a young publisher, who has come to the country for a rest. He is living in an old chapel near by. Stephen tells Rowan he will go for help but when he fails to return, she goes in search of him and stumbles upon him prostrate. Helping him into the cottage, Rowan lets him sleep on the sofa while she goes to bed upstairs. She is awakened by him entering her room holding a butcher knife, but a sharp command from Rowan makes him drop the knife and retreat. The next morning he seems to remember nothing of the knife incident and the body has disappeared. He advises her not to mention finding the body as its disappearance might get them both into trouble. Mrs. Yalilee, mother of Egbert, the caretaker, arrives to get Rowan's breakfast and later the Rev. Bogge and Lord Romrytch, neighbors, call trying to find the whereabouts of the vicar's brother, Bertram, who was allowed to study in the cottage. Rowan keeps quiet about the corpse but realizes the dead man is Bertram. Stephen admits knowing Bertram, saying that he had written a book he was trying to interest Stephen in publishing. Rowan has found a manuscript by Bertram in Stephen's brief case, and hides it, unbeknown to Stephen, whom she still suspects as the murderer, tho she is beginning to like him. She learns that Bertram had a bad reputation, having assaulted the vicar's maid who is Egbert's fiancée, and having forged notes. Lord Romrytch informs her he suspected Bertram of being insane as he claimed a close friendship with the dictators of Europe. Rowan invites Stephen to dinner planning to return his brief case but she opens a cupboard door and the corpse falls out. She faints and when she comes to Stephen is standing over her and the corpse has again disappeared. They notify the police. That night Rowan is awakened by the pounding of typewriter keys downstairs and later typewritten notes are slipped under her door demanding the return of the brief case under penalty of death. She escapes to Stephen's chapel and sleeps on his cot. The next morning the police have found the corpse down a well and have locked Rowan out of her bedroom where the brief case has been hidden. At the coroner's inquest, Stephen and Rowan do not tell of finding the corpse the first night and about the threatening notes demanding the brief case. Egbert's testimony casts suspicion on him.

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

NEW SUSPECT.

The scant newspaper item, having given the date of the inquest, mentioned that the late Bertram Bogge had been known as an accomplished linquist with a considerable knowledge of foreign politics. The starred items of the page dealt with the growing sentiment for a Popular Front, and, in the last column, an announcement headed, "Lord Romrytch's New Gift." Rowan opened wide eyes.

"A hundred thousand pounds! Isn't it staggering?"

Stephen said nothing. She read every line, which included an interview with Lord Romrytch, quoting the latter's well known efforts in behalf of world peace and his firm trust in the British empire. To think that the famous peer was the little spindle-legged man who had driven her here and who at this moment was buying stamps within a stone's throw!

As on another occasion Stephen's muteness jarred on her. "Yes," she said tartly. "And exactly why do you object to a big cancer hospital having its existence saved by one person who's not stingy?"

"I beg your pardon?"

"You do hate it," she denounced. "O, I'm entirely with you about the voluntary system being all wrong! Your hospitals ought to have government support; but surely a man like this one deserves all the more credit?"

"You can tell him that when he carts you back."

"O! So you aren't coming?"

"I'm going to mooch about for a garage mechanic."

"I see," she said cuttingly and left it at that. His manner, impelled her, however, to make a few more observations on the merits of their host. "He, anyhow, hasn't aggravated this unemployment you keep harping on. Didn't you hear Lady Romrytch say how during the worst wireless slump in years he's never once turned off a man?"

"So I've heard."

It would have given her immense pleasure to have slapped him.

On the return Lord Romrytch sat beside the chauffeur, making discussion difficult. As the green downs swam past, Rowan ventured a comment.

"You knew, didn't you, that Egbert Yalilee's mother is working for me? I was wondering how her evidence struck you."

"O, the gypsy hag!" Lord Romrytch turned his head. "She seemed pretty jittery."

"She's been like that all along. Was she really at the cottage a whole hour late Monday afternoon without knowing two people, Bogge and the murderer, were in that Tudor room?"

The tweed shoulders shrugged. "Yalilee's mother!" grunted Lord Romrytch, neatly disposing of any statement the witness might make.

From his unwillingness to pursue the topic Rowan deduced that having a man in his employ charged with murder was strongly antipathetic. Altho she could not imagine a mind engrossed with a multitude of large interests letting an affair like this prey on it for long, something told her Lord Romrytch was one of those who would find time to see that any employé, however, humble, would be given a fair deal. The belief slightly comforted—and she wanted comfort.

She studied the narrow, live-wired back. Yes, magnate or no magnate, this little man was just, energetic, understanding.

Maybe Lord Romrytch would not think it fiendish of her to have tampered with her evidence; maybe, indeed, he would see some means of helping her out of her muddle. He would not at any rate let her down. She needn't tell him the whole. Supposing somehow Stephen could be kept out of it? She must think hard, before she decided.

To be sure, if Egbert were not arrested there would be no need to seek any one's counsel; and instinct still battled fiercely for holding her tongue. To the inevitable question, "Why in the first place did you hide this brief case?" she could hardly say, "because the man who mislaid it had stalked down on me with a carving knife." Yet any other answer would sound fishy, and her continued secrecy would be practically impossible to explain.

"You're not leaving Dorset just yet?" she asked.

Lord Romrytch wasn't sure. Not, he hoped, for another day or so, provided a government commission on which he was serving didn't summon him to town.

"Have tea with us tomorrow," he suggested as he set her down at Garch's Corners. "I'll send over for you, what?"

He had not included Stephen in his invitation. Indeed his cordiality sounded absent, but as it also seemed genuine she accepted with thanks.

"Sergeant still on guard?" he asked as the engine restarted. "Good thing. Just as well."

She toiled up the green slope of her lawn, to come face to face with Mr. Forbes.

The secretary's pallor was ghastly. That and his sudden emergence from the house were startling, but what struck her even more was the evident affect the sight of her made on him. Clearly the occupant of the cottage was the last person this correct man had wished to encounter.

"Were you calling on me?" asked Rowan bluntly. She was determined to catch him before he had recovered his composure. The question hit him broadside. He cringed, clutched at his dignity, and stammered a reply.

"Yes—no! That is, it was my fountain pen. The—the other morning, up there, I managed to drop it. I came along to see if it had been picked up."

"Had it?"

The brown eyes wavered behind their insecure lenses. "I—I found it myself, very luckily. In one of the flowerbeds." For proof he produced a thick pen from his waistcoat pocket.

Behind him in the doorway Rowan spied the sergeant, listening. She herself knew that since the fainting incident every flower border had been methodically worked over. Perhaps the sergeant knew it, too.

Forbes smiled, becoming curiously soapy. Hesitating and straightening his neat tie he asked her about the inquest.

"I wasn't called after all. Was—" He cleared an obstruction in his throat—"Was any one charged?"

"Not yet. It's been adjourned."

"For further evidence? O, quite!"

His heavy features had taken on an even more harassed expression. He got out a plain, spotlessly white linen handkerchief and mopped at the moisture oozing from his skin. He was a big man, possibly more muscular than he appeared.

As she noticed his labored, spasmodic breathing she recalled with a recurrence of her nightmare terror the breathing last night on the other side of the locked door—sole audible impression of her unseen threatener. She felt a sudden thankfulness that the sergeant was there just across the crazy pavement.

"I—I must apologize for intruding like this" mumbled Forbes and lumbered quickly away.

Come on foot, apparently; and altho he must certainly have heard his employer's car as it set her down he had not taken advantage of it to get a lift home. From the vantage of the front steps she saw him heading not in his own direction but off to the right, toward the postoffice shop. "The Dorset Arms" lay beyond, also the turnings that led to Stephen's chapel.

Dr. and Mrs. Horace R. Lyons Have Real Housewarming.

Dr. and Mrs. Horace R. Lyons enjoyed a rather too literal housewarming in their new home at Lake Geneva Tuesday, according to our correspondent there, for shortly after they purchased the handsome faced fieldstone home of Dr. George R. Westgate of Kansas City, a fire started. The brave volunteers of Fontana and the neighboring village of Walworth conquered the flames before any great damage was done, however, and the loss will amount to only about $2,500. The house cost about a quarter of a million when it was built 20 years ago.

The subdebutante daughters, Alice and Jane, are active members of the Lake Geneva Country club and the yacht club. There are two younger children, also.

Everett N. McDonnell is the newly elected commodore of the Lake Geneva Yacht club.

Jungle Thriller May Thrill You Or It May Not

"LEOPARD MEN OF AFRICA."

Distributed by Select Attractions, Inc. Photographed by Dr. Paul L. Hoefler. Presented at the Studio.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND: Termed "jungle thriller" by its producers. Said to be the authentic chronicling of a weird society of jungle killers called "Leopard Men"—who garb themselves in leopard hides and claws and pounce on victims from trees. You can believe what you see or not. A lot of it looked far from the McCoy to me.

ACTING: Just like acting. Those natives sure knew there was a camera about.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Beautiful. There are a number of truly memorable shots of animals and scenery. The picture is said to have been made in the jungles of Kenya.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Decidedly depends on the audience.

REMARK: Also on the Studio screen is a not bad second run "musical" featuring Lily Damita and Jack Buchanan. It's an adaptation of the old story, by George Barr McCutcheon, about a young man who has to lose a lot of money within a given time if he is to win a lot of money. It's "dated" to be sure and purty prolix in parts—but I've observed modern movies that were worse.

See you tomorrow.

She purchased a little red wagon and now wheels a "Rex Express" down the corridor and onto the stage, filled with opera score books. During rehearsals the little red wagon sits beside her at the piano. Monday evenings Miss Valentine takes the extra chorus thru its paces, playing accompaniments with one hand and directing with the other. Several of these rehearsals have turned into social events, with some of the fashionables of the town who are interested in opera sitting on benches in the rehearsal room to watch and listen.

The youngest redhead in Life with Father, Harlan Stone, has been replaced by his understudy, David Jeffries, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Jeffries of Chicago. Harlan is being replaced only because time has forced his retirement. He has grown too big for the rôle of the littlest redhead. He remains with the company as understudy to the next largest boy, Jimmy Roland.

Chicago's First Film Premiere Is W-G-N Scoop

cago, elbowed his way thru the milling thousands to welcome the Hollywood notables.

Besides Mr. DeMille, they included Mr. and Mrs. Gary Cooper, Bob Preston, and Lynne Overman.

Police fought their way thru the throng to Canal street, where the stars began a parade to the City hall. Led by horsemen garbed as Canadian mounties, they passed along Madison street and up La Salle street, thousands lining the streets to see them.

Mayor Kelly greeted the stars in his office and then the stars fought their way out to resume the parade thru the loop, up Michigan avenue, and past W-G-N and Tribune Tower.

De Mille and the stars of the picture were guests at the annual banquet of the State Street seniors of the State Street council last evening attended by more than 2,000 Chicago leaders at the Palmer House.

In introducing De Mille as the speaker of the evening Mayor Kelly expressed the expectation that this may be the beginning of many first showings of pictures in the city, which he said, has always taken great pride in its "firsts."

Calling Chicago's merchants and business leaders all showmen, Mr. De Mille asserted that all must work to see that democracy continues to believe in itself.

"Today every upright business man in this hemisphere," he said, "is enlisted in a holy crusade. We have to sell liberty all over again; we have to sell the principle of free and honest enterprise, the spirit of tolerance and good will; we have to resell work, honor, and courage; we have to safeguard free speech and a free press and we have to sell national security.

"Today the two great English speaking nations of North America are closer together than ever in their history. And I'm fortunate to have chosen the brotherhood of these two countries as the theme of the picture 'Northwest Mounted Police.'"

Mr. De Mille then introduced what he called his "little band of strolling players"—the stars of the picture. A program of entertainment preceded the parade of the stars, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, also from Hollywood being among those to contribute. Late last night the hotel lobby and Monroe street were still jammed with fans hopeful of seeing their favorites.

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO by GEORGE RECTOR

If you are one of those who believe "good things go by threes," Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links will back up this theory. For the same delectable sausage meat comes in three distinct kinds of links. There are the tasty little two-bite size, the larger he-man links and the still larger country style sausage. This latter style is the same good sausage meat stuffed into one large, long casing. As the circus barkers used to say, "You pays your money and you takes your choice." They are all Wilson's Certified Quality—'nuff said!

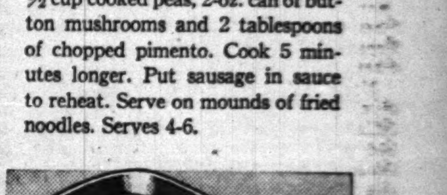
George Rector
Food Consultant, Wilson & Co.

FIT FOR A KING

Chicken has no patent rights on being served "a la King." Wilson's Country Style Sausage is fit for any king, on or off his throne:

Sausage a la King

Pan fry slowly 1 pound of Wilson's Country Style Sausage, cut in 1-inch lengths. When brown, remove from skillet. Blend fat with ¼ cup flour seasoned with 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Add gradually 2½ cups of milk, stirring constantly. When mixture begins to thicken, add 1 Clear Brook Egg (beaten with a little of the sauce), ½ cup cooked peas, 2-oz. can of button mushrooms and 2 tablespoons of chopped pimento. Cook 5 minutes longer. Put sausage in sauce to reheat. Serve on mounds of fried noodles. Serves 4-6.



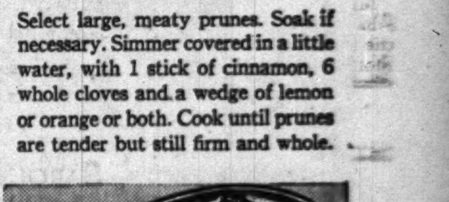
LINK SAUSAGE with SPICED PRUNES

A tasty tidbit for a noonday meal is Wilson's Certified small Pork Sausage Links, tucked in spiced prunes.

Arrange links in a cold skillet. Add ½ cup water, cover and simmer for 5 minutes. Drain, and finish cooking, turning as needed. Make an incision in large, spiced prunes, to remove pits. Slip sausage link in prunes, and arrange on an attractively garnished platter.

Spiced Prunes

Select large, meaty prunes. Soak if necessary. Simmer covered in a little water, with 1 stick of cinnamon, 6 whole cloves and a wedge of lemon or orange or both. Cook until prunes are tender but still firm and whole.



A HEARTY DISH—
Sausage Macaroni Loaf

½ lb. macaroni
1 lb. Wilson's Certified Pork Sausage Links, large
1½ cups milk
1 Clear Brook Egg
1 cup dry grated cheese
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons Clear Brook Butter

Boil macaroni, broken in small pieces, until tender. Saute vegetables in the butter. Mix with drained macaroni. Arrange sausage links (uncooked) in bottom of loaf pan. Top with alternate layers of macaroni and cheese. Pour on milk, mixed with beaten egg. Top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 45 minutes. Unmold. Serves 5-6.

RANKIN AND GALVIN BOLSTER PURDUE HOPES

INDIANA BATTLE GIVES N. U. THAT UNEASY FEELING

Players' Condition Alarms Waldorf.

"We're still walking that tight rope." That's the way Coach Lynn Waldorf characterizes the situation in which Northwestern's Wildcats find themselves as they seek their fourth straight victory of the year against Indiana in Dyche stadium Saturday.

Waldorf didn't give any hint yesterday whether he thinks the Wildcats will be toppled from the undefeated ranks by the surging Hoosiers, but he made it plain he regards the situation as critical. With a back field weakened by the loss of several key men and a line still showing the effects of the bruising Wisconsin game, the Wildcats may have reason to fret.

There is no tendency to underestimate the Indiana threat. The Crimson lost decisions by one touchdown to Texas and Nebraska, two of the strongest teams in the nation, and then bounced back to upset Iowa, 10 to 6. Indiana has made 34 first downs to the opposition's 27; gained 659 yards to 555 and completed 32 out of 67 passes for 386 yards.

N. U. Defense Is Tight.

In its three victories Northwestern has rolled up 35 first downs against 22 by the opposition and gained 749 yards by rushing against 268 yards. Only in passes does Indiana possess a superior mark. The Wildcats have completed 7 out of 16 passes for 76 yards. All seven completions were made by Bill De Correvont.

Upon Northwestern's embattled line rests much of the Wildcats' hopes of victory. For the fourth successive time this season, the undermanned Purple line will be outweighed by more than 15 pounds per man. The "iron man" line unit has been a big factor in Northwestern's success. It has yielded ground grudgingly in every game, having held Ohio State to a net of six yards. Wisconsin gained 187 yards by rushing, most of which was compiled in a fourth quarter march resulting in the lone Badger touchdown.

Four members of the starting line have done overtime duty, having played all but a few minutes of each game. Corne Aarts and Alf Bauman, tackles, Paul Hiemenz, center, and Joe Lokanc, guard, have played an average of 55 minutes in all three games. The other guard position has been shared by George Zorich, junior, and Nick Burke, sophomore from Lane Tech.

Make Back Field Changes.

With De Correvont and Ike Kepford, first string half backs, on the sidelines with injuries, considerable shifting has been done. George Benson, who has turned in a surprising performance at full back, is being groomed to play right half as well. He will be ready to support Tuffy Chambers, who scored two touchdowns against the Badgers.

Loss of De Correvont will place the brunt of the left half position on Red Hahnenstein. Red apparently has recovered from the sprained ankle which kept him out of the Ohio game. The veteran Erwin Madsen will understudy Hahnenstein.

Don Clawson, battering full back, appears to have recovered from the side injury suffered Saturday. He will be supported by both Benson and Paul Soper. The latter took over when Clawson was injured and compiled a ground gaining average of 5.2 yards in 16 attempts. Dick Richards, quarter back, and his understudy, Don Kruger, complete the back field.

INDIANA PREPARES DEFENSE.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 23 [Special].—With a warning that Northwestern has the hardest charging line and best pass defense they will encounter this season, Coach Bo McMillin sent the Indiana players thru a lengthy drill on blocking and aerial offense today. Hal Hursh continued to pitch most of the passes, with some relief from Mickey McGuire and Al Rucinski.

Tuffy Brooks, chunky driving back, returned to the lineup for the first time in three weeks, and apparently will be in shape for his first duty of the season against the Wildcats Saturday. Two reserve right half backs, Kenny Smith and Dan Preger, showed up well in scrimmage.

Dick Chapman Is Served in Wife's Separation Suit

New York, Oct. 23 [Special].—Dick Chapman, National amateur golf champion, was served with a summons today in the separation suit of his wife, the former Marjorie Logan, Connecticut society woman who recently sang in night clubs. Her suit, Mrs. Chapman has announced, will charge nonsupport. They were married in 1937, a year after the golfer divorced his first wife, Caroline Trowbridge Townsend.

Iowa State Concentrates on Building Ground Attack

Ames, Ia., Oct. 23 (AP).—Possibility that Iowa State may rely heavily on its running attack against Oklahoma here Saturday was seen today as the Cyclones concentrated on ground plays for the second successive day. Short aerial workouts, however, were conducted to keep the throwing arms of Quarter Backs Royal Lohry, Bob Seaburg, and Larry Owens limber.

RAZZLE DAZZLE TAKES BACK SEAT AT OHIO STATE

Buckeyes Drill on Defense for Cornell Game.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Oct. 23.—The never ending task of preparing a defense still occupies Ohio State's football men. When the squad departs for the Cornell game in Ithaca, N. Y., tomorrow night, Coach Francis Schmidt will have had only four afternoons into which to cram a review of all the Buckeyes' plays.

Again this afternoon Schmidt was forced to turn his attention to defensive measures, for few believe the Buckeyes can win a free scoring game from Cornell. Critics cite last year's 23 to 14 defeat, as well as the 112 points Cornell has scored this season against Colgate, Army, and Syracuse.

According to Sid Gilman, former Buckeye end and now an assistant coach, who has seen Cornell play three times, the problem of defense is particularly difficult because of Cornell's balanced attack. Not only does Cornell gain with straight plays behind an aggressive line, but the team has compiled the astounding record of 40 completed forward passes in 60 attempts. These passes have scored nine touchdowns and gained 851 yards.

Enemy Passes Bother Buckeyes.

Since Northwestern attempted only two passes, completing none, and Minnesota didn't pass at all last Saturday while beating Ohio State, 13 to 7, one must go back to the Purdue game to judge the effectiveness of the Buickeyes' defense against forward passes. The evidence isn't at all encouraging for those loyalists who hope Ohio State can regain national consideration by upsetting Cornell.

After establishing a half time advantage of 14 to 0, a familiar pattern in many Ohio State games, the Buckeyes faltered before the passing of Purdue's Mike Byelene and were badly outplayed. The Boilermakers tied the score, but lost the game when Charlie Maag, substitute tackle, kicked a field goal in the final seconds.

It would seem that Gilman is correct when he questions Ohio State's defense for Cornell's passes, particularly since Cornell also threatens with its assortment of trick plays and spinners.

Ohioans Wary of "Mouse Trap."

These Ohio State players, of course, have had experience with Cornell's versatile attack. All members of the Ohio State starting eleven played in last year's game. The Buckeye guards will be wary of the Cornell "mouse trap" which was baited so adroitly last year that huge holes were created in the line merely by capitalizing on defensive eagerness.

Today, after an offensive drill, the varsity looked at Cornell formations as demonstrated by freshman teams.

Six men must bear the brunt of Cornell's trickery—delayed plays and spins—and power. These are the five linemen from tackle to tackle and Don Scott, who was assigned to back up that line after Jim Langhurst, full back, and Tom Kinkade, right half, had been found wanting in aggressiveness and lacking the ability to diagnose the enemy attack.

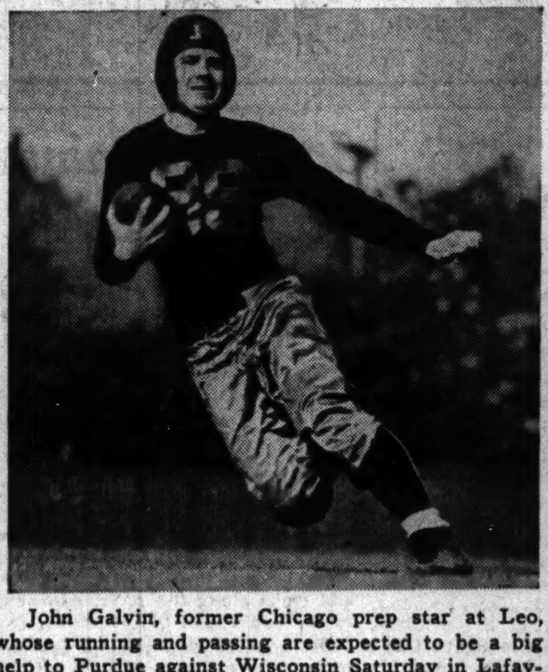
Gigantic Task for Line.

The men who probably will start in front of Scott are Thornton Dixon and Jack Stephenson, tackles; Ed Bruckner and Bill Nosker, guards, and Claude White, center. These men, and their substitutes, must play the Cornell forwards on even terms if Ohio State is to have any hope of victory. Quite likely, considering Cornell's speed and passing record averaging two completions in every three attempts, these linemen must outplay Cornell's line.

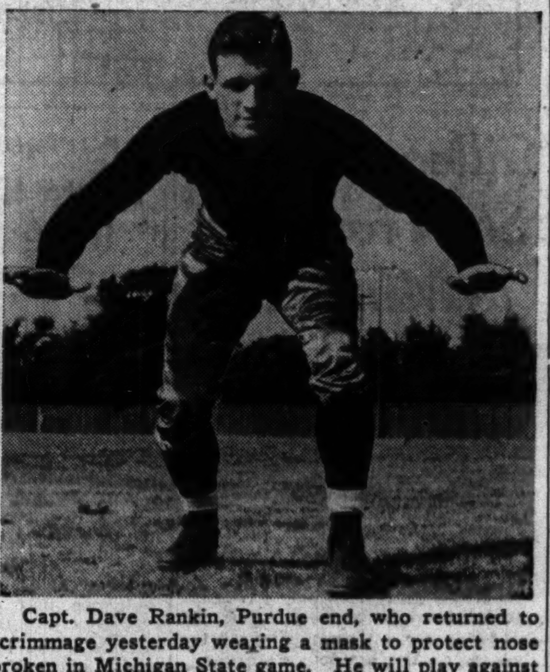
On this elemental fact rests Saturday's decision with such subsidiary items as Ohio State's recovery physically and mentally from defeat by Minnesota and possible complacence of Cornell's varsity after three one sided conquests.

Jim Strausbaugh still is indicated as the starting left half back for Ohio State. The name of George Zavistoske, sophomore from Racine, Wis., has been added to the list of possible substitutes for this position.

They'll Enliven Purdue's Homecoming



John Galvin, former Chicago prep star at Leo, whose running and passing are expected to be a big help to Purdue against Wisconsin Saturday in Lafayette, Ind.



Capt. Dave Rankin, Purdue end, who returned to scrimmage yesterday wearing a mask to protect nose broken in Michigan State game. He will play against Badgers.

Dick Embick, Wisconsin's right guard, who is recovering from injuries and will be in the lineup against Purdue.

One of the bright spots in a drab season for the Badgers has been the playing of Jim McFadzean, sophomore right half back.

Illini Get 3 Touchdowns on 2d Team

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 23 [Special].—Illinois' varsity scored three touchdowns against the second team in a long and spirited scrimmage today, taking final hard contact work before Saturday's game with unbeaten Notre Dame in Memorial stadium.

Cliff Peterson, switched from full back to left half, paced the offense, scoring the first touchdown on a play that netted thirty yards. Full Back George Bernhardt drove off tackle for fifteen yards and the third touchdown. Ralph Ehni kicked the point after touchdown each time. Later under the arc lights the varsity went on defense in a dummy scrimmage against the freshmen using Notre Dame plays.

Zuppke Shifts Players.

Several changes were made by Coach Bob Zuppke in the varsity line as he continued his search for defensive power. John Sikich, tackle, replaced Capt. Tom Riggs; Bob Wallin, guard, was in for Harry Siebold; Joe Pawlowski replaced Joe Turek at guard, and Bob Wilford, who started the Michigan game at center, was in for Ken Cheeley. Turek, recovered from a slight injury, was in the lineup during the dummy scrimmage. Cheeley is resting a leg bruise, but will be ready tomorrow.

IRISH GET HARD DRILL.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 23 [Special].—Notre Dame's football squad, hailed as the greatest in recent years on the Irish campus, started all over with fundamentals today.

"We still have lots of work to do," said Coach Elmer Layden. "The kids know it and their spirit is fine. Our blocking and tackling were improved last week against Carnegie Tech, but we still need work on these two fundamentals." The linemen held a line scrimmage and the backs worked on blocking, and all hands had a brief tackling drill. Layden also had the boys pouncing on loose balls, as the Irish have fumbled 10 times in three games, twice as many as opponents. Unrecovered fumbles might prove costly against the inspired and alert play expected from the Illini in Champaign.

JOCKEYS ESCAPE SERIOUS INJURY IN 4 HORSE FALL

Salem, N. H., Oct. 23 (AP).—Four jockeys escaped serious injury today at Rockingham Park in a spectacular spill and pile up during the running of the sixth race.

Coming into the home stretch, with 12 horses bunched together in the closing drive of a three-quarter mile sprint, Jadaan, with Eddie Connolly in the saddle, stumbled and fell. Charmed One stepped on the falling horse and went down also, throwing his jockey, Fred Farrell. Story Time and The Jurist were tangled in the resulting pileup, throwing their riders, Willie Emery and Harold Sconza, both of whom escaped injury.

Connolly and Farrell suffered slight leg and shoulder injuries and were taken to a hospital for observation.

Creighton Leaves Today to Play San Francisco U.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 23 (AP).—Pass defense was emphasized today in the last practice session before the Creighton Bluejays leave for the west coast to play San Francisco University Sunday. The Jays will depart tomorrow, and will work out at Ogden, Utah, Friday morning. Left half back Mullin and right guard Miller were left behind because of injuries.

WHEATON DRILLS TO STOP DE KALB PASSING ATTACK

Wheaton college, not at all disheartened at losing, 18 to 13, last Saturday to Iowa Central, is preparing to make Saturday's homecoming day game against De Kalb Teachers a success.

De Kalb's passing attack was good for a 21 to 7 triumph over Oshkosh Teachers last week. Toimo Jarvi, substitute for the injured Ollie Krahenbuhl, threw three touchdown passes to Bob Price, end, against Oshkosh. Wheaton has been stressing a pass defense this week after learning that Jarvi completed 8 of 11 passes.

SERIES PAYS THE INDIANS—AND VITT—$919 EACH

The Cleveland Indians got more than a headache out of the American league race for 1940, after all.

Checks are on the way to members of the club, including Manager Oscar Vitt, which represent the Indians' share of the world series spoils for finishing second to the Detroit Tigers. Thirty-one players and officials of the club received a full share, $919.13. Two other shares were divided into six portions to players who were with the club less than a full season and to clubhouse employés. This information came in a statement issued from the office of K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner.

Twenty-seven members of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who finished second in the National league, received full shares of $947.85. Nine others participated in the Dodgers' split, which totaled $30,331.06, the same as Cleveland's.

KINARD ENTERS HOSPITAL WITH INFECTED HAND

New York, Oct. 23 [Special].—Frank [Bruiser] Kinard, Brooklyn Dodgers tackle, was removed to Long Island College hospital today. He was said to be suffering from a serious infection of the right hand.

Kinard accidentally was cut across the top of the hand by Joe Stydahar's cleats during last Sunday's Bear-Dodger game in Chicago. Seven stitches were required to close the wound.

CAPTAIN WORKS IN SCRIMMAGE FOR WISCONSIN

With the squad engaging in the last game scrimmage of the week, Galvin, former Leo High school star from Chicago, turned in several twisting runs, in addition to completing a number of aerials. Galvin, who has completed six of 15 passes this season for 98 yards, may be forced to take over more of the Boilermakers' aerial burden because of injuries which will keep Mike Byelene out of the game.

Mask Protects Rankin's Nose.

Rankin, whose play all season has been outstanding, made his first appearance in scrimmage since the Michigan State game in which he suffered a fractured nose. Wearing a special face guard, Rankin apparently suffered no ill effects today in scrimmage, and may see considerable action against the Badgers.

Emphasis was placed on pass offense and defense during the intensive drill, which ended with a punting scrimmage. Galvin, a left-footed kicker and right-handed passer, along with John Petty and Hal Schumacher, got off the most consistent kicks.

The development of Ewell O'Bryan, a sophomore, as a guard, provided evidence that he may see considerable action.

PASKVAN, LORENZ, HURT.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 23 [Special].—Dick Embick, the Badgers' star guard, was joined on the sidelines today by George Paskvan, full back, and Al Lorenz, end. Both are standout players. Altho their leg injuries are not expected to keep them out of the Purdue game, neither one engaged in contact work today. Paskvan spent the afternoon under the heat lamps. Seven sophomores were in the Badgers' first string lineup. It also is believed that Embick will be able to take over his post at guard against Purdue.

Jim McFadzean, sophomore speedster, continued to hold down the right half back position. Coach Harry Stuhldreher said he believed the scrimmage had improved the timing, but he still is worried by the plague of fumbling that wrecked whatever chance the Badgers had against Northwestern last Saturday.

The squad will leave here tomorrow night and work out Friday afternoon at Butler stadium in Indianapolis, moving to Lafayette a few hours before the game.

LAKE FOREST AND MILLIKIN TO TEST TITLE AMBITIONS

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 23 [Special].—Off to a flying start in their bids for the Illinois college conference football championship, Lake Forest college and James Millikin university will test their title ambitions in a game in Lake Forest Saturday.

Millikin, which beat Knox college 14 to 6 last week for its first conference victory since 1936, is going thru a week of brisk drills for the contest. Every regular except Dale Shaffer, sophomore guard, is expected to be in shape. Shaffer is out of action with an injury.

The chances of the Millikin squad have been given a lift by the return to action of Jean Mason of Hillsboro, regular center, who took part in the Knox game and showed he has recovered from a leg injury suffered on a part time job outside college.

36 PENN PLAYERS LEAVE TODAY FOR MICHIGAN GAME

Hundreds of Students and Bands Will Follow.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 23 [Special]. —Primed for their sternest test of the season, 36 Pennsylvania football players will go west tomorrow morning to face Michigan in Saturday's game involving unbeaten and untied teams.

Observers at the two hour drill this afternoon found Coach George Munger's players confident and appearing competent for the clash in Ann Arbor, which is expected to feature another great individual duel between Penn's Frank Reagan and Michigan's Tommy Harmon.

Several hundred students, including Penn's 90 piece band, will travel to Ann Arbor hoping to see Reagan and his teammates avenge last season's 19 to 17 setback by Harmon and company.

Calls Michigan Better.

"Michigan has a better balanced team than last year and has played stronger rivals than we have this fall," Coach Munger said, "but, win or lose, I'll be pleased if we give them a good game as we did in the past two years.

Concensus of football opinion, however, is that the 1940 Penn squad surpasses the previous two products of the Munger régime, being more experienced, stronger in both line and back field, and boasting spirited morale. Penn followers think they have good reason to expect the Red and Blue to avenge the three straight reversals received from the Wolverines.

To Use Same Lineup.

Munger said he will use the same starting lineup he sent in for the opening whistle against Yale and Princeton. This means four will be starting against Michigan for the second successive season, namely, Capt. Ray Frick, center; Rix Yard, tackle; Ed Allen, full back, and Reagan, half back.

Rounding out the back field will be Gene Davis, the signal caller and blocking back, and Johnny Dutcher, No. 1 wing back.

As their starting mates in the line Frick and Yard will have Bernie Kuczynski and Len Warner, ends; Cliff Engler, tackle; Irving Mendelson and Al Brechka, guards. Thus, except for Kuczynski, who is a sophomore, Penn has a veteran first string unit.

HARMON DRILLS ON PASSING.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 23 [Special]. —In attempting to forecast the nature of Saturday's intersectional clash here with Pennsylvania, observers today hinted that the success of Princeton's passing star, Dave Allerdice, against Penn last week may cause Coach Fritz Crisler to turn loose Tom Harmon in Michigan's first large scale aerial attack of the season.

Harmon, who last night announced he would spurn all professional offers, has yet to concentrate upon any real pass offensive chiefly because the Michigan running game has yet to be stopped. The reported strength of the Penn line, however, may have changed the plans of the Michigan board of strategy. Whereas Princeton lost sixteen yards with its ground attack in the Penn game, Allerdice, who is the son of a former Michigan football captain, completed twenty-five passes for 350 yards.

Francis Reagan, the Quakers' passer, is almost certain to answer with an aerial barrage of his own, since the only two touchdowns scored on Michigan this year have been on long passes.

The Michigan squad split its time between offensive and defensive drilling in today's practice session and reserves again assumed Penn formations.

Gilleard Will Start for Iowa at Minnesota

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 23 [Special].—Burdell [Oops] Gilleard was promoted to right half back today as Iowa's Hawkeyes held a strenuous pass session and a long workout against Minnesota plays. The Hawkeyes play the Gophers in Minneapolis Saturday.

Gilleard's rise came as the result of his play against Indiana and Wisconsin. He galloped thirty yards for a touchdown against the Hoosiers and accounted for a score against the Badgers on the previous Saturday.

Line Coach Jim Harris, who scouted the Gophers, sent a reserve eleven using Minnesota plays against the first three Iowa teams and the varsity stopped everything.

Meanwhile, Coach Eddie Anderson shifted left half backs and full backs and gave sideliners an indication that plenty of razzle-dazzle will come into use in Minneapolis.

Bill Green and Ray Murphy, veteran full backs, changed places with Left Half Backs Tom Farmer and Jim Youel while two other left half backs—Bill Stauss and Bob Bender—were used on a third eleven.

EXPECT RECORD ATTENDANCE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 23 [Special].—An attendance record is almost certain for the Minnesota-Iowa homecoming game here Saturday. If the ticket sale continues the 1,800 remaining seats should be gone by tomorrow night.

The Minnesota ticket manager revealed that, tho 64,200 was given as the unofficial attendance at Notre Dame's 7 to 6 victory here in 1937, the official tabulation showed 63,237, including bandsmen, newspapermen, ushers, and every one inside the park.

Five casualties still remain in the Gopher camp. Fred Vant Hull, promoted to first string tackle, suffered a sprained ankle and will be withheld from heavy duty. Bruce Smith likewise is taking things easily after a battering by Ohio State. Reserve Back Joe Jamnik is out of service with a severe cold. Bill Baumgartner, reserve end, is working despite a broken nose, and Bob Paffrath still is handicapped by sprained wrists.

Spartans Match Santa Clara with Reserve Power

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 23 [Special].—Reserve power may decide the outcome of the Michigan State-Santa Clara game here Saturday. Coach Charles W. Bachman has used the mass substitution idea with success for the last few years. According to reports reaching the Spartan camp, Coach Buck Shaw of the Broncos employs the same tactics.

Just after a report had reached the Spartans that the Broncos would be without the services of Dick Clark, their ace half back, Jim Nicholas, executive secretary of Santa Clara, brought news that the Santa Clara squad had half backs to burn. He named Jim Johnson, Ken Casanega, Ward Heiser, Frank Peterson, and Joe Vargas as among the first rank.

In addition, he informed the Spartan coaches that Harry Sanders will be ready for action. Sanders was on the bench when the Broncos lost a 7 to 6 game to Stanford early in the season.

Santa Clara always has presented a formidable line and this year appears to be no exception. This year the Broncos are boasting Rupe Thornton, a 210 pound guard, as a formidable candidate for All-American honors.

A squad of 34 players left Oakland, Cal., by train last night. It will work out tomorrow afternoon on the Denver university gridiron and arrive in East Lansing Friday afternoon, Nicholas said.

Soaking Rains Needed to Aid Duck Hunting

BY BOB BECKER.

With some of the big marshes in the lower Illinois river badly in need of soaking rains, while sloughs, ponds and backwater lakes in other parts of the valley have plenty of water, duck hunting conditions along the Illinois river are anything but uniform. The dams that hold the water at a fairly constant level are a big aid to some of the day shooting places and clubs along the river, especially in the upper part of the valley.

Other marshes not affected by dams have been suffering from a lack of water which naturally cuts down the shooting. We know of one marsh owner in the dry district who installed big pumps in order to get water and duck shooting this fall. He has kept the pumps working day and night. They put enough water into his marsh to bring the birds to the abundant food which was growing on the flats.

Some Good Bags Reported.

Reports from various parts of the Illinois river indicate that in many parts of the valley shooting should be better this week-end. We are impressed by the bags of birds already taken on some of the day shooting places. For example, one marsh near Lacon yielded 293 birds in three days. Some of the marshes in the upper river are giving the boys snappy shooting.

There is plenty of water in the upper part of the Illinois due to the impounded water behind dams. On the other hand, down near the Sangamon river there are hundreds of acres that normally are filled with water in the fall, but which now are dry. At Bath one of the duck hunting veterans says that the water in his marshes runs from a level of one inch to 20 inches. This is enough for ducks, but it's pretty hard going in the mud.

Mallards Are Scarce.

Not many mallards have reached southern Illinois along with the wild geese. If a hunter wants to combine both duck and goose hunting near Cairo he would do well to wait until the duck flight has extended that far south. The wild geese, remembering the free meals of corn, soy beans, and various grains on the Horse Shoe lake preserve, are again massed on this sanctuary where they find free food 24 hours a day.

CARDINAL COACH WISHES HE HAD THE GREAT LYNCH

Conzelman Cites Talking Feats of Old Pal.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Jimmy Conzelman, two pages away from the end of a slick paper magazine piece he has been writing for six months, and four days away from a return engagement with Cleveland in Comiskey park Sunday, sipped ruefully at a milk shake, wondering where he could find another Ed Lynch.

"That's all we need to make the Cardinals a winner," he mused. "A couple of Ed Lynches and we'd be big people in this league. But in their absence we'll substitute a few new formations that will put a different complexion on our offense and maybe give the customers—and Cleveland—a few thrills.

A Great Talker.

"Lynch?" and he fixed his questioner with a disdainful glare. "Lynch? Why the Great Lynch of Catholic U., of course. He had what we miss in this league. The old gab. Lynch talked more players into defeat than any other man who ever came into professional football.

"He's a tradition at Catholic university, where he was a star for three years before we got him at Pottsville. He was an end. I was his coach and quarter back. We had a very successful little outfit. Lynch can prove it. He has a trunk full of clippings with headlines that say: 'The Great Lynch Stops Grange.' Just give me a half a dozen like Lynch and we'd beat the Rams Sunday.

"Lynch turned up at end in about every game Grange played on that famous inaugural tour in 1925. Finally he turned to Grange one day and said:

"'Mister, I'm getting pretty tired of throwing you for a loss. Why don't you be a good boy and go around the other side once in a while. Maybe you'll be able to pick up a yard or two.'"

Coach Losing Weight.

Conzelman doesn't like milk shakes, but he ordered another. It was doctor's orders. Conzelman is losing weight trying to get the Cardinals thru the season without another Lynch or a reasonable facsimile thereof.

"We never would have lost at Cleveland last week if the Great Lynch had been with us," he began again after an impressive, albeit short silence. "Lynch would have taken care of that Drake.

"We were playing Philadelphia the day Ed Weir, Nebraska's two time All-American tackle, broke in with the Yellow Jackets. Weir came prancing into the game, full of fire.

"'Sonny, what's your name?' Lynch asked, with all the parental solicitude of a parish priest. Before Weir had time to think he blurted out, 'Ed Weir.' Right there he was thru. The Great Lynch went to work on him,

"'Well,' said Lynch, 'there you are. An All-American. You went to a big school and they made you All-American. Now look at me. I'm no All-American. I'm big. I'm strong. I'm the best football player in America. But nobody put me on an All-American. See what I mean? Jimmy, call a play around this young man. I want to show him what I mean.'

"I called the play," Conzelman recalls. Then, after a pause: "It went for a touchdown. The great Lynch was truly great. Boy, what I'd give for a dozen Lynches right now!"

Bears Off Today for New York and Game with Giants

The Chicago Bears will go east on an afternoon train today, bound for New York, revenge, and a defense of their position as leaders in the western division of the National Football league.

Sunday in the Polo Grounds they meet the Giants, who a year ago upset the Chicagoans, 16 to 13, in a game that led to bitter dispute over whether Bill Osmanski had crossed the goal line on short third and fourth down plunges. The officials ruled no and the Bears lost.

A capacity crowd of 50,000 is expected to see the game, the second of the season in the Polo Grounds. George Musso, veteran guard, suffering from a fractured transverse process, and Bobby Swisher, little left half back, who has three cracked ribs, will not oppose the Giants, who are crippled themselves, with Tuffy Leemans nursing a back ailment.

Coach George Halas has arranged for workouts in the Polo Grounds tomorrow morning and Saturday. Defense was stressed again yesterday and Halas will order more of the same when the squad takes its last drill at home this morning.

Report Farr to Box Louis in Los Angeles

Joe Louis will make his next defense of the heavyweight championship against Tommy Farr in Los Angeles in January, it was reported yesterday.

At the same time it was said Mike Jacobs, New York boxing promoter, had arranged with James Norris Jr., Chicago Stadium and Detroit Olympia official, for the right to promote five shows in each of the arenas during the indoor season. Arthur Wirtz, Stadium vice president, admitted Norris is in New York to close with Jacobs but he had not yet received word that an agreement had been reached.

Jacobs' Invasion Opposed.

Jacobs' proposed invasion of Chicago is sanctioned by the Illinois Athletic commission. However, the move is being opposed by some Chicagoans, including Promoter Irving Schoenwald and Sam Pian, manager of Middleweight Champion Tony Zale. Mike's original plan was to open the Stadium with a bout between Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight contender, and Billy Soose, Scranton, Pa., middleweight, who holds decisions over Zale and Ken Overlin.

A few weeks ago Nat Rogers, Jacobs' matchmaker, asked Jack Begun, representative of Aron, whether he would be interested in such a match. Begun replied in the affirmative, but no offer was made, probably because the manager made it plain that Schoenwald would have to be connected with the show. Schoenwald has an option on Aron's services and Jacobs holds exclusive rights to Soose.

Aron in East.

Another attractive match for Chicago would be a rematch between Fritzie Zivic, recently crowned welterweight champion, and Aron, but the encore may never be arranged because Zivic also is under exclusive contract to Jacobs. Aron, who is in Philadelphia for a 10 round fight with Mike Kaplan next Monday, knocked out Zivic in the eighth round in the Coliseum Dec. 27.

Jimmy Richie, 1940 Chicagoland Golden Gloves middleweight champion, will make his professional debut in a four round bout against Leonard Bostick of Indianapolis in Marigold Gardens Monday. Additional matches at this distance will bring together Bobby Ryan and Al Jackson, local welterweights, and Ralph Balcom, Muskegon, Mich., featherweight, and Richard Rigali.

Blatz Beers bowled the highest series of the evening, 3,042 and won two games from the leading Koenig Braus. The Ambrosias took two from the Ruppert Knickerbockers. High team game of the evening was 1,090, bowled by Blatz. George Notz of the Ambrosias totaled 664 for high individual series, and Clarence Garant's 268 was high game. Scores:

The Logan Squares and Congress each dropped a game. Laura Stellmacher rolled the league's high scores, 593, with a 241 game.

Does Your Scalp Have Its
121,630 HAIRS
Or are YOU Getting Bald?

WORLD'S LEADING HAIR & SCALP EXPERTS FORTY-FIVE OFFICES

BLONDES with healthy scalps have 140,000 hairs; red-heads only 90,000; brunettes 120,000—and the average healthy head has 121,630 hairs. Most scalps need help, though, in maintaining their hair quota, because dandruff, scalp itch, and other abnormal local conditions keep hair from growing naturally. Baldness comes when your scalp sheds more hair than it is able to re-grow.

Thomas can help you keep those 121,630 hairs by ridding your scalp of any of the 14 local conditions which cause 90% of all baldness. For 20 years Thomas treatment has been overcoming dandruff, stopping abnormal hair-fall, and promoting hair growth on thin and bald spots. This precise, reliable method can help you too, to retain or regain a good head of hair. Call today for free consultation and a free scalp examination.

ANABEL'S GIRL IS SWEETHEART OF SOME FANS

Pays $101.40 for Victory at Sportsman's.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Favorites and well backed second or third choices have been scoring with such regularity at Sportsman's Park that those who like to shop around for long shots were getting a bit discouraged until Anabel's Girl ran the race of her life yesterday. Scampering home at nearly 50 to 1, she beat the odds-on favorite Shirley G., by a head. Then she paid off at $101.40—the longest price of the meeting. Place and show tickets were worth $27.60 and $8.20, respectively.

Anabel's Girl delivered her unexpected performance against seven rivals of the $1,500 class in a seven furlong dash which was the fourth race on yesterday's card. The long shot players promptly went off into corners and groaned because all of the second guessers pointed out that Anabel's Girl could have been picked easily on the form she showed last winter.

Trahan Finally Scores.

At that time she was running in the $2,500 division in New Orleans. After a layoff of several months she returned to competition during the Hawthorne meeting, but had been unable to get anywhere in several starts despite the fact that she was dropped down in class.

Murphy Trahan, who had ridden her thruout her winter campaign at the Fair Grounds, piloted her yesterday. He held her close to the leaders during the early stages, sent her to the front as they started the second trip down the back stretch and kept her running just long enough to beat Shirley G. Last Rose was third.

Dora May, Gus Simone's consistent 7 year old mare, which hasn't been of the money since the Arlington Park meeting, won the Calumet purse, a six and a half furlong dash which headed yesterday's program. Bobby Conley rushed her into the lead immediately after the break and she remained in front all the way to win by a length.

Keiper Takes Lead.

Illinois Tom, which lost much ground by running wide on the first turn, came back resolutely, but spent himself getting up to second place and had nothing left to challenge the leader in the stretch. Vinum was third. Dora May was the favorite, her prices being $5.20, $3.40, and $3.

Paul Keiper, who had ridden three winners on Tuesday, scored with two more yesterday and took the lead away from Andy LoTurco. He brought in Free Miss in the first to tie his rival with a total of 15 winners for the meeting, and then forged ahead when he landed Barbara S. first at the finish line in the third.

Steve Brooks, who is close behind Keiper and LoTurco, brought in Molest in the second to run his total to 14. Free Miss and Molest made up a $157.20 daily double.

Starting Nov. 10, the Chicago Auto Racing association will present a series of Sunday night programs in the International amphitheater. A sixth of a mile track, slightly banked at the turns, will be laid out in blue clay, Arthur Folz, president of the racing association, announced yesterday.

G. B. CORTELYOU, FORMER CABINET MEMBER, DIES, 78

Confidant of Cleveland, McKinley, and T. R.

Huntington, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP).—George Bruce Cortelyou Sr., 78, confidante of three Presidents, holder of three cabinet posts, and one of the nation's outstanding financiers, was found dead in his bed today.

He retired five years ago as president of the Consolidated Gas company of New York, which became one of the largest and most important utilities of the country during his administration.

He was born in New York City, the son of a family whose ancestors played a distinctive rôle in colonial and revolutionary history.

He began his governmental career in 1891 as a private secretary to the fourth assistant postmaster general.

Served Three Presidents.

Later, he was stenographer, executive clerk, confidential clerk, and secretary to three Presidents—Cleveland, McKinley, and Theodore Roosevelt—and under Roosevelt held the cabinet posts of secretary of labor and commerce, postmaster general, and secretary of the treasury.

He was with McKinley when the President was shot by an assassin at Buffalo, N. Y., and remained beside his stricken chief's bedside night and day until his death.

Suffered Heart Attack.

Death came to Cortelyou in his sleep. He was found dead by his wife, the former Lily Morris Hinds of Hempstead, N. Y., when she went to his room about 7 a. m.

Last Friday Cortelyou had suffered a heart attack, his son, George B. Jr., said, but rallied and appeared to be recovering good health.

For the last five years he had lived quietly on his 10 acre estate, Harbor Lights, at Halesite, on the brow of a hill overlooking Huntington bay.

BOY FUGITIVES SEIZED IN CRASH OF STOLEN AUTO

Elkhart, Ind., Oct. 23 [Special].—Two youths, one a Chicagoan, who escaped Tuesday night from a correctional institution at Farmington, Mich., were recaptured today when an automobile they had stolen crashed into a truck near here.

The youths are Edwin Wood, 5656 North Melvina avenue, Chicago, and Louis Manning of Saginaw, Mich., both 16 years old. Wood's left arm was broken, and his companion suffered a broken jaw and a broken leg. They were placed in a detention ward of a Constantine, Mich., hospital.

Wood, a freshman in the Taft High school in Chicago, was seized in his home by police last May for stealing automobiles. Michigan police said he was committed to the Farmington institution under an arrangement providing for sending some Chicago juvenile delinquents there.

DENIES CHARGE THAT SURGEONS LACK TRAINING

Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern of Chicago, associate director of the American College of Surgeons, yesterday denied a charge by one of the fellows of the college that only 1 out of 20 American surgeons is adequately trained for his work.

The accusation was made Tuesday by Dr. Harold L. Foss, surgeon in chief of the Geisiner Memorial hospital at Danville, Pa., in a speech before the college, which is in convention at the Stevens hotel. Reaction to the speech was immediate, and yesterday there was little doubt that many of the convention delegates were miffed.

Dr. MacEachern, who also is chairman of the administrative board of the college, declared: "I think Dr. Foss made a very exaggerated statement, and that the publicity given to it might make people who need surgical attention hesitate to undergo an operation.

WISCONSIN GIRL DIES OF INJURIES IN TRUCK MISHAP

Doris Van Eren, 11 years old, died in the Swedish Covenant hospital last night of injuries suffered Aug. 12, when a truck in which she was riding overturned at Cicero and Foster avenues. The girl was coming into Chicago with her father, Alphonse Van Eren of Sobieski, Wis., with a load of farm produce when a tire blew out and wrecked the truck.

Walter G. Kennedy Dies of Injuries; Janitor Held

Boston, Mass., Oct. 23 [Special].—Walter Gardner Kennedy, 56, once wealthy head of the Boston bond house of Kennedy, Williams company, died today of a fractured skull received Oct. 5, when he was ejected from an apartment building by a janitor. Sergt. William H. Long ordered Henry L. Bissom, 46, the janitor, to be held. Mrs. Helen Metcalf, 50, a widow living in the building where Kennedy was injured, said she and Kennedy had been friends, and said that on Oct. 5, Bissom ejected Kennedy from her apartment because he had exceeded the 11 o'clock deadline for male guests.

Escaped Lunatic Blamed in Gas Dealer's Slaying

The slaying of Herman Klees, 66 years old, in the locked washroom of his filling station at 7951 Addison street on Tuesday, was believed by Jefferson Park police yesterday to have been the act of a lunatic who escaped a few days ago from the Dunning state hospital. Police were searching the neighborhood for the killer. Klees was beaten and stabbed in the face. He lived at 3808 Olcott avenue.

INSULL ESTATE TO PAY .001 OF A CENT ON DOLLAR

Creditors of the late Samuel Insull, who once controled a billion dollar utility empire, will receive from his estate about .001 of a cent on the dollar on their claims totaling $4,114,000, according to a final accounting of the estate filed yesterday with Probate Clerk Frank Lyman and approved by Clarence Wagner, assistant to the Probate judge.

Insull's estate totaled $9,091. Against this claims totaling $9,041 were approved, leaving a balance of $50, which goes into a beneficial trust for the other creditors. The creditors include several banks. In June, 1932, Insull turned over $2,000,000 to satisfy some claims.

Insull was 78 years old when he died July 16, 1938, in Paris, France. In the heyday of the utility empire his salary was $500,000 a year and in addition he took huge profits in security transactions.

Child Missing 50 Hours in Woods Found Alive

Sheppton, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP).—Missing more than 50 hours, 4 year old Rudy Kunchnibbn Jr., was found today, huddled between two large rocks in a densely wooded area near this eastern Pennsylvania hamlet. A neighbor, Mrs. John Barna, heard his cries as she helped more than 100 volunteer searchers. Physicians said he would recover, altho weak from exposure. The child, only son of a coal miner, wandered away from his home Monday morning.

GUARDSMEN URGE SELF CENSORSHIP BY PRESS, RADIO

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23 (AP).—The National Guard association voted unanimously today in favor of action to induce the nation's press and radio to adopt a policy of self censorship of articles which it said tend to sabotage the rearmament and mobilization program.

A resolution, approved without opposition at the association's convention, directed the organization's president to appoint a standing committee of three to carry out its provisions.

Following criticism of the strictness of physical examinations to which National Guard officers are subjected before being inducted into federal service, the convention also adopted a resolution recommending that the war department grant waivers to officers disqualified by the army examinations but who had passed the Guard's tests.

Maj. Gen. Edward Martin of Pennsylvania was elected president of the association, succeeding Maj. Gen. Walter A. Delamater of New York.

NEW U. OF IOWA HEAD TESTIFIES IN $110,000 SUIT

Virgil M. Hancher, Chicago attorney recently named president of the University of Iowa, testified yesterday in a $110,000 civil suit in which he is one of 20 defendants. His testimony was given before Samuel Berke, master in chancery, who was assigned to hear the case by Judge Oscar F. Nelson of the Superior court. The suit was brought by Thomas Tighe Jr., a stockholder of the Victory corporation, 231 South La Salle street, which was formed in 1928.

Tighe seeks to force the defendants, all of whom are stockholders, to pay a total of $110,000 in notes held by the corporation which it gave in lieu of cash for purchase of Victory stock.

Hancher, who received $5,900 worth of the stock while he was a $400 a month law clerk and in turn gave notes which now total about $7,000 including interest, testified he does not believe he is obligated on the notes on the grounds the stock was issued in violation of the blue sky law.

USHA OFFERING 100 MILLIONS OF ¼% NOTES TODAY

Crane Debenture Issue Also on Sale.

Offering of $100,000,000 in ¼ of 1 per cent notes of the United States Housing authority will be made today by the treasury thru the federal reserve banks. The notes, series E, are dated Nov. 1, 1940, and will mature a year from that date. They will be offered for subscription at par, will be fully guaranteed by the United States, and will be tax exempt.

Secretary Morgenthau said that if plans which the housing authority is working on materialize, it is expected that "private capital may be enlisted to provide permanent financing to local housing authorities of the whole cost of their projects."

"Consequently," he added, "the United States Housing authority may not need these funds for longer than one year to assist such projects, in which event the notes will be paid off in cash when they mature."

Offer Crane Debentures.

An underwriting group headed by Morgan Stanley & Co. will offer today $10,500,000 of 10 year 2¼ per cent debentures of the Crane company, Chicago manufacturer of plumbing appliances and a wide variety of industrial products. The price will be 101½, yielding the purchaser about 2.05 per cent. The coupon rate is one of the lowest recorded in recent years for an industrial issue. Proceeds will be used for the redemption of outstanding 3½ per cent debentures.

Merrill Lynch, E. A. Pierce & Cassatt and First of Michigan corporation will offer 38,000 shares of the capital stock of Parke, Davis & Co. at $31.50 a share. The stock was acquired by the bankers from individual stockholders. The company is a major producer of biological and pharmaceutical products.

Ask Water Issue Bids.

City Controler R. B. Upham yesterday asked for bids on Nov. 1 on $5,200,000 Chicago water revenue certificates, which represent unsold portions of previous authorizations.

Westvaco Chlorine Products corporation filed a registration statement with the SEC covering 60,000 shares of $4.50 cumulative preferred stock without par value. F. Eberstadt & Co., Inc., heads a group of 29 underwriters which proposes to make a public offering of the shares subject to an exchange offer by the company to holders of its present 5 per cent convertible preferred stock.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE The net proceeds from the sale of the Debentures (estimated at $10,424,049, excluding accrued interest, and after deducting expenses and underwriting discounts or commissions) will be used, together with treasury funds to the extent necessary, for the retirement of the Company's outstanding $10,600,000 principal amount of 3½% Debentures, due 1951, which the Company intends to call for redemption on December 1, 1940, at 101% of their principal amount ($10,706,000) plus accrued interest.

DEBENTURES The Ten Year 2¼% Sinking Fund Debentures, of which $10,500,000 principal amount are authorized, will not be secured by any lien. They will be issued under an Indenture dated as of October 1, 1940 between the Company and Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, as Trustee. No additional Debentures may be issued under the Indenture.

The Indenture does not limit the amount of other securities, secured or unsecured, which may be issued by the Company, but provides, among other things, that no mortgage or pledge (with various exceptions) may be placed on the Company's properties without ratably securing the Debentures. The Indenture also restricts distributions on the Company's common shares (except stock dividends) and purchases by the Company of its capital stock if such distributions or purchases reduce consolidated current assets below 125% of the sum of consolidated current liabilities and consolidated funded indebtedness, all determined as provided in the Indenture.

With certain exceptions the Indenture provisions may be added to, changed or eliminated with the consent of holders of not less than 66⅔% of outstanding Debentures; and certain other action may be taken or permitted by smaller percentages, all as set forth in the Indenture.

UNDERWRITING Subject to certain terms and conditions the Underwriters, including the undersigned and the others named in the Offering Prospectus, have severally agreed to purchase these Debentures from the Company at 100%, or a total of $10,500,000, and accrued interest. Such Debentures are to be offered to the public at 101½%, or a total of $10,657,500, and accrued interest. The underwriting discounts are 1½%, or a total of $157,500. Payment for and delivery of the Debentures are to be made on or after October 28, 1940, but not later than November 1, 1940.

Price 101½% and Accrued Interest

The Underwriters have agreed to purchase these Debentures when, as and if issued, and subject to the approval of Messrs. Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts, counsel for the Underwriters, and to certain further conditions. It is expected that delivery of Debentures in temporary form, exchangeable for definitive Debentures when prepared, will be made at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. Incorporated, on or about October 28, 1940, against payment therefor in New York funds.

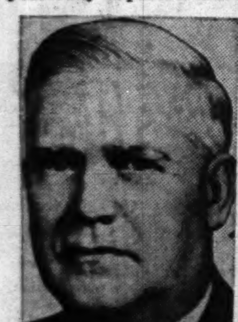
FIRMS IN MANY FIELDS REPORT LARGER INCOME

Reports Show Rise in Tax Bills.

Among the large companies which yesterday reported increased incomes were the Illinois Bell Telephone company, the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation, and the Acme Steel company.



A. H. Mellinger.

Illinois Bell Telephone realized net profit of $9,846,158, equivalent to $6.56 a share, in the nine months ended Sept. 30, compared with $9,670,371, or $6.45 a share, during the corresponding period last year, A. H. Mellinger, president, announced.

This year's report included provisions for additional federal taxes, he said. Virtually all of the company's stock is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Large Union Carbide Gain.

For the September quarter, Union Carbide and Carbon announced net income of $11,004,553, equal to $1.19 a share, against $8,400,326 and 92 cents a share a year ago. The company manufactures calcium carbide, batteries, alloys, and other products, and has general offices in New York City.

Acme Steel, a Chicago organization, had net profits of $602,688, equivalent to $1.84 a share, for three months ended Sept. 30, compared with $443,184, or $1.35 a share in the 1939 interval. The current report reflects provision for additional normal and excess profits taxes of $141,291, an amount equal to 43 cents a share, officials said.

In the nine months ended Sept. 30, the Otis Elevator company, large unit in its field, had net profits of $2,552,597, equal to $1.13 a share, contrasted with $2,419,678, or $1.06 a share, a year ago. Main offices of the company are in New York City.

Atlas Powder Net Higher.

Atlas Powder companay, which has received large government orders recently, announced net profits of $1,127,261 for the nine months ended with September, against $831,842 a year ago. Earnings per share were $3.48 and $2.31 in the respective periods.

Freeport Sulphur company reported September quarter net income of $816,525, equal to $1.02 a share, compared with $383,216 and 48 cents a share a year ago. The company's earnings for the nine month period were also more than doubled, amounting to $2,314,436, equal to $2.90 a share, against $1,038,211 a year ago, or $1.30 a share.

Procter & Gamble company, largest domestic producer of soap, reported net profit of $4,589,992, equal to 69 cents a share, for the September quarter, against $6,951,841 and $1.06 a share last year. The report did not include earnings of English and Canadian subsidiaries. General offices of the company are at Cincinnati, O.

Hits Missouri River Water Diversion Plan

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 23 [Special].—Proposed diversion from the Missouri river and its headwaters for irrigation and other purposes may so reduce the flow as to threaten navigation, Col. W. M. Hoge, United States district engineer assigned to Omaha, warned here today.

Col. Hoge said there are several projects under way or in the survey stage to divert upper Missouri waters. There isn't enough water in the Missouri basin to maintain a proper navigation flow and to supply the various projects unless each one is accompanied by provision for efficient water conservation, he added.

Col. Hoge's warning comes at a time when the water in the river is too low to carry boats.

Navigation Now Halted.

Since Sept. 13—when the army engineers refused to certify there was a six foot channel—commercial navigation on the Missouri has been stopped. Only a few craft—operated by engineers—now use the stream. The army tries to maintain a channel six feet deep. In some places the river now is that deep, but in many others it is 3 feet or less.

"There has been a considerable amount of diversion from the Yellowstone and Upper Missouri rivers for irrigation and a few minor ones below the junction of the two rivers," Col. Hoge stated. "If we are to have navigation on the Missouri we must consider maintenance of an adequate water supply in the whole Missouri river basin.

"There have been many proposals for a diversion of 1,000 second feet [the passage of 1,000 cubic feet of water a second past a given point]. I have even heard one visionary demand for 25,000 second feet at a point where the average flow is 15,000 to 16,000 second feet."

Dam Supply Used Up.

The flow in the Missouri river this year has been unusually low because of lack of rain in the basin area. It had been hoped Fort Peck dam—near Glasgow, Mont., would be completed in time to have the gates closed to catch the early rains. The gates weren't closed until March and water was stored only until June. Because of the drouth it was possible to store only about a third the water expected.

[Fort Peck dam is the largest earthwork structure in the world. About $200,000,000 already has been spent on the project, started in 1934, and there is still work to be done. It was recently announced that the dam area was to be made a vast game and wild life refuge.]

When the Missouri's waters ran low during the summer, all Fort Peck's impounded waters were released.. By Sept. 1 this water was used up and since that date there has been only the natural river flow—insufficient at this time to float barges and towboats. The flow here is only about a third the normal amount.

Warns Against Power Use.

It is expected that the Fort Peck gates will be closed about Nov. 1 and that water will be stored until July. If there is a normal snow and rainfall, the river should be able to carry navigation, using impounded waters, during the season from at least March 15 to Nov. 15. Ice blocks the river during the cold months.

Col. Hoge said that he hopes the water behind Fort Peck dam will be conserved for Missouri river navigation, since it "was bought and paid for in the interest of navigation." Use of water from the dam for power will mean that much less water will be available for navigation. Col. Hoge said that power produced at the dam would be sold to the reclamation bureau, presumably for use in pumping water for irrigation purposes.

"Flow necessary for the manufacture of power might better be saved for navigation," he said.

Barge Lines Use River.

The army engineers endeavor to maintain a 200 foot wide channel in the Missouri. It is slightly more than 400 river miles from the Mississippi to Kansas City and about 650 miles from the Mississippi to Omaha. The river meanders greatly and its swift flowing stream laden with silt creates many problems for the engineers. The width of the river—from shore to shore—may vary from 800 to 1,200 feet, but in arid seasons much of the bed is dry.

However, the river carries considerable tonnage. The Federal Barge Line this year handled 65,409 tons in and out of Kansas City. The Socony-Vacuum Oil company transports large amounts of oil out of the Kansas City area. The last season saw the start of a new service by the Sioux City-New Orleans Barge company. A test trip was made between Chicago and Omaha during the year and it is planned to start a service between the two cities in the spring.

Land Leased for Large Oil Storage Plant

BY AL CHASE.

Plans were nearing completion yesterday for one of the largest plants in the Chicago area for the storage of petroleum products. I. L. Schurman, president of the newly organized Marine Oil Terminal company, said that about $250,000 will be spent erecting facilities for the handling of 15 to 20 million gallons of petroleum products on land leased from the sanitary district of Chicago.

The district also negotiated a lease with a chemical company and renewed its lease with a big powder producer.

Schurman, who is also president of the Consumers Petroleum company, said that national defense activities are indirectly responsible for erection of the Midland plant.

Eight Acres Leased.

Final details on the lease have not been ironed out but according to the Sanitary district negotiations practically have been completed. The lease covers about eight acres on the south bank of the drainage canal, west of Cicero avenue, at 41st street extended. The land is to be leased for 99 years at a term rental of $177,800. The Mark Levy Realty company represented the lessee.

Gasoline, fuel oil and other petroleum products will be stored in the 12 tanks to be built, Schurman said. If work starts as soon as the lease is closed, the tanks will be completed next spring, he said. The company expects to do considerable shipping by water and also will have switch track connections with the Santa Fe railway.

The Consumers Petroleum company has a 1,500,000 gallon storage plant at 1725 West 31st street.

Chemical Firm Leases.

U. S. Industrial Chemicals, Inc., of New York, which has a distribution plant here at 3810 West 38th street, has leased a five and one-half acre tract just west of the Marine Oil Terminal company's proposed plant. The term is for 25 years with a total rental of $51,900.

J. F. Rudolph, division manager of the company, said that two tanks for the storage of industrial alcohol, with a capacity of 360,000 gallons, are being built at a cost of approximately $50,000.

The company does no basic manufacturing in Chicago. It has plants in Baltimore, New Orleans, Newark, and at Anaheim, Cal., where it manufactures various types of industrial chemicals.

The Hercules Powder company of Delaware renewed its lease on 54.82 acres adjoining the drainage canal at Mount Forest [Willow Springs] for five years. It pays $548 annually.

BUTTER PRICE PEGGING AGENCY TO PURCHASE SUPPLIES OF DRY MILK

Activity of the Dairy Products Marketing association will be broadened to include dry skimmed milk, A. L. Ronneberg, general manager, announced yesterday. Heretofore this government subsidized agency has confined its price stabilization efforts to butter.

"Bids for dry skimmed milk will be opened on Oct. 31," Ronneberg said. "The quantity bought will depend on the price and the quality offered. The milk will be turned over to the department of agriculture." He said he did not know what the department intended to do with the milk.

Officials of Dry Milk Industry, trade association, said its members expressed surprise that the government should offer to buy dry skimmed milk, especially in view of the recent British purchases. The association said there was little or no surplus of the product.

APPOINTS AGENT TO COLLECT NOTE DUE TO 'L' LINES

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday appointed Earl B. Deremer, New York attorney, agent to collect a $575,000 obligation due the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] under an advertising contract. The sum is owed by the Chicago Elevated Advertising company, an affiliate of the Barron G. Collier chain of car card advertising firms.

Elevated lines' officials said that the advertising company has paid part but not all of the sums due the "L" for space in the last eight years. They said payments made have averaged over $400,000 a year, but that additional sums of $70,000 to $80,000 a year were not paid.

Several units in the Collier system have been forced into receivership in recent months. Deremer was directed by the court to try to collect the overdue sum from three guarantor companies. He will receive 15 to 25 per cent of collections.

DIRECTORS VOTE MERGER OF LOFT AND PEPSI-COLA

New York, Oct. 23 (AP).—Directors of Loft, Inc., and Pepsi-Cola company at meetings today approved a plan for merger of Loft into the latter. A special meeting of stockholders of both companies to act on the plan was called for Nov. 22.

Under the merger proposal, each share of Loft stock "other than that owned by Pepsi-Cola company" would be converted into one share of new stock of new Pepsi-Cola, and each share of present Pepsi-Cola stock "other than that owned by Loft, Inc.," would be converted into 8.4 shares of new Pepsi-Cola stock.

After the merger there would be outstanding 1,913,815 shares of new Pepsi-Cola stock.

ELECTRIC POWER OUTPUT REACHES NEW RECORD HIGH

Production of electricity in the United States last week reached an all-time peak level, the Edison Electric Institute reported yesterday. It topped the previous record set in the week ended Sept. 28, by 17,138,000 kilowatt hours.

Electric power production last week aggregated 2,686,799,000 kilowatt hours, 0.1 per cent more than in the preceding week and 7.7 per cent ahead of the comparable period in 1939.

Defense Plans Boom Chicago Area Activity

More plant expansion was authorized in the Chicago industrial area within the last 30 days than in any month during the last 10 years, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. Fifty or more construction projects involving the expenditure of 48 million dollars were planned, the association said, and attributed the upturn largely to national defense preparations.

Thus far in 1940, the area's industrial expansion has approached 100 million dollars in expenditures by more than 300 companies, according to a survey by the trade group. The vast munitions plant to be built near Wilmington, Ill., contributed a large share toward the total.

New Contracts Awarded.

Meanwhile, further orders for the national preparedness program to Illinois firms were announced yesterday in Washington, D. C. Among contracts awarded by the war department were a $2,825,030 order to the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company and a $2,160,000 contract to the Revere Copper and Brass company, both of Chicago, for artillery ammunition parts. Orders totaling $68,000,000 were placed with other companies thruout the country.

The navy department awarded a $5,800 contract to the N. P. Severin company, Chicago, for construction of a concrete stack at the naval supply depot, Oakland, Cal., and a $135,399 contract for a submarine training device to the Askania Regulator company, Chicago.

Other contracts granted to Illinois firms by the navy were to the Caterpillar Tractor company, Peoria, tractors, $21,031; the Illinois Pure Aluminum company, Lemont, water pitchers, $22,375, and the Aluminum Products company, La Grange, aluminum ware, $43,459.

Start on Plane Factory.

Construction of a $32,000,000 airplane engine plant of the Wright Aeronautical corporation, near Cincinnati, O., was begun yesterday. Completion is set for next spring.

The war department has approved an order to the Tennessee Coal Iron and Railway company for six inch forgings valued at approximately $12,000,000, Col. Theodore Swann, chief of the Birmingham ordnance district, announced in Birmingham, Ala. The navy department announced the award of a $1,786,500 contract for additions to Bancroft hall and the new recitation hall at the Annapolis naval academy.

PAY TO DRAFTEES RULED EXEMPT OF WAGE TAXES

Supplementary wages to draftees are considered gifts and the employer does not have to pay a pay roll tax on them, Martin P. Durkin, state director of labor, said yesterday.

"Many Illinois employers are adopting the policy of supplementing the military pay of employés who are called for training," he said.

"The Illinois unemployment compensation act clearly defines wages as remuneration for personal services, whatever form the remuneration may take. Since a man who is in a military encampment is not in a position to render personal services to his employer, it is obvious that the employment relationship has been terminated for the period of his training."

Six Petroleum Employes to Get $25,000 Back Pay

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23 (AP).—The National Labor Relations board announced today it had approved an offer by the Phillips Petroleum company, Okmulgee, Okla., to comply with a board order of last May by awarding back pay of approximately $25,000 to six employés found by the agency to have been discriminated against because of union activities.

CANADA SEEKING TO SAVE U. S. DOLLAR SUPPLY

Ban on Semi-Luxury Imports Studied.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

With Canadian orders for American made war goods reaching the delivery stage in increasing volume, necessitating payment, the dominion government is intensifying its efforts to conserve its supply of United States dollars, developments in Ottawa indicated yesterday.

It was learned that Canada, seeking to shut off the flow of essential materials into semiluxuries, is considering placing a ban on Canadian manufacture of such products as electric refrigerators and the higher priced automobiles. Another probability, it was indicated, is an indirect curb on imports of such goods, thereby reducing exchange requirements.

Would Conserve Factory Space.

The program, still in the "talk stage," would have a three-fold effect, as follows:

1. It would conserve steel and other materials essential to armaments.
2. It would make more factory facilities available for arms production.
3. Thru an indirect curb on imports of certain American goods, it would increase the amount of United States dollars available for purchase of American warplanes and other military supplies.

The import curb would be effected thru refusal of import licenses or exchange permits in connection with the purchase of imported refrigerators and the costlier automobiles.

Imports Exceeding Exports.

As actual deliveries by American companies on Canadian war orders increase, the drain on the dominion supply of United States dollars grows.

The extent of Canada's problem is indicated by trade figures covering the first eight months of 1940. These show that Canada imported from America $160,000,000 more merchandise than it exported to this country. This excess of imports over exports had to be paid for in United States dollars or gold. Canada exported $134,000,000 of nonmonetary gold to help fill the gap, leaving $26,000,000 which had to be paid from the Canadian exchange control board's gold or American dollar holdings.

However, the tangible dealings in merchandise do not include all of the factors involved in the problem. Counting interest payments and other transfers of funds, offset in part by receipts from tourists, Canada had to dig into its dollar reservoir to the extent of $100,000,000 in the first half of 1940 to settle with the United States, the Bank of Canada estimated.

Tourists Denied Cash.

The bank said this trade "deficit" may total $300,000,000 for all of 1940.

Since the war began, Canada has enacted numerous foreign trade controls designed to conserve supplies of United States dollars. One of the latest is a 10 per cent war exchange tax on imports.

Automobile excise taxes have been increased, importers and exporters have been required to license all transactions, restrictions on transfers of funds across the border in securities and banking transactions have been adopted, and Canadian tourist travel to other countries has been shut off.

The ban on travel by Canadians is indirect. The government does not forbid its citizens to travel abroad, but it forbids them to take any money. The ban applies to travel for pleasure. Trips which authorities consider necessary are permitted.

TOP STEERS RISE 40 CENTS TO NEW THREE YEAR HIGH

Top grades of steers soared yesterday to a new 34 months' peak of $14.50 a hundredweight at the Chicago stockyards. This price was 40 cents above the previous high mark, established last week, and second highest for the month of October in 11 years.

Packers also paid up to $13 for best heifers, averaging 956 pounds. A two way market existed, however. Most medium to good steers were slow and weak to 25 cents lower. All except the top loads of heifers were weak. Beef cows extended Tuesday's decline 15 to 25 cents for the two days.

A large share of the best grades of hogs weighing over 200 pounds brought strong to 10 cents higher prices, but lighter stock weakened late in the session, closing a shade lower.

Slaughter lambs sold steady to 15 cents lower, top natives going at $9.50.

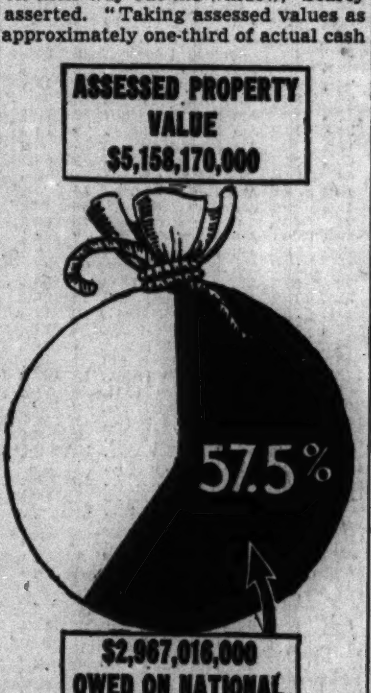
Sixth of State Mortgaged by U. S.—Searcy

The share of Illinois residents in the federal debt load, approaching 49 billion dollars, has risen to 57.5 per cent of the assessed value of all property in the state, State Senator Earl B. Searcy [R.], of Springfield reported in a survey announced yesterday.

Searcy warned that unless the rise in the national debt is halted by a balanced budget, the end of property rights thru confiscatory taxation is in sight.

"Such property rights as have not been already sacrificed to government rackets—state and national—are fast on their way out the window," Searcy asserted. "Taking assessed values as approximately one-third of actual cash values, my survey shows that more than one sixth of all Illinois property today is under potential mortgage to the federal government, for federal debt alone."



Illinois' share of national debt compared with assessed valuation of all property within the state.

Each American Owes $377.

In his analysis, Searcy computed the national debt as equal to $377 a person by dividing it among 130 million residents. Using this basis, Illinois with a population of 7,874,000 owes $2,967,016,000 of the national debt. The assessed valuation of all Illinois property is $5,158,170,000, Searcy reported.

"Quietly, steadily this blight of federal debt has spread its blanket," Searcy said. "Some one has computed that the national debt today is equivalent to 34 per cent of the assessed valuation of all taxable property in the United States. If 34 per cent is the national average, then we of Illinois are in a bad way indeed.

"A study of the situation reveals that, with a dictatorship imposed upon the United States, unscrupulous hands could reach into every section of our state, and with methodical impartiality, claim for federal satisfaction a big share of property in Illinois."

Exceeds Values in Some Areas.

Searcy said that in nine of the 102 counties in the state, the national debt share exceeds the amount of the total assessed property valuation. In 49 counties the share of the debt load is equal to more than half the assessed valuation. In Cook county the share is 64 per cent of the valuation.

Searcy also charged that local taxes are rising along with the federal debt burden.

"Local tax problems have become burden enough in every one of Illinois' counties," he said. "Rates are slowly, yet steadily going up. Delinquencies retain their steady stand, and the farmer, the home owner, the laboring man, the fellow in business—all sweat and wonder how to meet the next tax collector."

743 U. S. PLANES SHIPPED BRITAIN IN YEAR OF WAR

All Purchases Total 780 Millions.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23 (AP).—Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones reported today that the United States had shipped $780,000,000 of goods to Great Britain during the first year of the war. Included were 743 airplanes valued at $72,163,000.

The total was 57 per cent more than in the 12 months preceding the start of war on Sept. 3, 1939. Shipments to the United Kingdom last November were only 10.8 per cent of total exports, but by August they had risen to 36 per cent.

Buy Vital War Products.

Jones said that British purchases "have shifted sharply toward products vital to the conduct of war, including particularly aircraft and parts, explosives, firearms, metals and metal working machinery, industrial chemicals and petroleum products."

A breakdown showed that the British had received 278 planes during August, or more than one-third of the year's total. The August peak in plane shipments represented an increase of 105 over the July total and 181 more than were sent in June. Only two planes were shipped to Britain in March, while a year ago this month none was shipped. As recently as May, the British received only 19 planes.

British purchases of all kinds of goods, Jones said, had risen from $49,415,000 in May to $123,090,000 in August.

33 Millions in Arms.

Essential war products shipped Britain during the year included: Explosives and fuses valued at $11,077,000; firearms and ammunition, $33,198,000; metal working machinery, $70,478,000; iron and steel, $70,710,000; aluminum, $12,765,00; copper, $19,845,000; brass and bronze, $4,092,000; nickel, monel metal and alloys, $4,492,000; petroleum and petroleum products, $56,298,000; industrial chemicals, $8,693,000; Zinc, $1,672,000; and ferro-alloys $3,597,000.

Other commodities sent to Great Britain during the year were valued at more than $410,000,000.

Exports Also Increase.

London, Oct. 23 (AP).—British imports for the second September of the war were up more than £30,000,000 [$120,000,000], compared with last year and exports increased £8,000,000 [$32,000,000], the British board of trade announced today.

Last month's imports totaled £80,632,123 [approximately $322,528,000], compared with £49,894,916 [$199,579,000] in September, 1939. Exports were £31,177,290 [$124,709,000], against £23,087,245 [$92,348,000].

For the first nine months of 1940 imports were £872,692,246 [approximately $3,490,000,000], or £217,086,109 [$868,344,000] more than in the corresponding period of 1939. Exports were £343,594,375 [$1,374,377,000], an increase of £6,885,412 [$27,541,000] over the 1939 period.

STOCK MARKET SURGES AHEAD IN LARGER VOLUME

Analysts Unable to Find Cause for Advance.

New York, Oct. 23 (AP).—Steel, copper, and rubber shares formed the vanguard of a broad stock market advance today, extending the rise which began Tuesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks gained .3 of a point at 44.8. The volume of transactions was largest in three weeks, totaling 807,040 shares compared with 535,730 yesterday.

As has been usual in recent sessions, activity increased only on the upswing. When prices wavered from time to time during the day under the impact of profit-taking, the periods of selloff were short and transactions light.

The most active risers among the shares included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Wheeling Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, United States Rubber, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, Douglas, United Aircraft, United States Gypsum, Johns-Manville, Air Reduction, Western Union, Santa Fe, Great Northern preferred, and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Chicago Stocks.

Prices continued their upward surge on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Of the 105 issues traded, 55 advanced, 18 declined, and 32 closed unchanged. Turnover increased to 25,000 shares from 23,000 Tuesday. Middle West was the volume leader for the third consecutive day, closing at 7½, up ¼.

New York Bonds.

New York, Oct. 23 (AP).—Loans of speculative rating today kept in motion the bond market's slow October upturn. For an assortment of rail and industrial issues in the lower price brackets traders paid from fractions to 7 points above previously quoted prices. Low yield bonds were steady to firm and United States government closed with a fair number of gains running to around ⅛ of a point.

The foreign list was mixed. Obligations of Japan extended their recent rally. Market transactions totaled $6,305,300, face value, against $5,800,700 yesterday.

Bank Stocks.

City National shares advanced 2 points yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Chicago Title, Continental Illinois and La Salle National each gained a point. First National was a point lower.

GRAIN FUTURES AGAIN CLIMB TO SEASONAL PEAKS

American grain markets advanced again yesterday with December wheat and corn selling at new high prices since last May. Both May and July wheat and corn and all deliveries of oats reached new seasonal peaks.

Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were about the top. Wheat gained ½ to ¾ cent a bushel and corn was ⅞ to 1⅜ cents higher. Oats gained ⅜ to ⅝ cent and rye ⅜ to ⅞ cent. Soy beans finished ¼ cent higher to ¼ cent lower.

December wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade sold at 87⅞ cents at one time or 6⅞ cents above the government loan basis and 19⅛ cents above the low price of last August.

Dollar wheat became a reality in the northwest, Minneapolis quoting extra fancy amber durum at $1.06½ at the close. There has been a short-at the close.

Commodities

Price trends were irregular in commodity futures markets yesterday but there were enough gains to extend the general upturn of the last several days. Zinc, tin, domestic sugar, Santos coffee, silk, cocoa, and cottonseed oil reached higher ground. Hides slumped ¼ to nearly ½ cent a pound following the previous day's steep rise, and copper, lead and world sugar dipped. Wool tops and rubber were uneven.

INSURANCE LOAN PROBLEM ACUTE, CLEARY REPORTS

Northwestern Finds Good Investments Scarce.

Michael J. Cleary.

Where to place money so that it will return a profit continues to be one of the greatest problems confronting insurance companies, M. J. Cleary, president of the Northwest Mutual Life Insurance company, Milwaukee, stated yesterday in a report to the trustees covering operations during the first nine months of 1940. He said that all other factors in the company's activities are moving in a reasonably satisfactory direction.

"The outlet for new money in both the mortgage and bond fields continues at a low level," Cleary said. "However, as a result of an intensive effort by our personnel in both divisions, the company has succeeded in finding outlets.

Company Sells More Farms.

"During the first nine months our investment in all branches of the mortgage loan department, including city, farm, and residence loans, have shown an increase totaling approximately $11,000,000 over a year ago. Construction in the commercial and office building fields is still stagnant and consequently very little new money is required in these fields."

Cleary said there has been a rather active demand for farms during this year. Sale of farms held by the company has been materially ahead of last year. Prices have been steady.

He said crop conditions have been reasonably good and the price level for farm products has improved.

Holds Fewer U. S. Bonds.

"While the supply of satisfactory securities in the bond field has been thin," he continued, "We have been successful in investing the company's funds in corporate and municipal securities. More than $77,000,000 was invested in these fields during the first nine months of the year. Our holding of government and government guaranteed securities is at the lowest point it has reached in the last three years."

Cleary said that as of Sept. 30 total assets of the company exceeded 1 billion, 340 millions, for a new all time high. Insurance in force approached 3 billion 938 millions. Operations during the first nine months of the year produced a total income of $160,388,836, while disbursements amounted to $110,496,472.

CONSOLIDATED OIL.

Consolidated Oil common appears to be selling quite low. I would like to have a report on the company's operations, earnings, and dividend record for the last several years. What is the connection between this company and the Sinclair interests?—F. S. K.

Answer: The Consolidated Oil corporation and its subsidiaries comprise an integrated oil producing, transporting, refining, and marketing organization with total assets of approximately $358,000,000. The company's refined products are sold in all parts of the country except on the west coast.

Harry F. Sinclair is chairman of the executive committee of the company's board of directors. Sinclair Refining company is the chief marketing and refining subsidiary.

Unsettling influences in the petroleum industry in the last two years, partly caused by the development of new oil fields and by a surplus of gasoline stocks, have held this company's profits below the level attained from 1935 thru 1937. This occurred despite the increase of gasoline sales by the company in each year since 1932.

Net income, earnings per share, and dividends per share in recent years compared as follows:

	Net income.	Earned per share.	Dividends per share.
1935	$11,307,000	$0.74	$0.25
1936	16,729,000	1.18	0.80
1937	20,809,000	1.48	0.90
1938	7,738,000	0.55	0.80
1939	7,841,000	0.55	0.80

For the first half of 1940 net income rose to $2,080,027, equal to 15 cents a share, compared with a net loss of $872,671 in the first half of 1939.

Capitalization of Consolidated Oil consists of $70,481,429 in funded debt and 13,751,726 shares of no par common stock. Dividends on the common were paid from 1922 to 1925, from 1929 to 1932, and continuously after 1933.

Three quarterly dividends of 20 cents each have been paid this year on the stock and 12½ cents a share will be disbursed Nov. 15 on stock of record Oct. 15.

FARM WORKERS.

Are farm hands covered by the old age and survivors' benefits system of the social security act?—G. D.

Answer: Farm labor is excluded from the old age and survivors' benefit provisions of the law. The exclusion also bars farm workers employed in processing, packing, and otherwise preparing farm products for market.
